MORATORIUM ON GERMANY'S CASH PAYMENTS IS NOW CONSIDERED LIKELY

Such Action by Reparations Commission Is Thought to Be Quite Probable and Would Apply for the Remainder of This Year.

OFFICIAL REQUEST NOT YET PRESENTED

Berlin Agents Emphasize Inability to Make Gold Deliveries for Many Months to Come, in Discussions Preliminary to the Sessions.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 11.—A moratorium on Germany's cash payments for the remainder of this year is believed in circles close to the Reparations Commission, to be quite probable as a result of a conference this forenoon between Dr. Fischer, chairman of the German War Debts Commission, and all the members of the commission hurriedly called in informal session.

COMMISSION PLANS TO CONSIDER ALL PHASES OF CRISIS

PARIS, July 11.—With Germany facing complete bankruptcy and monarchist intrigues for the overthrow of the republic; with soviet Russia's delegates at The Hague wading former negotiations, and with France openly, although unofficially, proposing the cancellation of the war debts to Great Britain, the reparation commission yesterday resumed its deliberations on the problem of averting a financial collapse in Europe.

Dr. Fischer, secretary of State of the German War Debts Commission; Herr Schroeder, Under-Secretary of the Ministry of Finance, conferred informally with the various commissioners, including Sir John Bradbury of Great Britain.

What, if anything, was accomplished in the conversations cannot be ascertained. It was stated, however, that Berlin's formal demand for a moratorium covering the cash payments demanded of her for the balance of this year and for next year as well, had not yet been presented.

Stand of the Germans.

The German envoys, however, emphasized the inability of their government to make any further gold deliveries for many months to come, owing to the disastrous fall of the mark.

The reparations commission, I am informed, will convene today, prepared to study all phases of the situation. Louis Dubois, chairman of the commission, and its French member, and Premier Poincare, held a preliminary conference today.

The Premier's position, I am authentically informed, is that the present crisis in Germany has been brought about by the German desire to escape reparational obligations. He believes the murder of Foreign Minister Rathenau was the result of that statesman's desire to impose forms of taxation that would have enabled his country to pay.

Poincare's View.

The monarchists, on the other hand, who, the Premier is convinced, will usurp the powers of government in the event of the present Cabinet's fall, are determined to prevent any reforms that will interfere with the making of big profits by German business interests.

Premier Poincare's view is that until there is a diversion of these profits into the Berlin treasury, and hence to the reparation commission's coffers, there will be no hope of a solution of the problem that will be acceptable to France.

He has no fear of a Bolshevist uprising in Germany. The only source of danger in his view is the reactionary Right.

Meanwhile he considers The Hague conference a failure. The French delegation has been instructed to tolerate no longer what he describes as the "cynical disingenuousness of Moscow's envoys."

YOUNG DAUGHTER OF EDITOR AVENGES SLAYING OF FATHER

15-Year-Old Mexican Girl Kills Man Who Was a Principal in Sensational Affair Last May.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, July 11.—Maria Del Pilar Moreno, a 15-year-old girl late yesterday avenged the death of her father, Jesus Z. Moreno, editor of El Heraldo de Mexico, who was shot and killed last May by deputy Francisco Tejeda Llorca, after a quarrel.

Marie waited before Tejeda Llorca's home as he stepped from the doorway, fired four times at a few feet distance, killing him instantly. The girl calmly surrendered to the police. She expressed no regrets, saying she swore vengeance over her father's body and, now that his death had been expiated, she was prepared to pay the penalty.

A sensation was caused in Mexico City by the killing of Editor Moreno by Deputy Tejeda Llorca, which took place at the entrance to the interior department building. The motive for the killing was believed to have been the editor's attacks in the columns of his newspapers on what he called political evils.

100 AIRPLANES BURNED AT SCOTT FIELD STATION

Heavier-Than-Air Equipment Being Eliminated at Post—Most Were Condemned.

About 100 airplanes which were used at Scott Field, near Belleville, during the war, were burned there Friday and Saturday, it was learned today, on orders of the War Department. Scott Field is now a lighter-than-air station, and all heavier-than-air equipment is being cleared out.

Attempts to buy some of the planes for commercial uses failed because the War Department held that the planes were unsafe. A few that are considered safe will be sent to a heavier-than-air field.

Col. C. G. Hall, commandant of the field, said that the planes were dismantled and that the engines and all serviceable parts were saved. He was unable to state the original cost of the planes.

TARIFF BILL IN PRESENT FORM DOESN'T PLEASE EDGE

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Announcing that he was far from satisfied with the administration tariff bill in its present form, Senator Edge, Republican, New Jersey, served notice today in the Senate that he would not vote for the measure if it failed to provide, otherwise than through congressional action, some method by which individual schedules could be revised as circumstances and investigation should warrant. Provision for such revision by the President is contained in the bill.

ONE-MAN CAR JUMPS TRACK

Operator Injured and Car Damaged When It Crashes Into Pole.

A one-man street car on the Clayton line jumped the track when east-bound on Wydown avenue, at Skinker road at 12:30 a. m. today and crashed into an iron trolley pole in the center of the street bordering Forest Park, tearing away the front vestibule of the car.

William Mullarkey, 30 years old, of 5239 Garfield avenue, in charge of the car was caught in the wreckage in the front end. His nose, face and neck were cut and both feet injured. A passenger on the car, whose name the police failed to ascertain, was not injured. A passing automobile took Mullarkey to a doctor's office and from there to his home. The damage to the car was estimated at $900. Mullarkey explained to the police that as he approached the curve leading into Skinker road he applied the brakes, but they did not hold.

THREE OTHER PERSONS SERIOUSLY INJURED

Men in Charge of Trucks Say They Had Stopped by Roadside to Light Tail Lanterns.

A man and two children were killed and three other persons seriously injured when an automobile crashed into the rear of a seven and a half ton truck on the national highway, one mile west of Troy, Ill., which is 20 miles east of St. Louis, at 5 o'clock last night. The dead, all residents of East St. Louis, are:

Milton C. Webb, 27 years old.
Henry Forest Jr., 8.

The injured, also residents of East St. Louis, are:

Mrs. Bessie T. Zerweck, 49, internal injuries and severely bruised head.

Boy Killed Outright.

The Forest boy was killed outright. The girl, who suffered fracture of the skull, died a few minutes after being taken to Troy, and Webb, who operated the automobile, died at 10 o'clock. He was so tightly jammed in the wreckage that it was necessary to break up the steering post and wheel to extricate him. The dead were taken to an undertaking establishment at Troy, and the injured to the Deaconness Hospital, East St. Louis.

The accident occurred on a clear part of the highway, which is a new concrete road, running from East St. Louis to Chicago. Two huge trucks, each of 15,000 pounds capacity, of the Highland Dairy Farms Co., which haul bottled milk daily from Highland, Ill., to St. Louis, were returning to Highland and were stopped along the edge of the road, a mile this side of Troy, so that lanterns serving as tail lights could be lit.

Truck Knocked 50 Feet.

The men in charge of the trucks, Irwin Tschennan and Gottlieb Beckman of Highland, told W. C. Brownlow, manager of the Dairy Farms Co., that they had lit the lanterns and were climbing back on the trucks when the crash occurred, and that the impact was so great that it knocked the rear truck about 50 feet against the other truck.

Other motorists along the highway said the automobile operated by Webb, a seven-passenger touring car, was running at a rapid rate a few moments before the crash.

The condition of the injured is such that they have been unable to give a coherent account of what occurred.

It was disclosed after the accident that Webb had married Mrs. Zerweck's daughter, Miss Bessie M. Zerweck, at Olney, Ill., last Dec. 1.

Man, Injured When Train Hit Auto Near Granite City, Dies.

Wyman Schevartz, 22 years old, of East Alton, died this morning in St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Granite City, from injuries suffered at 12:30 a. m. Sunday, when the automobile in which he was riding was struck by the locomotive of a C. & E. I. passenger train at Mitchell crossing, 7 miles north of Granite City. The driver of the machine, Elmer Jenkins, 19, also of East Alton, was killed outright in the accident. The machine, a Ford, was demolished.

Schevartz's injuries were concussions and internal injuries, and he was paralyzed and rendered unable to speak.

WALKER MAKES 21ST HOMER

Philadelphia Player Passes Williams of Browns.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—"Tillie" Walker of the "Athletics" made his twentieth and twenty-first home runs of the season today, hitting one in the first inning of the first game of the double-header with Detroit and another in the third inning of the second game.

The two home runs give Walker the lead over Williams of the Browns, who had been ahead in the American league with 20.

EXTENSIVE DAMAGE TO PROPERTY FROM MID-WEST STORM

SOUTH DAKOTA TOWN ALMOST WIPED OUT

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Middle Western states were recovering today from the effects of hail, rain and windstorms which swept over Iowa, Missouri, South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas yesterday, causing extensive property damage and a small loss of life. In sections of these states where the precipitation was not excessive reports said crops were benefited, in some places the rain breaking long drouths.

Heaviest damage, according to reports, occurred in South Dakota and Missouri. A tornado at St. Charles, S. D., virtually wiped out the town of 100 population. One man was killed and scores slightly injured. Damage was estimated at $75,000.

In the vicinity of Lake Andes farm buildings were destroyed and summer cottages blown down, bringing the property loss to $800,000.

Two Killed in Nebraska.

Two persons were killed near Sargeant, Neb., as a result of a heavy wind, rain and hail storm last night. A 12-year-old boy was pinned under a wagon and drowned in a water-filled ditch when the team he was driving ran away during the hailstorm. Rivers throughout Missouri and Nebraska are reported to be out of their banks, with farm lands under water. Flood warnings have been issued. The rainfall was general over Nebraska.

General rainfall was reported over Wisconsin and several lives were lost as a result of electric storms.

Crops Were Benefited.

Crops were generally benefited by the rain.

Kansas and Iowa both reported heavy rains, and in the latter State property damage was reported, with a small loss of life due to falling buildings and electrical disturbances.

Relief from the heat wave, which has been sweeping over the Middle West, and local showers are predicted for today.

Wind Causes Heavy Damage in Kansas City.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 11.—Wind damage by last night's rainstorm here was greater than first reports indicated, according to estimates today by city and business officials.

Storm damage to the Kansas City Power and Light Co. was the heaviest in the records of the company, H. C. Blackwell, general manager, said today. He predicted the loss would run into thousands of dollars. Two thousand men are busy today repairing cables and wires. About 8000 telephones are useless. Thousands of homes were in darkness last night following the storm.

Damage to trees and paths in city parks and along driveways and boulevards will amount to between $15,000 and $20,000, Thomas Harrington, secretary of the park board, said.

Only 1.69 inches of rainfall was recorded in the 24 hours ending at 7 o'clock today, P. Connor, local Government Observer, reported. The intensity of the storm, he said, gave the impression of a much heavier precipitation.

Rains accompanied by high winds were general in Kansas and Missouri. The heaviest reported was at Winfield, Kan., where 7.06 inches fell. Precipitation at Sedalia and Wellington, Kan., was 6 inches. Wichita, Kan., reported 2.62 inches of rain, accompanied by a 68-mile gale.

ZITA IS KEPT IN SPAIN

(Copyright, 1922.)

LONDON, July 11.—It is unlikely that the allies will allow the former Empress Zita of Austria-Hungary to go to Germany. The correspondent was so informed yesterday in connection with the report that she is planning to go to Grunewald, near Munich, where her mother is living.

It is understood she will not be allowed to leave Spain for any other place of residence until she gives a pledge she will abstain from all further intrigues for the restoration of the Hapsburgs to the throne.

RADIOACTIVITY IS FOUND IN VEGETABLE BY ENGLISH WOMAN

Crystals Heretofore Unknown to Science Formed When Experimental Mixture Explodes.

(Copyright, 1922.)

LONDON, July 11.—The Daily Express reports the discovery by Mrs. Maude Dickinson, an English physicist and member of the Royal Institute, of a mysterious vegetable matter capable of forming radio-active crystals perhaps heretofore unknown to science.

This vegetable matter she calls scarab because of its remarkable resemblance to the Egyptian beetle, which the ancients believed was self-created by the "father of all gods."

Mrs. Dickinson's scarab, placed in a seal bottle, emanates tiny crystals that appear on the outside of the bottle. It is said these crystals are now being used successfully by the authorities of Brighton, where Mrs. Dickinson lives, to remove deposits in the water pipes of the municipal baths. They seem, in fact, available for all the usual commercial radio-active ends.

But the origin of the scarab is what is puzzling Mrs. Dickinson.

"I was experimenting with vegetable oils," she said, "when I casually noticed small crystals at the mouth of the jar. Their presence puzzled me. I submitted them to London chemists. They suggested fusing over a Bunsen burner. When I did so there was an alarming and most unexpected explosion. When it was over I found a small white crystallike diamond and, more surprising still, this tiny radio-active substance, about the size of the head of a pin, which apparently is vegetable rather than mineral."

WARD DENIED DISMISSAL OF FIRST DEGREE MURDER COUNT

Wealthy New York Baker's Son Now to Stand Trial for Murder of Ex-Sailor.

By the Associated Press.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 11.—Supreme Court Justice Seger late today denied an application of Walter S. Ward, wealthy baker's son, for dismissal of the first degree murder indictment charging him with the slaying of Clarence Peters, a former sailor.

Justice Seegar, however, ordered Ward released in $50,000 bail, holding there wer several circumstances in connection wit hthe case which made it seem unfair that Ward be held in prison to await trial next October.

TENTATIVE PLAN FOR AMERICAN EVACUATION OF SANTO DOMINGO

Program to Be Carried Out If Dominican People Approve, State Department Announces.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The State Department announced today that a tentative program for evacuation of Santo Domingo by American military forces had been agreed on with a group of Dominiocan leaders who have been in Washington for several months on their own initiative in conference with department officials.

The program will be carried out, the statement said, "as soon as it can be ascertained whether it meets with the approval of a majority of the Dominican people."

WILLIAMS MAKES 21ST HOMER, BUT IT COUNTS FOR NEW YORK

Browns' Outfielder, Trying for Catch, Hits Ward's Liner Into Bleachers With His Glove.

NEW YORK, July 11. — Kenneth Williams of the Browns today made his twenty-first home run of the season, but it counted for New York.

In the second inning Ward of the Yankees hit a line drive to left field which would have hit the fence and bounded back upon the playing field. Williams leaped up in an effort to make a catch with his gloved hand, but instead gave the ball greater height by hitting it with his glove and the ball went over the fence for a home run.

GARVAN TELLS WHY HE SOLD DYE PATENTS TO HIMSELF

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 11.—The Germans had a strangle-hold on American industrial development by possession of 4747 dye and drug patents, says Francis P. Garvan, the former Alien Property Custodian.

As a patriot, Garvan says, to give Americans unrestricted use of these patents, he sold them to himself as president of the Chemical Foundation, Inc., for $250,000, under a title which compels the Foundation to license the patents to any American who is willing to pay the fixed license fee.

Navy Recruiting to Be Resumed.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—After a year's suspension, recruiting for the navy, under orders published today, will be resumed. Sixty-five thousand men will have to enlist or re-enlist in the coming year in order to keep the navy up to the 86,000 men authorized under the naval appropriation bill.

"BIG FOUR" TO MAKE PROTEST OVER ORDER TO DO STRIKERS' WORK

INTERFERENCE WITH MAILS BY STRIKERS IS GROWING

Superintendent at St. Louis Reports 3000 Miles of Railway Mail Service on Wabash Are Not Being Operated.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 11. — The determination of the Federal Government to maintain transportation of mails and interstate commerce during the railway shopmen's strike failed to check today the stream of reports to the Postoffice Department of interference by strikers with mail trains.

S. A. Cisler, superintendent of railway mail service at St. Louis, reported in telegrams to Postmaster-General Work that 3000 miles of railway mail service on the Wabash Railway were not being operated. Cisler added that the fuel situation was serious because of the apparent impossibility of getting coal moved over foreign lines from the mines for use by the road.

The St. Louis-San Francisco Railway Co. notified the department today that it had not intention of withdrawing mail trains.

No further trouble was reported to the department from Springfield and other points in Missouri where strikers were alleged yesterday to have interfered with the movement of mail matter, and the situation at Kansas City was reported today to be improved.

The Postmaster-General said he had instructed the superintendents of the railway mail service here to have divisional inspectors sent to all points where railroads had reported disorders by strikers and to make reports to Washington at once. In many instances, it was said, postal inspectors had failed to verify reports sent to the department by railway officials. In Missouri and Louisiana, it was explained, inspectors had found a less serious situation than had been reported to them.

The Postoffice Department will not, it was said, recommend drastic action by Federal or state forces at any point until inspectors have made certain of the facts as reported.

Postal Inspectors Find No Interference With Mails in This District.

F. W. Reuter, post office inspector in charge in this district, which comprises Missouri, Arkansas and Iowa, said today that his inspectors had been sent to every point in the district where trouble had been reported as a result of the railroad strike and where trouble was feared and that these deputies reported there had been no interference with the mails and that none was likely to occur.

Mails Being Handled by Truck When Trains Are Curtailed.

Curtailing of train service by the Wabash and Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroads has had little effect on the movement of the mails, S. A. Cisler, superintendent of railway mail service here, said today. The Hannibal-New Franklin division of the "Katy," with all four trains off, takes from the road 450 miles of mail service, but these mails are being handled from town to town by truck under special contract.

The mail formerly carried between Moberly and St. Louis by Wabash train No. 50, now canceled, is being handled by trains reaching here a short time earlier. Mail service of two Wabash trains now off between Moberly and Ottumwa, Ia., is being cared for by other Wabash trains. About 300 mail service miles are lost to the Wabash. A few trains carrying closed pouches, but no mail clerks are also not running.

The only penalty suffered by the roads for canceling these mail trains is in loss of pay for the mileage thus dropped, Cisler said.

GRANDCHILD GETS BULK OF $15,000,000 ESTATE

S. B. Burnett, Texas Rancher, Leaves Son Income of $25,000 Yearly.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 11.—When the will of S. B. Burnett, regarded as the wealthiest man in Texas, was filed for probate here, it was found that only his surviving son, Tom L. Burnett, was given $25,000 a year, while the bulk of the $15,000,000 estate was left to Anne Burnett, a granddaughter. Burnett, who died a few days ago at the age og 74, was a rancher, banker and capitalist.

His son is also a rancher, operating a big tract of land in Northwest Texas. He was recently divorced from his wife, formerly Lucille Mulhall, who with her father, took part in rodeo shows. She is an expert horsewoman. Tom Burnett put on the rodeo exhibition—cowboy stunts—at the last stock show in Fort Worth.

The elder Burnett married a daughter of a leading Fort Worth banker and later was divorced from her and remarried. The rancher in his will provided that Tom shall have no part in the management of the Burnett estate. He will not get the $25,000 annually if the protests or tries to break the will, reads another provision.

About eight years ago Capt. Burnett was tried and acquitted in King County after the killing of a ranch employe. It was said he fired in self-defense.

COMMITTEEMEN ARE INVITED

Kansas City Publisher Holds Dinner This Evening for Brewster.

All the members of the Republican City Committee have been invited to attend a dinner to be given this evening at the Missouri Athletic Association by Walter S. Dickey, publisher of the Kansas City Journal and Post, with R. R. Brewster, senatorial candidate, as guest of honor. Dickey is actively supporting Brewster, who has considerable strength here.

A meeting of the City Committee is scheduled for 8 o'clock, at its headquarters in the Odd Fellows Building.

CONSTANTINOPLE HAREM ATTENDANTS GO OUT ON STRIKE

More Money and Shorter Hours Demanded by Those Who Keep Long Vigils.

By the Associated Press.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 11.—Constantinople harem attendants have gone on a strike for more money and shorter hours. Many of the capital's finest harems have been left unguarded, and their owners are trying distractedly to find suitable substitutes for the strikers. Numbers of Russian refugees have volunteered their services, but it was found they were not fitted for the job.

The strikers insist that their "24-hour day" and the unceasing vigil they are required to keep on the women of the harems justify better remuneration, especially during the present hard times. Many of them protest that their wages have not been paid for more than a year and in several instances they have appealed to the American Committee for Relief in the Near East for aid. The fact is that their masters, who in most cases are officials or employes of the Government, have not drawn any salaries for months.

The strikers include the eunuchs and other attendants.

FILM MADE IN VIENNA TO SHOW NEW PROCESS OF REJUVENATION

(Copyright, 1922.)

BERLIN, July 11.—A film made under the direction of Dr. Euken Steinach, the noted biologist of Vienna, and illustrating in detail his method of rejuvenation, or prolongation of human life, is being completed here.

The method includes an operation on certain vital glands, and the essential differences between it and other youth-renewing operations is that Dr. Steinach makes no transplantation of animal glands or substances.

In the film, which is being made in a specially constructed studio, 1500 guinea pigs, rats, cats, dogs, monkeys and horses are shown in process of rejuvenation by the method.

Railroads' Reports to Postoffice Department Indicate Serious Situation, but Inspectors Are Said to Have Information Washington Interference Is Not So Extensive.

50,000 MAINTENANCE MEN REPORTED OUT

Reports on Exact Numbers of Shopmen Idle Cause Union Leaders to Express Satisfaction With Progress of Strike.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., July 11. — The four chief executives of the "Big Four" transportation brotherhoods will meet several railroad managers in Chicago tomorrow to confer regarding protests of brotherhood members on the alleged action of railroad managers in asking them to do work usually done by striging shopmen and other matters pertaining to the shopmen's strike.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Interference with the United States mails became a serious development in the railway shopmen's nation-wide strike today.

Reports to Washington threw a serious light on the situation, several roads advising the Postoffice Department that their mail train schedules were being curtailed, although department inspectors were said to have reported the situation not as serious as given in railroad advices.

Troops and United States Marshals are in charge of numerous points where trouble has been threatened. The most serious situation arose at Bloomington, Ill., where State troops are on duty. Snipers were reported to have fired on the guardsmen patrolling the Chicago & Alton yards, with a machine-gun fusillade as the troopers' reply.

Mail Service Out of Operation.

The Postoffice Department was advised that 3000 miles of the Wabash railway mail service had ceased operation, partly due, however, to a shortage of coal. The Baltimore & Ohio wired the department that it had had to cancel a train in Southern Illinois because strikers interfered with making up the train.

Several thousand spectators lined the yards at Bloomington last night and today to see what would happen. There was no further shooting, but during the night the guard was doubled and this morning 94 men were brought into the shops to renew operations. Machine guns were set up to prevent any possible consequences.

Kansas national guardsmen arrived at Herington to guard the Rock Island shops there. State troops were also sent to New Franklin, Mo., after strikers had warned local officers of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas shops to cease all work.

Clerks' Strike.

The clerks' strike on the Norfolk & Western, sanctioned by President E. H. Fitzgerald of the Clerks' Union, was reported ineffective at Roanoke, Va., but other points reported desertions from the station forces. The Santa Fe reported 300 maintenance of way men returned to work at Galesburg, Ill. The Erie announced it was sending 500 cars to outside repair shops and several railroads said they intended to ask for further injunctions restraining the strikers from interfering with train operation.

Leaders of the shop strike expressed themselves as well pleased with the progress of the strike to

FEDERAL TROOPS MAY BE USED IF FOUND NECESSARY

SOLDIERS WOULD BACK UP MARSHALS

Powers of the Government to Keep the Mails Moving Uninterruptedly Are Explained; Statutes Cited.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.
(Copyright, 1922.)

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Federal troops may be used if necessary by the Government to support the various marshals and deputies who have been appointed to see that the mails are protected and interstate commerce is not interrupted.

Officials of the Department of Justice, searching precedents, today admitted that a course of procedure similar to that followed by President Cleveland and Attorney-General Olney in the famous Pullman strike of 1894 was not unlikely if the marshals were unable to secure respect for authority.

The appointment of United States marshals to enter the strike zone and see that mail trains are not interrupted is the first step. It is taken by the Department of Justice on the broad ground that the Federal statutes make it the duty of the Department of Justice to see to it that there is no combination of any kind "in restraint of trade."

This is the language of the interstate commerce act of July, 1890, and in 1894 the Marshals and Deputy Marshals found themselves unable to cope with disorders and called upon the War Department for support. Two regiments entered Chicago and this brought an end to interference with interstate commerce.

President Harding may find himself in the same position as his predecessor, Mr. Cleveland. Conferences thus far have led to a determination to use the full force of the Federal Government to secure obedience to the Federal laws. Severe penalties are provided for the punishment of anyone who contributes in any way to the interference with the journeys of mail trains or the destruction of lives or private property en route from state to state.

Statute Is Cited.

In connection with the appointment during the last 24 hours of Marshals and Deputies, the following statute is cited by officials of the Department of Justice, being Section 788:

"The Marshals and their Deputies shall have in each State the same powers in executing the laws of the United States as Sheriffs and their Deputies in such State may have by law in executing the laws thereof."

Still further explanation of the power of chief executive is given in the Neagle case by a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, which said:

"So if the President or the Postmaster General is advised that the mails of the United States, possibly carrying treasure, are liable to be robbed and the mail carriers assaulted and murdered in any particular region of the country, who can doubt the authority of the President or of one of the executive departments under him to make an order for the protection of them and of the persons and lives of its carriers, by doing exactly what was done in the case of Mr. Justice Field, namely, providing a sufficient guard whether it be by soldiers of the army or by marshals of the United States, with a posse comitatus properly armed and equipped to secure the safe performance of the duty of carrying the mail wherever it may be intended to go."

The statutes are considered by officials of the Government here to be all inclusive and no authority is lacking to keep trains moving if the railroads have the men to run the trains. There is no power which can compel railway employes to work against their will, even on mail trains, but the Federal Government can lend troops for the purpose of moving the mails or even undertake the movement of mail trains itself under arrangement with the railroads.

Practically all trains carry mail or are engaged in interstate commerce so that the statutes practically make it unlawful for any one to wreck a train or otherwise hinder its progress from State to State.

Strike breakers therefore will have better protection than is usually the case, but the Federal Government is powerless to protect the strike breakers from harm when once they leave their trains after a day's work. The protection then devolves upon the State authorities.

Government Is Prepared.

Generally speaking the Government is preparing for the emergency on the expectation that history will repeat itself unless the leaders on both sides reach a prompt agreement or truce. The appointment of Marshals in the past has meant in the end the ordering of Federal troops to trouble zones.

date. Detailed reports on the actual number of men out began to come into union headquarters here, although not in sufficient numbers to make definite announcement possible.

Attempts by roads in Denver to stampede the strikers back to work yesterday resulted in 22 desertions from the striking ranks, William Harmon of the Executive Committee of the Machinists reported. He said 3000 men were out.

The reports indicate that nearly 50,000 maintenance of way men and shop laborers went out on sympathetic strike with the shopmen, according to Charles J. McGowan, assistant to B. M. Jewell, head of the shop crafts.

MACHINE GUNS NOW GUARD SHOPS AT BLOOMINGTON, ILL.

By the Associated Press.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., July 11.—Crowds of strikers and strike sympathizers began gathering around the Chicago and Alton shops this morning and at 10 o'clock orders were issued to set up machine guns covering every entrance.

It was unofficially reported at the guard camp this morning that two more companies of troops would arrive today.

It also is understood that nonunion workers will arrive from Chicago today.

Arrangements have been made to meet their train with two companies of troops to escort them to work.

Troop Commander Reports Little Firing at Bloomington.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 11.—Col. Albert L. Culbertson, in command of the State troops at Bloomington, made an official report to Adjutant-General Black this morning that only three shots were fired last night at the Chicago & Alton shops at Bloomington, one from outside the military lines and two from inside, one of which was accidental.

Sheriff Jacob Morrison of McLean County called Adjutant-General C. E. Black at 11:20 o'clock this morning to protest against the alleged shooting by the State troops sent in to protect the Chicago & Alton shops and workmen at Bloomington. "They are hitting the houses," the Sheriff complained.

It was pointed out that the State troops have been sent to Bloomington to protect workers in the shops, and have no authority to exceed that purpose or to establish martial law, and that the Sheriff is still the legally constituted law officer of the county.

Gen. Black said that no further troops had been ordered to Bloomington, but that several companies were being held in readiness, if needed.

NEW FRANKLIN QUIET WITH 150 GUARDSMEN ON DUTY

By the Associated Press.

NEW FRANKLIN, Mo., July 11.—With 150 national guardsmen patrolling the railroad yards and sidings here, New Franklin went about its business today apparently oblivious of the presence of the troops. Strikers gathered on corners, but they presented the appearance of merely idling away the time, and there were no indications of any demonstrations.

The troops have been supplied with one day's rations, and it could not be learned how long they will remain on duty. Officers in charge refused to discuss the situation, saying any announcements must come from Adj. Gen. Raupp at Jefferson City.

E. E. Solomon, a striking car repairer, one of the quartet of strikers whose visit to three shop officials of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas yesterday resulted in the calling out of the troops, today took occasion to deny that they had warned the three men to leave town.

"We merely told them not to repair any air brakes," he declared, "and we would give them 24 hours to think it over. We did not tell them to get out of town."

Troops Sent to New Franklin Because of "Intimidation" Tactics.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., July 11.—The two companies of National Guard were sent to New Franklin because the action of the strikers' committee in warning three shop officials of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas to refrain from repairing air breaks was a "clear abridgement of the right to work by intimidation," Gov. Hyde explained today.

"Calling out troops in this instance does not mean that the military forces will be sent to every point where there is a strike," the Governor continued. "They have the right to quit work, and will be protected in the exercise of that right as long as they exercise it peacefully; but it does mean that the troops will be sent to every point where the right of other men to work is denied or abridged by threat, intimidation or violence."

Suits Entered in Both State and Federal Courts.

By the Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Tex., July 11.—Suits in both State and Federal Court today marked the progress of the local strike of shop employes.

In Federal Court both railroads and employes were awaiting for Wednesday, when Judge Hutcheson will hear the plea of the Southern Pacific lines for an injunction to restrain "interference" with its trains and shops. It is understood that the strikers will fight the application vigorously.

In the State Court an application for injunction was filed today by 10 residents in the vicinity of the shops of the Texas & New Orleans Railroad (Southern Pacific) against "armed guards" of the Southern Pacific. The suit alleges that many employes and guards are armed, that the shops are a "veritable arsenal" and that the situation is dangerous to the peace of the community. Special Judge Lewis Fisher set July 20 for a hearing.

Several hundred North Side residents yesterday protested to the City Council against the presence of "armed guards," but were told that, as the guards were on the company property, the city saw no way to handle the situation.

DANVILLE, Ill., July 11.—Fifty-four trains, six of them entering Danville, have been taken off the Wabash railway, it was announced here today. Officials here said the curtailment was due to lack of coal coming from Kentucky and not due to the strike.

SIGNALMEN NOT TO STRIKE NOW, PRESIDENT SAYS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 11.—The Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen will not strike for the present, at least, according to a statement issued this morning by D. W. Helt, president of the organization. The decision was arrived at after a conference between the executive board of the union and the Railroad Labor Board.

Helt's statement said that the signalmen would take up all questions of disagreement with the roads separately and in case an understanding could not be arrived at the matter would be taken up again with the Railroad Labor Board.

Chesapeake and Ohio Clerks to Resist Cut in Wages.

By the Associated Press.

RICHMOND, Va., July 11.—The executive board of the Federation of Railway Clerks of the Chesapeake and Ohio system will present to officials of the road today resolutions against a cut in wages and demanding full time vacations without involving extra hours of work. The Federation numbers 2200 members.

Pennsylvania R. R. Section Men Quit Work in Ohio.

By the Associated Press.

DENNISON, O., July 11. — One hundred Pennsylvania Railroad section men quit work here this morning in protest, it is said, against a 5 per cent wage cut, ordered by the company, effective today.

Strikebreakers Said to Have Been Forced to Leave Town.

By the Associated Press.

HATTIESBURG, Miss., July 11.—L. E. Faulkner, general manager of the Southern Railway, at noon today renewed his appeal to Gov. Lee M. Russell, asking that troops be sent here to protect property at the Mississippi Central shops. The official declared that nonunion men were forced to leave the city after being intimidated by the strikers.

Clerks at Roanoke N. and W. Offices Stick to Jobs.

By the Associated Press.

ROANOKE, Va., July 11.—Not a single clerk struck at the general offices of the Norfolk and Western Railway office here at 10 o'clock, the time set by Chairman C. B. Lane for a general walkout authorized by Grand President Fitzgerald of the Clerks' Union, according to a statement made by the offices of the railroad president 10:20 a. m. Information regarding the effect of the strike call at other points along the system was not available.

Troops Reach Herington to Guard Rock Island Shops.

By the Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Kan., July 11.—Two hundred men of the Kansas National Guard arrived at Herington today to guard the Rock Island shops and the water main leading from the city pumping station to the shops. According to an announcement issued at the Governor's office this morning, these troops are the Clay Center cavalry and Emporia and Council Grove infantry units.

B. & O. Gets Strike Injunction in Ohio.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 11.—Judge Dahl B. Cooper in common pleas court this afternoon granted to the Baltimore and Ohio railroad officials a temporary injunction restraining striking railway shoymen from interfering with the company's property in this district. The injunction applies to the local Baltimore and Ohio yards and the shops at Hazleton.

FRISCO EMPLOYE TELLS OF BEING BEATEN BY 3 MEN

WARRANTS AGAINST MEN REFUSED

Fireman, Arrested, Admits He Talked to Tony Firos, but Denies Taking Part in Attack.

Tony Firos, 27 years old, of 1200 South Vandeventer avenue, who had been reported missing after being kidnaped Friday night from the California restaurant, 1004 South Vandeventer avenue, went to the police yesterday and told of having been taken away in an automobile and kicked and beaten and left unconscious by a roadside in St. Louis County.

Both the Circuit Attorney's office and the Prosecuting Attorney's office refused to issue warrants charging kidnaping and assault to kill against three men whose names the police have obtained.

Firos had been working at the Frisco roundhouse. He was sitting in the California restaurant Friday night, when a man came in and sat beside him and asked him if he was working at the roundhouse. Firos denied it. The man told him some men outside wanted to talk to him. He went out and about 15 men surrounded him. He was thrown into an automobile in which were three men. They told him to keep still and they would take him to the union hall and give him some money. Instead, they drove into the county, and near Kirkwood they put him out of the machine and beat him and kicked him and left him lying in the road. A passing automobile brought him into the city and he obtained a room at 1522 Olive street, where a doctor attended him.

Frisco Fireman Arrested.

A Frisco fireman was arrested, who admitted that he spoke to Firos in the restaurant, but said he merely warned Firos that men were waiting for him outside and advised him that if he talked nice to them they probably would not hurt him. The fireman was held under $10,000 bond.

Capt. Matthews of the Magnolia avenue district learned the names of the three men who are said to have been in the automobile and asked the Circuit Attorney's office for warrants. They were refused and it was suggested that he apply either to the Prosecuting Attorney or to the county authorities. Application was then made to Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Connors. He refused and suggested that the men be sent to Police Court for disturbing the peace.

Matthews related his difficulties to Chief Special Agent Hutton of the Frisco, who will apply to the county authorities. If he fails there Matthews will again ask the St. Louis authorities to issue warrants.

Messenger Beaten in Yards.

At 10 p. m. Saturday, Fred Thurman, 65, 903 North Eighteenth street, a Missouri Pacific messenger in the Lesperance street yards, was stopped near Kosciusko and Lesperance streets by a man who asked him if he was working for the railroad, and on receiving an affirmative answer gave Thurman a beating.

Paul Schuman, 52, living at the Erie House, Seventh and Market streets, got into an argument with some men in front of 508 Market street last night, about the strike, and was knocked down and kicked. He was treated at the first aid station.

Frank Bunn, 4329 Arco avenue, passing through an alley behind 4217 Arco avenue, at 6 a. m. today, found a box marked "explosive." He told the police, who found that it was a 50-pound box of giant powder sticks shipped by the Atlas Powder Co. to J. S. Huerter, Gravois, Mo. It is supposed to have been stolen in transit. It was thrown into the river.

Brothers Cited on Liquor Charge.

Joseph Coleman, 32 years old, a driver, was arrested and his brother, Charles, 29, an ice and coal dealer, both of 4291 Margaretta avenue, was ordered to appear before the United States Commissioner after city detectives and Federal prohibition enforcement agents searched the Margaretta avenue address last night. Prior to the search, the detectives reported, a Federal agent visited the place and said he had bought a gallon of socalled whisky from Joseph Coleman for $12. A search warrant was obtained and the place searched, but no more liquor was found.

Albrecht Fined for Gaming.

Henry Albrecht Jr. entered a plea of guilty yesterday before Justice of the Peace Kane in East St. Louis to a charge of gaming, and paid a fine of $25. On June 24 detectives raided a dice game on the third floor of the building at 328 East Broadway, owned by H. Albrecht & Co., wholesale dealers in beverages, on the first floor of which the company conducts a retail business. The retail license was confiscated by the detectives who made the raid, but the license was returned to Albrecht. Four men who were arrested at the time, were fined $10 and costs for gambling.

B. & O. OBTAINS TEMPORARY ORDER AGAINST STRIKERS

LITTLE CHANGE IN SITUATION IN ST. LOUIS

Striking Shopmen Continue Picketing—One Line Offers Special Inducements to Car Repairers.

A petition for an injunction to restrain strikers and sympathizers from interfering with employes of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, particularly at East St. Louis and Flora, Ill., was filed in the Federal Court at East St. Louis by attorneys of the railroad today. A temporary restraining order was issued, returnable July 18 at 10 a. m.

The railroad properties in St. Louis and throughout Missouri are being picketed as usual today by the striking shopmen. A temporary restraining order against illegal picketing was issued yesterday at Little Rock on application of the Missouri Pacific Railroad by Federal Judge Trieber. The order is returnable in the Federal Court in St. Louis July 17.

A temporary order also was issued in the Federal Court at Bloomington, Ill., prohibiting shopmen from employing illegal methods in picketing property of the Illinois Central and Wabash railroads in Southern Illinois. Judge Trieber issued the order for the Eastern Judicial District of Missouri as a substitute Judge for Judge Faris, who is on vacation.

The three bills of complaint allege that the strikers have been using violence, intimidation and other unlawful interference in the prosecution of the strike and permanent injunctions are asked for. The instances of unlawful acts cited by the Missouri Pacific were the assault upon a workman who had taken a job vacated by a striker in St. Louis; the threatening of a negro porter at De Soto, Mo., for coupling air brakes, and threats to burn homes of men who had taken strikers' jobs at Sedalia.

Little Change in Situation.

There is little change in the local situation today. The railroads are hiring all available men, and the Chicago & Alton is advertising permanent employment and "liberal bonus in addition to standard wages," including free board and lodging, for machinists, boilermakers, blacksmiths, electricians, sheet metal workers, pipefitters, car repairers, carpenters and helpers of all kinds.

The Missouri Pacific today is advertising notice that its order to curtail train service, beginning today, due to coal shortage, has been rescinded and that the regular schedules will be maintained without interruption for the time being.

It was stated at the Missouri Pacific offices today that this action is the result of assurances from Gov. Allen of Kansas that the road's employes will be protected and that a coal supply will be assured and of President Harding's action looking toward a settlement of the coal strike. The road has about a month's supply of coal on hand.

The Missouri Public Service Commission is meeting today to determine if it has a right to act in the event of curtailment of train service. Kansas authorities have announced they will not permit a curtailment of train service in that State.

The Wabash Railroad is announcing the taking off of 34 trains, beginning tomorrow, on account of inability to get a sufficient supply of coal. Ten of these trains are on the Western Division; four on the Springfield division; three on the Decatur division, and seventeen on the Peru and Detroit division. The only St. Louis trains affected are No. 13, to Moberly, and No. 50, Moberly to St. Louis. The company says that, in the last week, only 14 per cent of the amount of coal consumed has been received, and that it has orders in for 2453 carloads.

Missouri-Kansas-Texas local passenger trains No. 9 and No. 10, running between St. Louis and New Franklin, Mo., were taken off today as a result of trouble at New Franklin yesterday. About 25 laborers quit after strikers are said to have given three employes of the road 24 hours to leave town. The trains will be restored as soon as men can be brought in under protection of the State troops ordered there.

Federal Guards Still Urged.

Railroad officers and attorneys for the railroads continue to request of United States Marshal Lynch the appointment of United States Deputy Marshals to do guard duty against the activities of strikers affecting train service.

Judge Sanborn, Presiding Judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, has telegraphed Lynch to appoint such deputies as are necessary. Lynch informed Joseph Jamison of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas that a mere request to appoint deputy marshals was not sufficient, and that abundant evidence that the situation had got beyond control of civil authorities must be given before he would appoint deputy marshals. Lynch is acting on the advice of United States District Attorney Carroll, who, in turn, is in touch with the office of the United States Attorney-General.

The Missouri-Kansas-Texas, Jamison said, interpreted Judge Sanborn's telegram as warranting the appointment of deputies. District Attorney Carroll said evidence of the same nature as would be submitted to a Court would be required by him before recommending appointment of deputies. The District Attorney telegraphed to Washington a report of the railroads' request and his attitude.

The Marshal is making a personal investigation of the situation. Yesterday he visited Chaffee and Newburg, where there are railroad shops, and today and tomorrow will go to Hannibal, Moberly and Brookfield, other centers. In each place he is conferring with union leaders and informing them of the action he will take if there is interference with interstate commerce or with the mails.

The entire enlistment of a battery, 128th Field Artillery, with the exception of 12 men, had reported at the armory, Grand boulevard and Rutger street, for duty today. The other men were sent for.

Chamber of Commerce Adopts Strike Resolution.

A resolution on the railroad strike situation has been adopted by the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, which says:

"Be it resolved, that the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce supports the principles underlying Federal law and the decisions of the United States Railroad Labor Board in the peaceful settlement of disputes between railroads and their employes; supports the right of every American citizen to labor without interference, threat or violence from any one; and hereby calls upon all citizens, including authorities of national, State and local governments, to assist in extending the full protection of law against interference with this right to labor on the part of any person."

Soviet Spies, One a Woman, 'Drink From Poisoned Cup,' at Masked Agent's Order

From Paris Comes Strange Story of Death at Hands of Court Intrigue, of Which Kerensky Is Presumed Head.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
47 Avenue de L'Opera.

PARIS, July 11.—Investigating the supposed mutual self-destruction agreement of a mysterious Russian woman of unusual beauty and her man companion, the police have uncovered a trail of international intrigue that begins at Moscow and ends in an alleged death tribunal at the headquarters in Paris of the Russian Constituent Assembly.

The presumed presiding chief of the assembly is M. Kerensky, who was head of the provisional government following the overthrow of the Czar, and who was deposed by the Lenine-Trotzky regime. The headquarters are in the old Russian embassy in the Rue de L'Universite, occupied by E. M. House during the peace conference.

Soon after the death of the young woman and the man, the police were notified of the theft from Kerensky's offices of important revolutionary documents. These were said to have been desired by the soviet authorities as evidence at the trial of a number of Socialists at Moscow.

Former Russian Army Officer.

The police discovered that the documents had been stolen by a former officer of the Russian army, who had gained the confidence of the Kerensky party by representing himself as an enemy of Lenine and Trotzky. He was in realty a Bolshevist spy and his confederate was the young woman.

By questioning Russians outside the Kerensky group, the police, still with the mystery of the apparent double suicide unsolved, identified them as the former officer and the confederate. They then learned, it is declared, that, after the disappearance of the documents, supposed agents of the Constituent Assembly arrested the two. They are then declared to have been arraigned before a tribunal, found guilty of theft and sentenced to death. They were marched to an isolated room, at night, and what occurred there is declared to have been as follows:

"Drink from the poisoned cup."

He did. The woman was then ordered to do likewise.

Poison Effect Timed.

They were then allowed to depart for their hotel, but assembly agents shadowed them. The effect of the poison had apparently been timed exactly, for the two died soon after arriving at their rooms.

The police are continuing their investigation. None of Kerensky's friends will discuss the case. No arrests have been made. Some of the stolen documents have been recovered. Others are believed to be in the possession of the soviet authorities in Moscow.

WAR FINANCE CORPORATION HAS $237,000,000 OUT IN LOANS

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Reports of the War Finance Corporation showed a total of $237,000,000 in loans outstanding at the close of the fiscal year June 30, according to a summary of operations issued today by the managing director, Eugene Meyer.

When the corporations resumed operations in January, 1921, he stated, the loans outstanding totalled $111,000,000 and since that time the corporation has authorized loans aggregating $363,000,000 of which $53,000,000 was to assist in financing exports and $310,000,000 for agricultural and livestock purposes. Of the total amount, he added, $284,000,000 has been actually advanced on June 30, of which $39,000,000 was for export purposes and $246,000,000 for agricultural and livestock purposes.

Of the loans approved, $289,000,000 represented advances authorized to banking and financial institutions, including livestock loan companies, $64,000,000 to co-operative marketing associations and $9,000,000 to exporters. Of the sums actually advanced, he reported, $204,000,000 represented loans to banking and financial institutions, $54,000,000 to livestock companies, $15,000,000 to co-operative associations and $7,000,000 to exporters.

Repayments of all loans since January, 1921, Meyer declared, amounted to $155,956,291 distributed as follows: $42,631,559 on loans made under the war powers; $35,635,543 on export loans, approved subsequently to the resumption of operations and $47,655,89 on agricultural and livestock loans.

2 CROKER HEIRS JOIN RICHARD JR. IN WILL CONTEST

Mrs. Ethel White and Howard Croker Review Family Dissension in Statement Just Issued.

TROUBLE AROSE OVER A TRUST AGREEMENT

Intimated Efforts to Turn Former Tammany Leader From His Children Had Become Evident.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Mrs. Ethel C. White and Howard Croker announced yesterday that they would join their brother, Richard Croker Jr., in contesting the Croker will, which was filed for probate at West Palm Beach, Fla., last Saturday. In a statement, issued from the office of Richard Croker Jr., 331 Madison avenue, Mrs. White and Howard reviewed the family dissension that followed Richard Croker's second marriage. They said they had no information regarding the will except that obtained from newspaper accounts.

Between Croker's second marriage in 1914 and the date the will was executed, Nov. 12, 1919, the statement said, "The only thing that had occurred between our father and us which could in any way have offended him was our refusal to accede to his request, made in 1917, to revoke the trust agreement made by both our parents in 1909."

The agreement provides that the principal of the trust, now $133,000, should be divided among Ethel, Florence and Howard on the death of both parents, the statement said. A large part of the trust fund had been contributed by the first Mrs. Croker out of her own resources. In 1917 the elder Croker had insisted the trust be revoked and the funds sent to him.

"Efforts to Turn Father."

"While our father was disappointed at our refusal to consent to the revocation of the agreement, he remained on most friendly terms with us and was quite friendly with us in the month of October, 1919," the statement continued.

Previous to the attempted revocation, the statement explained, Croker had withdrawn control of his affairs in this country from Richard Jr. and had turned them over to his second wife.

"No one had any objection to this because we all felt that our father was at liberty to place the management of his affairs where he pleased. It became evident shortly after, however, that efforts were being made to turn him away from all his children, and especially against Richard."

After pointing out that their attitude with respect to the trust had been upheld by the Supreme Court in this State, they said:

"The copy of the will as published in the newspapers shows that no provision whatever was made for any of the children, even Florence. The paper referred to as a codicil is merely a note written on the stationery that our father was accustomed to use in Ireland.

"No Part of the Will."

"In this note the suggestion is made that Florence be remembered. We are informed that the note is no part of the will and is wholly ineffective. The publication of the note apparently is made for the purpose of showing that our father had not turned against all his children. The omission to include Florence in the will, however, is obvious and significant."

The codicil referred to asked that $10,000 be given to Florence Croker, explaining that she was "the only one of my surviving children who has ever shown any gratitude to me."

In this regard Mrs. White and Howard Croker said yesterday:

"Our sister Florence, who was not in this country for 15 years, was not familiar with the situation and did not know the facts as we know them. She was guided entirely by the suggestion made or the views held by my father and his wife, and had no other source of information in the matter."

Miner, Injured in Fall, Dies.

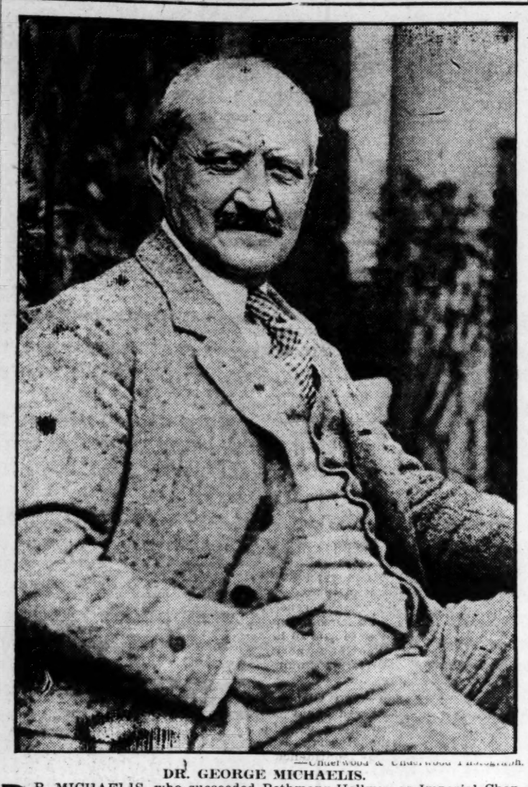

Frank Thomas, 21 years old, a miner, of Carlinville, Ill., died Sunday at St. John's Hospital, Springfield, Ill., of injuries received Friday, when he stepped backward over a 10-foot embankment, in alighting from an automobile near Blackburn College at Carlinville. His intestines were punctured in five places by a sharp rock upon which he fell.

Former German Imperial Chancellor Now on a Visit to the United States

—Underwood & Underwood Photograph.

DR. GEORGE MICHAELIS.

DR. MICHAELIS, who succeeded Bethmann-Hollweg as Imperial Chancellor,, is in the United States on his way home from a trip around the world. This photograph of him was made in New York City. Notwithstanding the storm clouds that hang over Germany, he is optimistic about the country's future and believes her financial difficulties will be settled satisfactorily. He does not think the republic will fall.

MORATORIUM ON GERMANY'S PAYMENTS CONSIDERED LIKELY

LONDON'S ANXIOUS EYE ON FRANCE

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

(Copyright, 1922.)

LONDON, July 11.—The possibility of precipitate action by France in the event of any sudden convulsion in Germany resulting from her grave economic position is the chief source of anxiety in high political quarters in London.

If Germany defaults after mawing the next reparations payment it is feared the French military party may force the Poincare Government to take drastic action. There are even fears in some quarters that the situation might eventually lead to a recrudescence of the idea of sponsoring a Rhineland republic as a buffer State between France and Germany.

No one is more obsessed with the critical European situation at the present moment than Lloyd George, who, as told in the Post-Dispatch dispatches Friday, had stressed his anxiety in a conversation with Ambassador Harvey and informally had invited some suggestion from the United States Government in view of Germany's critical position.

In official quarters here there seems to be some doubt about the advisability of the Premier taking such action and there is a belief he did so without consulting some of his colleagues. But as shown on many occasions since he became Premier and particularly in the last two years, the Premier does not always wait on the Foreign Office.

But whatever the Premier may have said to Harvey, it is not believed here that America is prepared to take any action. As pointed out here, there is only one thing she could do outside agreeing to forego much of the allied debts to her to contribute to the solution of the German crisis and that would be to influence her to change her reparations policy.

"But America is not prepared to take either step," was the comment made to the Post-Dispatch correspondent in one authoritative quarter last evening.

If the Premier himself has any immediate plan of action it was not revealed yesterday. There is to be a special meeting of the Cabinet today to consider the situation caused by Germany's plight, but it is believed nothing will be done until the subcommittee of the Reparations Commission, which has been investigating Germany's resources and financial position, reports several days hence.

While there is a warning in part of the British press that the fall of the mark is stage-managed, that is not the view of most newspapers.

DOVER, ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY, RESIGNS

He Was Principal in Controversy With Blair—Resignation Effective July 15.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Information was received at the capital from Treasury officials today that Elmer Dover of Tacoma, Wash., Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of customs and internal revenue, and one of the principals in the Blair-Dover controversy, had submitted his resignation, effective July 15.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN, 79, NOT YET DISCHARGED FROM ARMY

Mulatto Sends Number of Affidavits to Washington to Effect Official Service Severance.

KNOXVILLE, Iowa.—John Griffin, a 79-year-old mulatto, is probably the only living civil war veteran who has not been discharged from the United States Army. He recently passed a week in obtaining affidavits from old settlers that he is the same John Griffith who enlisted here in 1862 for service in the union army. The statements will be forwarded to Washington in an attempt to secure his discharge.

Griffith volunteered for service as a white man during the civil war. He was assigned to a white regiment without the deception becoming known but the regimental officers several weks later discovered that he was a mulatto and he was promptly ordered to report to a negro regiment. He refused to do this. He returned to Marion County and resumed his farm work. No effort was ever made to force him to return to the army, and it is believed that his name still appears on the records as a volunteer.

When the Union armies were mustered out at the close of the war Griffin was tilling the Iowa soil, forgotten by the Federal Government.

REGISTRATION OF VOTERS FOR PRIMARY IS 274,689

Slight Increase Expected With Enrollment of Absentees and Invalids.

The registration of voters eligible to participation in the primary election Aug. 1 is 274,689, as revised by the Election Board and announced today. There probably will be a slight increase of this number by the registration of absentees and invalids, up to next Tuesday. The last day for transfer on the books at the city hall for voters who have changed their residences, will be July 22.

The registration for the last general election two years ago was 309,388. The registration is always heavier in a presidential year. On June 22, 41,577 voters registered. The Election Board removed 76,976 names from the lists in the ensuing canvass and revision. The names removed are of persons who have left the city, died, or who could not be found.

The heaviest registration is in the Twenty-sixth Ward, in the West End, 12,025. The next heaviest is in another West End ward, the Twenty-eighth, with 11,826. The greatest number of names removed from the lists of one ward was in the Seventeenth, where 3822 were scratched, and the registration was reduced from 10,816 to 8791.

SUGAR FROM PINES IN CANADA

Source of Indians' Supply of Sweets Explained.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

VANCOUVER, Canada, July 11.—Sugar from the needles of the Douglas pine comes to perfection in Canada. For centuries the native tribes have gathered the snowy white drops when they fall from the tips of the fir needles, where under certain conditions of climate the syrup collects and hardens.

It has always been much of a mystery until recently where certain Indian tribes obtained their occasional and small supplies of sweet stuff. For some generations now the white man has been walking right under the lumps of sugar and did not know it.

SHOCK OF SUDDEN COLLAPSE OF OIL DREAM IS FATAL

Father of Millionaire Creek Freed Girl Backed Jim Manuel's Fabricated Tale of Riches.

By the Associated Press.

MUSKOGEE, Ok., July 11.—Humiliation and grief over the deception of Jim Manuel, negro, whom he knew when both were poor 'bad land" farmers near Muskogee, is believed here to have been responsible for the death of Joe Rector, father of Sarah Rector, millionaire Creek freed girl, who died on a train near Dallas, Tex., Sunday.

Manuel, while in the State Penitentiary at Jefferson City, Mo., for forgery, told Rector that oil had been discovered near a piece of land which he owned near Tampico, Mex., and that his land was worth $40,000,000.

But Rose, his wife and Sarah's guardian, had possession of the family money bags. She didn't want to put up the $8000 bond which authorities demanded if Manuel was to be paroled. But finally Joe persuaded her, it is understood.

The bond was made and, with a couple of thousand dollars in expense money in his pocket, Joe started to Mexico, with his old Muskogee friend, to get some oil millions for himself. Manuel had promised him half of the proceeds from his land for helping him out.

When they got to Mexico Rector found that Manuel's tale was a fabrication. The ex-convict vanished into the desert, leaving Rector stranded. He wired back to Kansas City for money to get home on and the humiliation after the fond dreams he had entertained is believed to have killed him.

Manuel had previously served a six-year term in the Oklahoma penitentiary for forging a deed to a sister's allotment and selling. She, too, was a Creek freed woman.

SINGLE-HANDED KETCH RACE ACROSS ATLANTIC IS SOUGHT

New Yorker Issues Challenge for Contest to Duke of Leinster.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 11.—William Washburn Nutting, editor of a marine magazine, announced today he had sent a message to the Duke of Leinster, in London, accepting a challenge to race across the Atlantic single-handed in a ketch.

Nutting said he was prepared to meet any of the conditions the Duke may propose and would build a suitable boat in 1923, if the English sportsman accepts. Nutting is a fellow of the Royal Geographical Society.

The Duke of Leinster's ketch is described as a lightly rigged vessel of 12 tons with a 20-horsepower engine. He recently announced he intended to start a trip soon from the west coast of Ireland, with New York as the objective, in an endeavor to win a wager.

PAPAL AGREEMENT WITH SOVIET

(Copyright, 1922.)

ROME, July 11.—The Holy See has concluded an agreement with the soviet Government whereby relief expeditions sent by the Pope can enter Russia. The Russians promise members of the expeditions immunity from imprisonment and from confiscation of foodstuffs, and the Holy See guarantees the expeditions will abstain from any kind of propaganda whatever.

The first expedition, which is composed of three sections, is permitted by Lenine to distribute relief supplies in the provinces of Moscow, Kielff and Saratoff. The Holy See will send the first contingent July 20, but the finances are so low that the full program of relief cannot be carried out until more funds arrive from America, which is now the only source left.

Replaces Constitutional Delegates.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 11.—Gov. Hyde last night appointed William A. Rhinehardt, of Palmyra, a Republican farmer as delegate to the Constitutional Convention to replace James P. Hinton, of Hannibal, who resigned last week.

'UNCLE JOE' MAY BE MADE REPUBLICAN SAGE EMERITUS

Plan Afoot to Keep Him in Popular Eye and to Give Party Benefit of His Sagacity.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Some sort of honorary public position is being sought for "Uncle Joe" Cannon. Many of his admirers desire to keep him in the popular eye and also to have the benefit of his wisdom and sagacity. It is proposed, among other things, to create the office of honorary chairman of the Republican National Committee, or Chairman Emeritus or something akin to these titles.

This would enable "Uncle Joe" to keep in touch with current affairs and also to help the party with timely advice.

The movement thus to honor Cannon originated in Philadelphia in an organization formed by Louis H. Eisenlohr, cigar manufacturer, who recently died. There will be a meeting tomorrow night. It is intended to adopt formal resolution and fully outline the plan. When this is done the matter will be taken up with the Republican National Committee.

STENOGRAPHER INJURED WHEN STRUCK BY A STREET CAR

Miss Maude Reed, 26, Is in Critical Condition After Accident on Delmar Boulevard.

Miss Maude Reed, 26 years old, a stenographer, of 5159 Delmar boulevard, was critically injured by a street car at 7 a. m. today when she was crossing Delmar boulevard at Lake avenue. She was trying to catch an eastbound street car and was struck by one going west. The motorman of the westbound car said she apparently had not seen that his car was moving.

Miss Reed was taken to St. John's Hospital, suffering from a fracture of the skull, scalp wounds and cuts on the face and body.

FORGERY WARRANTS ISSUED AGAINST MAN AND WOMAN

Trio Alleged to Have Passed Several Worthless Checks on South St. Louis Merchants.

Two warrants charging second degree forgery were issued today at the Circuit Attorney's office against Beatrice LaBelle, alias Geraldine Raymond, alais Marie Smith, 26 years old, and a warrant on the same charge was issued against Glenn Bright, alias Raymond, said by the police to be the woman's common law husband.

Both are in custody and the woman is said to have admitted that she signed the name of Mrs. A. F. Johnston to several checks for amounts up to $50, which she cashed at the stores of South St. Louis merchants. Bright is charged with cashing a $12 check signed "May Tag Co.," of which the police have no record. The prisoners lived at 4041 West Pine boulevard, and a search of their room disclosed many articles purchased, the police charge, with worthless checks.

ANNEXATION MASS MEETING

Citizens of County Want Extension of City Limits.

A mass meeting of citizens of Wellston, Midland, Pine Lawn and Jennings who favor annexation to St. Louis has been called for Friday night at Notre Dame hall, Kienlen and Cote Brilliante avenues, Wellston.

The speakers, citizens of the county, will be Charles Erd, of Vinita Park, president of the St. Louis County Improvement Association; Louis H. Plogstert, secretary of the Midland Improvement Association, and Tom D. Cannon, member of the Wellston Chamber of Commerce. James J. Sinnet will preside. Petitions are being circulated and signed by many of those favoring annexation, to be presented to the Constitution Convention.

ORDER TO PERMIT BUILDING

McKelvey Temporarily Enjoined From Stopping Work.

A temporary restraining order was issued today by Circuit Judge Davis against Director of Public Safety McKelvey to prevent him from interfering with the erection of a dwelling house by Joseph and Mary Jouret on a lot adjoining their home at 1935 McCausland avenue.

McKelvey believes, he says, that the new building is to be divided into flats, which are not permitted under the zoning law in the McCausland avenue section, which is in the first residence district. The Supreme Court has held that the zoning law is unconstitutional, but the city has asked for a rehearing and McKelvey is proceeding in the meantime as if there had been no adverse decision. A hearing was set for July 31.

MOONSHINER SLAIN AFTER WOUNDING DRY HEAD IN RAID

Charles Short, Chief Prohibition Agent, 4th Illinois District, in Serious Condition at Belleville Hospital.

John Rinnberg, a coal miner and maker of "moonshine" whisky, was shot to death by prohibition enforcement agents in his home at 17 Texas avenue, Belleville, at 3:30 p. m. yesterday, after he had seriously wounded Charles Short of East St. Louis, chief prohibition officer for the fourth Illinois district, who headed the raiding party. The raiders had a search warrant. After the shooting they found a 50-gallon still, a quantity of mash and 15 gallons of alleged whisky, in the basement of the home.

Short is in a serious condition in St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Belleville, having been wounded in the abdomen and the left breast with B-B shot from Rinnberg's shotgun.

Seven prohibition officers went with Short to the Rinnberg house. They found Rinnberg and his wife, Mathilda Rinnberg, sitting in the rear yard. Rinnberg, whose house had been raided before, knew Short, and as the men entered the yard Rinnberg got up and started to enter the house.

Two Others Injured.

One of Short's party raised a weapon and Short called to him not to shoot. The prohibition agents say the order was obeyed, and that two of the agents, Leslie Farmer and Oscar Graney, followed Rinnberg toward the house.

Rinnberg entered the kitchen, the door of which contained a window, and as Graney and Farmer entered he fired his shotgun. The shot scattered, and Farmer was wounded slightly in the right hand, while Graney was cut by broken glass.

Rinnberg then stepped back farther, the officers say, and as Short entered the kitchen, Rinnberg aimed at him and fired.

Short fell, and one of his party, N. S. Shoulders, carried him to one of the two automobiles in which the party had come, and drove him to the hospital.

The six remaining officers, taking their stand outside the house, fired revolvers and riot guns, and the bombardment continued for two or three minutes.

Then the officers ventured to look into the house, and they saw Rinnberg's body on the floor. He had at least nine distinct wounds, in the breast and arms, and one bullet had broken his left wrist.

Mrs. Rinnberg, who was outside the house when the shooting began, had run around it and entered by the front door, finding shelter upstairs. None of the shots came near her.

Her two children by a former marriage, Clara and John Keller, 19 and 16 years old, had been near the house when the officers came, but had gone away when the shooting began. The boy, who walks with crutches, having lost a leg several years ago, said afterward that he believed the first shot was fired by one of the officers outside the house. Mrs. Rinnberg said the same.

Member of Firing Party.

The officers who were firing into the house when Rinnberg was killed are Graney, Farmer, T. E. Kneedler, Charles Gordon, W. H. Alston and B. W. Versell. An examination of Rinnberg's body was ordered by the Coroner.

Short raided Rinnberg's house last February, having a search warrant, and found a still in operation. A warrant was issued against Rinnberg, which was quashed by the trial court on a technicality, as it stated the location of his house incorrectly.

After his discharge, Rinnberg is said to have declared to neighbors that he would not "stand for" another raid, and that if he saw Short and his men coming, he would "get" them. These threats, it is said, were reported to Short.

BOTH SIDES SILENT ON COAL STRIKE PLAN

Government, However, Expects to Hear From Miners and Operators by Saturday.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Leaders of the mine workers' union and operators of anthracite and bituminous mines who got President Harding's offer of arbitration yesterday as the Government's solution of the suspension of operators in union fields were still undecided today over acceptance or refusal but semiofficially it was stated the Government expected to have answers Saturday.

In spite of a careful guarding of statements, there was a degree of dissatisfaction with the terms of the President's offer on both sides, and some question as to the eventual outcome. The union officials definitely postponed their decision until Saturday, when the General Policy Committee of the United Mine Workers will meet to pass upon the issue, but the employers have committees actually at work in Washington.

Mine operators in the union fields, who have kept mines closed down three months in the belief that a wage reduction was necessary to lower production costs and coal prices to meet levels of other commodities, found most difficulty in accepting the sections of the President's arbitration offer which would continue the war-time mining wage scales for what they regard as an indefinite period.

In union circles the disposition is to question whether the arbitration would leave out the union districts in West Virginia, Washington State and the Southwest, which have more or less relapsed to nonunion operation. There is also a disposition to consider what the arbitration would do for the new unions which successfully came into being in certain nonunion territory of Pennsylvania under the impulse of a national strike. It is the union view that the wage scale fight under the arbitration offer is more or less won.

Body of Overseas Veteran Here.

The body of James T. Godfrey, former City Marshal of Valley Park, who was fatally wounded in action overseas with C Company, 356th Infantry, Sept. 12, 1918, has been returned to his home and the funeral will be held tomorrow, at 2 p. m. The American Legion will take part in the ceremony. Burial will be in Oak Hill Cemetery, Kirkwood. Godfrey died Oct. 4, 1918, at the age of 26. He lived at Valley Park with an aunt, Mrs. Maggie Warner. His father, John Godfrey, lives at Clifton Mo.

How to Figure Interest

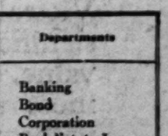

INTEREST is credited on Mercantile savings accounts every six months at the rate of 3% a year. The account shown here earned $3.15 in the six months ended January 1st, 1922, as follows:

¶ To $136 on deposit July 1st was added $15, the deposit of July 5th, which draws interest from the first. This gives a total of $151, from which the $20 withdrawal of December 21st is deducted, leaving a total of $131. Interest is figured on this amount for 6 months. The deposit of July 20th draws interest from August 1st, as does that of August 4th. Interest for 5 months is credited on this $30. Deposits of August 20th and September 4th, total $33, draw interest from September 1st, and so on, down to the deposit of December 5th, which earns one month's interest. These interest amounts are then added up, totaling $3.15, which is credited, becomes part of the account, and begins to draw interest on itself at once.

¶ Interest is not figured for parts of a month or parts of a dollar. Deposits made on or before the fifth of the month draw interest from the first. Deposits made after the fifth draw interest from the first of the following month. All withdrawals are deducted from the amount on deposit when last interest was figured.

¶ Compound interest is the nearest thing to perpetual motion, and when it's working for you the motion is always in the right direction. If it's not working for you, you are losing time and money. Start it now, in a Mercantile savings account.

EIGHTH AND LOCUST — SAINT LOUIS — TO ST. CHARLES

RELIEF WORKER TO GO BACK TO POLAND TO WED

Miss Felicia Krutewicz Has Just Returned Home After Three Years' Service.

Miss Felicia Krutewicz of 2111 North Thirteenth street, who has just returned from Poland after having spent three years in relief work there under the American Relief Administration, is going back in six months to become the bride of a former Polish army officer, Adam Kwasiedorski, whom she met three years ago in Warsaw. Kwasiedorski, who is 29, was Lieutenant in the United States Army until 1918, when he went to Poland, and since the close of the war has been engaged in banking at Warsaw, where he and Miss Krutewicz, who is 22, will make their home for a time.

Miss Krutewicz was a member of the Polish Gray Samaritans, a group of 30 young American women of Polish parentage who were recruited and trained by the Young Women's Christian Association for Polish relief work. She was stationed in Eastern Poland most of the three years, and worked among Russian refugees as well as Poles. During the typhus epidemic of last winter she ministered to stricken families and lived among them for several months.

People Living in Dugouts.

More than half the people in Eastern Poland are living in dugouts, Miss Krutewicz said, and although good crops of grain and potatoes are expected this year, food is still scarce. In spite of relief work, a large number starved to death last winter, which was the most severe in 20 years.

The Polish Government is taking over the work of the relief organizations, according to Miss Krutewicz, and the relief workers are leaving Poland and turning attention to Russia. The Polish Government is aiding in reconstruction and agricultural redevelopment, and is preparing to engage actively in food distribution.

Established a Trade School.

Miss Krutewicz established at Brzec a trade school, of which there are none in Poland, for boys and girls whom orphanages can no longer care for. The school, started last November, will accommodate 250 pupils, who are taught carpentry, farming, sewing and similar occupations. During her six months' visit here Miss Krutewicz plans to raise funds for carrying on the school, which is supported jointly by Polish contributions and by the relief administration.

AUTO DEATH TERMED ACCIDENT

Frank Bilinkartis Said to Have Fallen Beneath Auto Bus.

A verdict of accident was returned by a Coroner's jury today in the case of Frank Bilinikartis, 30 years old, of 7017 South Broadway, who was run over and killed at 9 o'clock Sunday night at Lemay Ferry road and Weber avenue, by an automobile bus, driven by Joseph Hribernik of 3736 French avenue.

Witnesses testified that Bilinikartis, in company with another man, was walking from side to side on the road, and that he fell under the bus just as it drew up beside him. He died on his way to the city hospital. Hribernik said he did not know his machine had passed over Bilinikartis until told so by a passenger. He said he was traveling at about 10 miles an hour.

TWO YOUTHS ROB PARTY OF MONEY AND AUTO

Force Driver to Take Them Into County Where They Put Man and Three Women Out.

Two youths stepped onto the running board of a family automobile as it made a detour through a lot at Goodfellow and Natural Bridge avenues at 9:30 last night, and displaying revolvers, ordered the driver, William Meyer of 2108 East Obear avenue, to drive several miles into St. Louis County. At a remote spot, they ordered Meyer, his wife and two women guests out of the car, took $31.50 and a wrist watch from them, and then drove away in the car, a Cleveland six.

Meyer, who is a carpenter and builder, was bringing his wife and their two guests into the city after a visit to friends in the county. The guests were Mrs. Edward Spitler and her daughter, Estelle, of 2021 John avenue.

Thought Youths Were Guides.

At Goodfellow and Natural Bridge, street construction work has made a detour. When Meyer, starting to drive through the lot, first saw the youths get on the running board on either side, he thought at first that they were volunteer guides. One of them ordered him to drive west, and as he turned the car, he saw that the youths had revolvers.

Meyer started the car, but soon brought it to a stop, and the two youths got into the front seat, ordering him and his wife into the rear seat with the two women. Then one of the youths drove while the other kept a revolver pointed at the four.

Driving out Natural Bridge, the women tried to attract the attention of others by waving their hands from the car. The car passed through Jennings and Woodland. About a mile beyond Woodland the youths turned the car into a dirt road and ordered the occupants out.

Tied Handkerchiefs Over Chins.

As they got out of the car the youths, who had previously kept their hat brims turned down, tied handkerchiefs over their chins. They then searched the party and took $30 which Meyer had tried to hide, took a handbag containing $1.50 from Mrs. Meyer, and Miss Spitler's wrist watch, which she valued at $50.

"There's a street car line two blocks from here," they said to the stranded party, as they drove away. This was not true. The women called after them, asking for carfare, to which the robbers answered that they had no money. "This is all we got so far," one of them called back.

The party of four reached a farmhouse with difficulty, as Mrs. Meyer is lame, and they were later taken in an automobile to the Baden police station, to report the robbery.

Named to Succeed Landis.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—James H. Wilkerson was nominated today by President Harding to be Federal Judge for the Northern Illinois District, succeeding former Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, who resigned several months ago to become arbitrator of organized baseball.

MOTION FOR REHEARING FOR HARRY J. REINEKE DENIED

He Was Sentenced to Three Years for Having Property Stolen From Interstate Shipments.

An order was received here today from the United States Circuit Court of Appeals denying a motion for a rehearing for Harry J. Reineke, automobile accessory dealer, who was convicted by a jury in the Federal Court, Dec. 13, 1919, on a charge of having stolen property in his possession and was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary by Federal Judge Faris.

Unless the case is taken to the Supreme Court of the United States on a writ of certiorari, Reineke must present himself here to the United States Marshal within 20 days and begin serving his sentence. He was also fined $500, and Thomas Lockett, an accessory, was convicted and sentenced to six months in the St. Charles jail, which he served.

Reineke dealt in automobile accessories and operated an oil filling station at 4251 Natural Bridge avenue, and Lockett was a yardman in the North St. Louis Terminal yards. They were charged with plundering freight cars and disposing of the stolen property, mostly automobile tires, through Reineke's place of business.

MR. ST. LOUISAN:—You doubtless expect a statement from us as to the future policies of the houses of Remley & Moll, who have merged into a gigantic institution that means much to every citizen of St. Louis.

Times have changed, and the policies of service without cost consideration, which formerly were essential to the public, have been sacrificed to the one effort of saving in the cost of foodstuffs. That is why the Remley Store has eliminated phone, delivery and charge accounts.

The name of A. Moll is staple and almost as well known as the City of St. Louis. Founded 64 years ago by Mr. A. Moll, a gentleman of sterling character and wonderful business ability, this grand old business has constantly grown, won and held the esteem, trust and confidence of all St. Louis, and its spirit and policies shown in the two wonderful stores at Seventh and Franklin and De Baliviere and Delmar, efficiently managed by Messrs. Kurt and Wilbert Moll, who are to continue in the management of these stores.

In the past years the Moll Stores have catered to their customers with the delivery system, charge accounts, telephone service, etc. The great business of the Remley Store was built upon different lines. It eliminates all excessive overhead expenses such as bad charge accounts, collectors, large office force, solicitors, telephone girls, etc.—a saving of from 25% to 30%—which saving was given to their customers. When you get in a Moll Store it's the same as getting in a Remley Store. The Remley policy having been tested and found efficient, will be adopted in future in the Moll Stores.

Delmar Club, Moll's Pride and 1858 Brands on all canned goods will continue on the same high quality lines—never considering the cost—until after they have secured the cream of all markets in this wide, wide world. Moll's have been born and raised in the grocery business and will continue the policies in the future as in the past.

We will continue to ship our high-class merchandise to all parts of the world. Experienced salesmen for taking these orders will be found at all THREE STORES.

KEEP YOUR eyes on these stores—compare the prices and quality—and you'll find we lead 'em all—the 3 big stores where quality and low prices prevail and where the crowds go!

AUTO USED BY BANK ROBBERS BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN FOUND

Packard Touring Car Resembles One Four Men Fled in From Madison With $10000.

A Packard touring car, owned by George W. Niedringhaus, 10 Westmoreland place, stolen Sunday night from Joseph Denk, chauffeur, by four men, which was found last night abandoned at Sixteenth and Hall streets, East St. Louis, is believed to have been used by the men who, at 12:45 p. m. yesterday, held up the Tri-City State Bank at Madison, Ill., and got away with between $10,000 and $12,000.

The robbers used a Packard, and the license number obtained as it left the scene corresponded with the one on the Niedringhaus machine, except for the first digit, which is thought to have been misread on the robbers' machine.

The police were notified at 6 p. m. that a car had been parked all afternoon at Sixteenth and Hall streets. In it were found an engraved card of Mr. and Mrs. Niedringhaus, two scarfs, a man's cap, four pairs of goggles, a pair of sun glasses and a woman's veil.

The four men who stole the Niedringhaus automobile Sunday night compelled the chauffeur to drive them from the St. Louis Country Club to Clayton, where they robbed Denk of $16 and took the machine.

YOUTH CUT AND KNOCKED OUT BY BURGLAR IN FAMILY HOME

Gerrit Ten Broek, 19, Encounters Intruder on Return From Evening Stroll.

Gerrit Ten Broek, 19 years old, son of Baarent Ten Broek of 4378 Lindell boulevard, was slashed on the chest and arms and knocked unconscious in an encounter with a burglar in the family home at 9 p. m. yesterday, he reported to a policeman who was called to the home.

Ten Broek said that he had been at home alone when he took a short walk shortly before 9 p. m., and, returning, found the front door open, apparently having been opened with a duplicate key. He turned on the lights downstairs, and, hearing a noise on the second floor, went upstairs and was reaching for a light to turn it on, when he was grabbed by a man who was in the room. He struggled with the intruder, he said, and was cut and then slugged.

When he revived a short time later he called the police and a doctor. They reported he had been cut six times, the wounds being flesh deep and not serious. Nothing was taken from the home, the police were told.

CITY CONTRACTS FOR 500 AUTO WARNING SIGNALS

Signs Will Be Erected Free by Minneapolis Concern as Advertising Mediums.

The city has entered into a contract with a Minneapolis concern for the erection of about 500 warning signals for automobile drivers at places considered dangerous, outside the congested districts. The signals, which are similar to a few in use in the city and in St. Louis County now, consist of mounted red prism glass, which reflects automobile headlights at night and warns of bad curves and the like.

The signals will cost the city nothing, but will be erected by the company, which will be permitted to maintain advertising signs on the standards. Director of Streets and Sewers Fisk said that the signals are not unsightly, and that the city had to get them in this way for lack of funds. The contract provides that after five years the city can pay $30 apiece for the standards and have suitable caution signs substituted for the advertisements.

Lampert Will Contest Action.

An appeal was perfected yesterday by collateral heirs of Jacob Lampert, cigar manufacturer, in their suit to set aside his will which left the bulk of his estate, valued at $1,000,000, to a sister, Mrs. Rosa Graff. The will was sustained by a jury in Circuit Judge Rutledge's Court last October. The bill of exceptions, covering approximately 2400 typewritten pages of testimony, preparatory to appeal, was signed yesterday by Judge Rutledge and the appeal is set for argument in the Supreme Court in October.

GIRLS! LEMONS WHITEN SKIN AND BLEACH FRECKLES

Recipe for a Bleaching Lotion Which Does Not Irritate

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of harmless and delightful lemon bleach. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day, then shortly note the beauty and whiteness of your skin.

Famous stage beauties use this lemon lotion to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion, also as a freckle, sunburn, and tan bleach because it doesn't irritate.

TO ANNOUNCE PROPOSED PRIMARY ROAD SYSTEM

Tentative Plans for 1500 Miles of Superior Type Highways to Be Made Public Today.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 11.—Tentative routes chosen as components of the State primary road system of 1500 miles of higher type roads will be publicly announced tomorrow, Chairman Gary of the State Highway Commission said today. The commission, which convened this morning in its regular July meeting, is hearing delegations on routine matters, and on various bridge projects. Large delegations are here from throughout the State.

After making public the decision of its engineers as to the primary roads tomorrow the commission will fix dates the earliest of which will be at least a week distant, at which hearings will be held to enable persons displeased with the proposed primary routes to present their objections before the commission. These hearings probably will be held in Jefferson City, St. Louis, Springfield and Kansas City. The commission hopes to hear all the protests, and make its final decision by Aug. 1.

Hopes to Let Contracts by Fall.

The commission hopes also to sell the first installment of bonds and let contracts for part of the construction on the primary system by early fall. Work will begin by that time also, it is anticipated, on part of the secondary highways, of which the State system will include approximately 5700 miles.

While the engineers of the State highway department have been at work completing data on which they based their recommendations for the primary system, they also have been compiling the figures to be used in apportioning to the counties their share of the prospective proceeds of the $60,000,000 bonds on a mileage basis.

Announcement of Shares.

By the time the primary system is settled, the commission will be ready to announce how much money each county is entitled to have spent on roads of the State system which are within its limits.

As soon as bonds are sold, the commission will be ready to start work on some of the secondary roads as well as on those of the higher types. Places which demand immediate treatment are being catalogued. Attorneys are working on legal questions bearing on the prospective issuance of bonds, Gary said and a report from them is expected at the August meeting.

Says His Prescription Has Powerful Influence Over Rheumatism

Mr. James H. Allen of Rochester, N. Y. suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

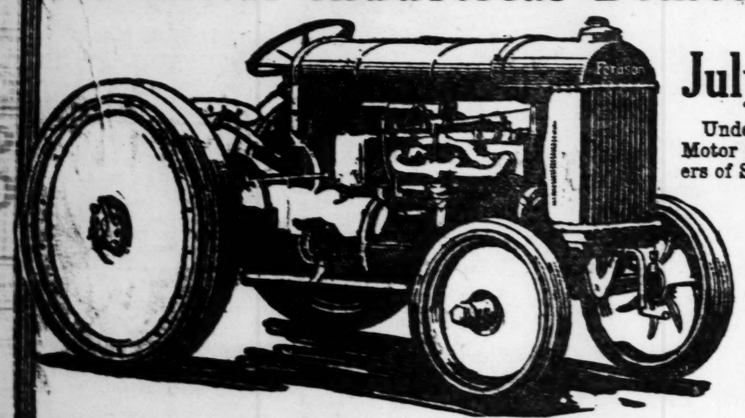

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind, he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called Allenrhu, to others, who took it with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed druggists everywhere to dispense Allenrhu with the understanding that if the first pint bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment. PLEA FOR COMMUTATION OF KIDNAPING SENTENCE HEARD

Release of Alexis Droit, Convicted in 1916 in Magarian Case, Opposed by East Side Prosecutor.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 11.—The plea for commutation of sentence of Alexis Droit of East St. Louis, serving 15 years for the kidnaping of Alfonse Magarian, 3 years old, in East St. Louis on Oct. 4, 1916, was taken under advisement by the division of pardons and paroles today. Droit was sentenced for kidnaping the Magarian child after being found not guilty on charges of using the mails in an attempt to blackmail and of murdering the Magarian boy. Samuel W. Baxter of East St. Louis appeared for Droit today, while Assistant State's Attorney H. L. Lindauer opposed the commutation plea.

Baxter maintained that Droit was wrongfully convicted on circumstantial evidence.

Alfonse Magarian was kidnaped from the Magarian home in 1916 and his body found in a weed patch a block from the home a week later, Baxter said. He then reviewed the trial in the Federal Court in Danville on charges of attempting to extort money from Magarian and told the board that Federal Judge Francis Wright of Champaign had ordered the jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty.

Droit was next tried in Madison County on a charge of murdering the Magarian boy, but was found not guilty, Baxter said. He then pointed out to the board that the evidence on which he was convicted in the kidnaping case was virtually the same as that given in the other two cases and was entirely circumstantial.

Assistant State's Attorney Lindauer of Belleville declared that the Magarian child's parents had reported to the authorities that Droit and his wife were operating a disorderly house a block from their home, that the evidence submitted at the trial showed that ill feeling had existed between the families and that Droit had kidnaped the boy.

FIRE SWEEPS HARVEST FIELDS

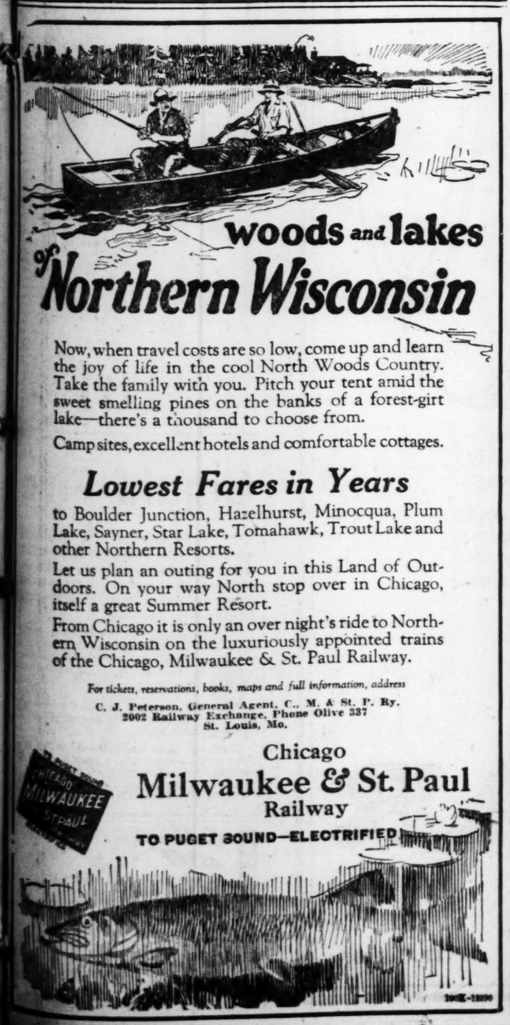

Blaze Near Edwardsville Starts After Train Passes—Loss Heavy.

Harvest fields for nine miles along the Clover Leaf Railroad east of Edwardsville were afire yesterday, and the farmers report heavy loss. The fires followed the passage of a passenger train and are attributed by the farmers to sparks.

Frank Rinkel lost 21 acres of wheat and William Friedhoss's timothy field of 15 acres was burned. Two portions of Frank Miller's farm were set on fire and Henry Weidner was a heavy loser. Others reported grain in the shock burned and hay ricks destroyed.

Broadcasting the opera "Spring Maid" as it is played in the outdoor theater in Forest Park.

Radio Station K S D of the Post-Dispatch last night presented the second artists' program in the series begun with the opening of the powerful new broadcasting set on June 26. At the same time the station resumed its regular concert schedule which was interrupted by the studio fire of July 3. Arthur Joseffy, baritone, and Miss Margaret Dee, pianiste, gave the program in the temporary studio, and both splendidly lived up to the standard required for artists' night.

From the beginning of the famous "Prologue" of the Leoncavallo opera "I Pagliacci" to the last note of his last number Mr. Joseffy impressed his hearers as an artist of unusual distinction. His voice, a bass-baritone of dramatic quality and unusual range, was heard to exceptional advantage in the exacting aria "Why Do the Nations So Furiously Rage," from Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah," and its flexibility and versatility were further demonstrated in two negro spirituals and an Irish ballad which formed part of his second and third song groups.

Miss Dee, a St. Louis pianiste who was regarded as a "wonder child" of the piano from the time she was big enough to reach the keyboard, served with equal distinction as accompanist for Mr. Joseffy and as virtuoso, presenting two piano groups impressively. Messages, both local and long-distance, which came in by telephone after the concert, were enthusiastic in admiration of both artists.

Tonight the opening numbers of the opera, "Spring Maid," will be broadcast by Station K S D, following a short program from the temporary studio.

WOMAN WHO KILLED HUSBAND IS EXONERATED BY JURY

Verdict of Justifiable Homicide Is Returned in Case of Mrs. Nella Cook.

Mrs. Nella Cook, 29 years old, of 1018A South Fourth street, who shot and killed her husband, David Cook, 35, an ice puller employed by the Polar Wave Ice and Fuel Co., at 6:30 p. m. Sunday, was exonerated by a coroner's jury today. A verdict of justifiable homicide was returned.

Mrs. Cook did not testify at the inquest. Neighbors testified that Mrs. Cook had often expressed fear of her husband. Mrs. Kate O'Leary, 1018 South Fourth street, said that Mrs. Cook had asked her earlier in the day to stay with her, as she feared her husband would attempt to do her harm when he returned home as he had been drinking. She said Cook came home intoxicated and started to abuse his wife. Unable to find his revolver, she said, he obtained a razor and cut his wife.

Mrs. O'Leary said she ran out of the house and did not see Mrs. Cook fire two shots at her husband. Several other witnesses testified to hearing Cook abuse his wife and seeing him throw articles at her.

Mrs. Cook told the police when arrested that her husband came home drunk, and after throwing a percolator at her cut her with a razor on her left arm and right breast. She said she fired two shots at him with his revolver.

Woman, 62, Hurt in Fall.

Mrs. Catherine Von Gruben, 62 years old, a widow, of 3803A North Twenty-first street, suffered a fractured hip and internal injuries at 9:30 o'clock last night when she fell from a porch on the second floor of her home. She was taken to St. John's Hospital. The police reported that Mrs. Von Gruben was climbing over the banister of the porch when her nephew, Charles, took her by the arm and attempted to help her back. His hold broke and she fell 20 feet to the yard. Mrs. Von Gruben had been ill, the police reported.

Best Home Treatment for All Hairy Growths

(The Modern Beauty)

Every woman should have a small package of delatone handy, for its timely use will keep the skin free from beauty-marring hairy growths. To remove hair or fuzz from arms or neck, make a thick paste with some of the powdered delatone and water. Apply to hairy surface and after two or three minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be free from hair or blemish. To avoid disappointment, be sure you get real delatone and [illegible] fresh.

Attack Upon Girl Reported.

The police are investigating a reported criminal attack by four young men on a 16-year-old girl, daughter of a widow, which, they were told, occurred at Vandeventer and Easton avenues at 9 o'clock Sunday night. The girl had visited an aunt, she reported, and was on her way to the aunt's home from Fairground Park when the men seized her at the corner and dragged her behind the post-office substation at 4030-32 Easton avenue and held her prisoner for half an hour.

2 Cushioning—
3 Long, Economical Wear

These are exactly the things the Goodyear All-Weather Tread Solid Tire is designed and built to deliver.

This tire has the enormous tractive power of the famous All-Weather Tread; in the 36x10 size, for example, 704 inches of its high, thick blocks grip the surface and hold in mud, slush and ice, preventing stalling and spinning, saving fuel and engine strain.

Also it has the cushioning resilience of that great tread design. It is 60% springier than some so-called cushion tires, and 12% more resilient than the average.

Even experienced truck owners marvel at the stubborn wearing quality of the Goodyear All-Weather Tread Solid Tire construction. When the original tread finally is worn down, it can be renewed quickly at little cost by an easy regrooving process.

Get this new Goodyear All-Weather Tread Solid Tire. It will give you extra miles, greater operating economy, longer truck life and more profitable hauling at low cost.

For other types of hauling, Goodyear makes other special types of tires.

How to Increase Weight and Put on Solid Stay-There Flesh

What difference does it make to you how EVANS' TRIPLE PHOSPHATES puts good, solid, red-blooded, healthy flesh on your body as long as it does it, and makes you feel 100% better at the same time?

Evans' Triple Phosphates is something new and something that really does what is claimed for it. Start in to take it with each meal, and in four days you know that you are growing more and feel stronger and more active. Continue with the treatment faithfully for 30 days more and note with pride how that your nerves are growing more responsive; that your ambition does not lag, but is cheerfully obedient to it; that a touch of color is appearing in your cheeks and that your digestion ceases to become a task and is a pleasure. Notice that never before in your whole life have you enjoyed things as you do today. Weigh yourself at the end of one month and let the scales tell the story.

Judge & Dolph Drug Co., Rieger Drug Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Kiefer Drug Co. and all good druggists have agreed to supply thin, run-down, underdeveloped persons with the understanding that if, one month's treatment doesn't give most gratifying results your money is waiting for you. But don't take it even though it accomplishes wonders in nervous digestive troubles unless you want to put on flesh and gain weight.

SOY BEAN AND PEANUT RATES CONSIDERED BY THE SENATE

Day Results in Defeat for Republican Bloc in Effort to Increase Tariff.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Failure of the Republican agricultural tariff bloc in the Senate today to increase the tariff on soy beans and the approval, 52 to 13, of the existing emergency rates of 3 cents a pound on unshelled peanuts and 4 cents a pound on the shelled, marked Senate consideration yesterday of the tariff bill. The soya bean rate approved was four-tenths of a 1 cent per pound.

Other rates approved today included: Flaxseed oil, 3½ cents a pound, an increase of 1 cent over the House rate; castor oil, 4½ cents, an increase of 1½ cents over the House rate; rape seed oil, 6 cents a gallon, a slight reduction from the House rate; flaxseed, 40 cents a bushel, House rate 25 cents; cottonseed one-third of a cent a pound, House duty free. Eggs, in the shell, 8 cents a dozen, an increase of 2 cents over the House rate; frozen or otherwise prepared, 6 cents a pound, House rate 4 cents; dried, 18 cents a pound, House rate 15 cents.

CREVE COEUR DANCE HALL MEN ARRESTED ON LIQUOR CHARGES

Federal Agents Seek to Have Resort Closed for Year as Nuisance.

E. A. Duckwall, proprietor of a cafe and dance hall at Creve Coeur Lake, and five waiters in the place were arrested by Federal prohibition agents last night on charges of possessing and selling liquor. The agents, who had a search warrant, reported finding a half gallon of wine and five pints of whisky. They declared they had had no trouble in buying drinks from Duckwall and the waiters on previous occasions. In applying for warrants against the six men under the Volstead act today, the agents applied also to have the place closed for a year under the nuisance clause of this law.

POWDER BURN FATAL TO NEGRO YOUTH

Second Death From July Fourth Celebrations in This District This Year.

George Wilkins, 15 years old, a negro, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilkins of 4414 Maffitt avenue, died at city hospital No. 2 early today from tetanus, resulting from a powder burn from a blank cartridge, suffered on July 4.

This is the first death resulting in St. Louis from this year's Independence Day celebration. There were no deaths from this cause resulting from the 1921 celebration. As was told yesterday, Louis Nagy, 19 years old, of Granite City, died there yesterday from tetanus resulting from powder burns from a blank cartridge. This was the first Fourth of July fatality in this district this year.

Injury Said to Be Accidental.

The police were called yesterday to take the Wilkins boy to the hospital. They were told that his injury had been accidentally inflicted by some unknown person and that a physician had given him temporary treatment.

The physicians, Dr. A. F. Peeler of 4301 Easton avenue, told a Post-Dispatch reporter today that the boy had come to him on July 4 with a small powder burn on the middle finger of his left hand, but no wound. Dr. Peeler treated him twice a day until Sunday night, when he considered the injury was healed. He said he had not administered anti-tetanus serum because he had seen no alarming symptom.

In statements prior to July 4 safety advocates urged that anti-tetanus serum be administered as a measure of safety in all cases of powder burns or cartridge wounds.

Another Tetanus Patient.

William Nickel, 11, son of Robert W. Nickel of 1 Truesdale avenue, Webster Groves, is in a serious condition at the city hospital with tetanus from a blank cartridge wound which he suffered on July 5.

He says he was playing with another boy who had a blank cartridge pistol and was given permission to fire it. He was lifting the hammer when it slipped and he shot himself in the left palm. His mother gave him first treatment and sent him to a doctor, who gave local treatment. His condition became worse and he was taken to the hospital, where he immediately received an injection of anti-tetanus serum, but this morning his jaws were locked.

ERECTION OF 285 ELECTRIC STREET LAMPS APPROVED

Lights, Which Will Cost About $53,000, Will Be Paid for From Bond Issue Item.

Approval for the erection of 285 electric street lights by the Department of Public Utilities has been given by the Supervisory Committee on Bond Issue Expenditures. The lights, which will cost about $53,000, will be paid for from the $400,000 balance of the $1,000,000 item for lights in the bond issue of two years ago.

The principal circuits will be on King's highway, from Arsenal street to Oakland avenue, 100 lamps; King's highway Northeast, 13 lamps; King's highway Southwest, 21 lamps. Except for the King's highway viaduct and the portion of the thoroughfare between Lindell boulevard and Easton avenue, King's highway lighting will be completely electrified when this work is done. The remaining stretches may be done later.

Another important circuit planned is 71 lamps on Goodfellow avenue, between Roosevelt and Bircher, and Natural Bridge avenue, between Clara and the city limits. Streets on which the other lamps will be placed are: Alaska, Schirmer, Bradley, Iron, Walsh and several streets in Parkside Addition.

There are now 3676 new-type electric lights in outlying districts, 2300 arc lights downtown, 767 incandescent electric lights in alleys downtown and 22,181 gas lamps all over the city.

MORE INTERNATIONAL BALLOONS ENTERED IN RACE THAN EVER

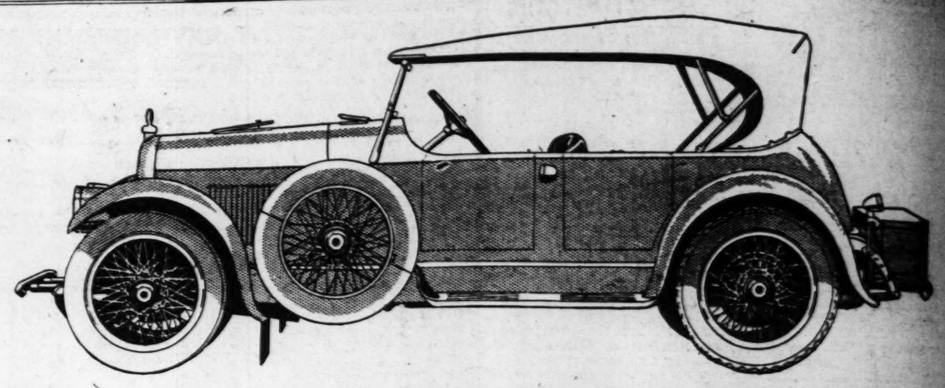

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Twenty balloons have been entered to contes tfor the Gordon Bennett Aeronautic Cup at Geneva, Switzerland, on Aug. 6. This will be the first time such a large number of international balloonists will compete.

England, France, Italy, United States, Belgium and Switzerland have each entered three balloons. Two balloons have been entered by Spain.

During the week before the contest, various sporting events and festivities will be held. On Aug. 1, a night festival will be given in the harbor of Geneva; on the second day, a distance match for balloons above 1600 meters will take place; on Aug. 3, a motor car rallye-balloon will be disputed; on Aug. 4, a direction match; on Aug. 5, in the harbor, will be run the French-Swill championship of oars and the traditional match Lyon-Geneva by set of eight oarsmen; in the evening, Venetian festival with numerous decorated and illuminated crafts; on Aug. 6, the competitors for the cup will take their home flight.

The grand prix of the International Motor Cyclists' Union will be contested during Aug. 2 to Aug. 8, under the title of six days' match.

The Thought of the Unknown Buyer

Every Kissel workman feels a sense of true obligation to the man or woman who buys the car he helps to build.

He has been trained to work with the thought of the Unknown Buyer uppermost in his mind—he thinks of this buyer as a real individual, whose comfort, safety and satisfaction depend on the skill and thoroughness with which his work is done.

The first time you take the wheel of a Kissel Custom-Built Six, you sense the difference brought about by this idea of building each car as if for a special order. Every month and every mile pile up further proof of distinctive performance.

Check over one by one the qualities you expect in the car of your choice, then see how surely Kissel has provided them, with a finish and refinement that go even beyond your expectations, and at a price that makes immediate ownership easily possible.

The car awaits your inspection.

Consistent Performance
—When you have driven a Kissel for hours at a stretch, you will realize what master craftsmanship means in a motor car. The ready responsiveness of the motor, the ease of handling, the unwonted comfort and the freedom from vibration, noise and side-sway—these are found only in the custom-built car.

Unusual Endurance
—The Kissel custom-built principle reduces operation troubles to a minimum. Repeated tests and inspections insure sturdy axles, steering knuckles, frame and springs. Hand fitting and careful manufacturing eliminate looseness in bearings, pistons and other moving parts. The Kissel is made to endure.

Built for Safety
—There is no better insurance than dependable brakes and ability to hold the road. The Kissel is fitted with double external contracting brakes, easily adjustable and dependable. The frame has a "kick up" at either end so that the weight of the car is hung extremely low and is evenly distributed.

Uniformity
—No one part in the Kissel receives special attention at the expense of others. Construction throughout is uniformly thorough. You do not "happen" to get a good Kissel. Each car is as carefully built as its brothers.

INCREASE IN LACLEDE POWER RATES GRANTED

Commission, However, Refuses to permit Company to Reduce Quality of Gas.

The Laclede Gas Light Co. yesterday obtained permission, in an order issued by the Missouri Public Service Commission, to increase its rates for electric service to put them on a par with rates of the Union Electric Light and Power Co. The commission denied an application of the company for permission to decrease the number of British thermal units in its gas from 600 to 570, which would have affected the quality of its product.

The commission made a statement of its reasons for denying the application to decrease the number of thermal units, involving both technical considerations and the interests of the company's customers, the opinion being expressed that to reduce the number of thermal units, which would impair the quality of the gas, would mean a great loss to the consumers, without a corresponding reduction in rates.

The increase in bills to the company's electric consumers will average 9.94 per cent, according to the company's estimate, and the company's revenue from electricity sales, estimated at the new rates, is figured at $798,598 a year, and its expenses $394,859, leaving $403,739 available for depreciation, surplus and contingencies. The commission fixed a tentative valuation of $8,500,000 on the electrical property of the company as the basis for rate making.

In presenting the case for the company, Daniel G. Taylor argued that owing to the high quality of gas required, the rates earned $200,000 less than the amount sufficient to pay the interest on the bonded indebtedness, and that the company had not paid the common stockholders any dividend since March, 1919. He added that salaries had been reduced and every economy practiced.

In a separate opinion Commissioner Simpson said the company in the proceeding made the mistake of undertaking to relieve itself of an unnecessary burden of operation without extending to the consumer a corresponding decrease in rates, and he observed that the case assumed the aspect of "an attempt to increase operating revenue through a semicircuitous route."

MILLIONAIRE'S NAME FORGED

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 11.—The name of Oakleigh Thorne, millionaire of New York and Thorndale, at Millbrook, was forged to two checks presented at local stores in this city in the last week, and Mrs. Albert Kimler of Pine Plains has been arrested, charged with the forgeries. She has been released on bail of $2000.

Each of the checks was for $55. The forgeries were crude, even the name of the millionaire being spelled "Oakley Thorn." The incorrect signatures were not noticed and the checks were accepted. They were drawn on the Stissing National Bank and were indorsed by William Evans.

The Thorne house last week was the scene of a second mysterious robbery.

REED AGAIN ASSAILS HEAD OF ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE IN SPEECH AT GALLATIN

Senator Devotes Large Part of Address to Questions to the Rev. W. C. Shupp About His Dealings With Republicans.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

GALLATIN, Mo., July 11.—Senator Reed, in a speech here last night, attacked the Rev. W. C. Shupp, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League. He said in part:

"The Rev. Shupp will not be permitted to avoid the issue by a technical denial, which he employs for the purpose of obscuring the truth.

"In my speech at Salisbury I asked questions, in substance as follows:

"Is not the Anti-Saloon League, which is controlled by Shupp, getting its rent free from William Sacks, an oil operator, who is a pronounced wet, and who is running for the nomination for United States Senator on the Republican ticket on a platform declaring in favor of light wines and beer?

Shupp's Reply Quoted.

"To this the Rev. Mr. Shupp makes reply—'It is true that he (Sacks) did forget to collect rent for several months. It might have been two or three. That was all right. We have been good tenants in this building for several years. We pay $100 a month rent for two rooms.'

"The above is quoted from the Globe-Democrat, where it appears in quotation marks.

"Does the Rev. Shupp want to have the public believe that Sacks merely neglected to collect rent for two or three months?

"I challenge him to deny that there was an agreement that the premises should be occupied free.

"I challenge him to state for what period of time his organization occupied the premises rent free.

Challenge as to Agreement.

"I challenge him to tell when the agreement to waive rent was made, and to state all of the circumstances attending the agreement.

"Is it not a fact, Brother Shupp, that you have been paid by Mr. Sacks in connection with trips you have made regarding political offices?

"Will you please inform the Anti-Saloon League for which you work, and the people of the State of Missouri, how much of your time you have expended in making these trips, and the names of the Republican politicians you have been in consultation with regarding these Republican political appointments?

"Did you not make a trip to Washington at the instance and request of Jacob L. Babler, Republican National Committeeman, to interview or consult with Congressman Hays relative to the appointment of a postmaster at Cape Girardeau?

Other Questions Asked.

"Was any money paid to you, either on account of your services or expenses on that trip, and if so, who paid the money?

"Did you not ask Edward Regenhart, former United States Marshal at St. Louis, and candidate for postmaster at Cape Girardeau, to pay your expenses to Washington in connection with the postmastership controversy at Cape Girardeau? Did not Regenhart refuse to put up the money, and did you not then secure this money from Jacob L. Babler?

"Did not Jacob L. Babler, Republican National Committeeman, invite Edward Regenhart to come to St. Louis to see him about the postmastership at Cape Girardeau, and were you not in Babler's office in consultation with Babler when Mr. Regenhart arrived?

"Was not Mr. Regenhart informed in substance at this meeting that the applicants for the postmastership at Cape Girardeau were not satisfactory to either you or Babler, and was not Regenhart solicited to become a candidate for the postmastership?

Asked if He Backed Wet.

"Was it not talked at this meeting or at a subsequent meeting, that Mr. Regenhardt was a well-known wet; that he had managed the campaign of Dwight F. Davis for United States Senator on a wet platform, and was not surprise expressed by Mr. Regenhardt that you should be found backing a wet for the position of Postmaster?

"At Salisbury, I asked whether you had not been in frequent conference with Jacob L. Babler. It is possible that I used the term "nightly" conferences. Your reply is that you held a conference with Prohibition Director Allen and Babler, when, in company, with Mr. Selph, I saw you. If you are correctly quoted, you endeavored to give the public to understand that you never had but one conference with Babler, and that I happened to see you at that conference.

"Have you not consorted with Mr. Babler in an arrangement by which you agreed to assist Babler in securing the appointment of men to offices which were not connected with the enforcement of the prohibition law?

Answer to Fund Question.

"In my Salisbury speech I asked you if in recent campaigns there had not been collected in the State of Missouri in the name of the Anti-Saloon League a fund of over $200,000. Again, your answer avoids the question. You state that in the last campaign the published reports showed that you collected $38,457.

"But my question was not limited to the last campaign, nor limited to what your published reports showed. I again ask you if in recent campaigns the Anti-Saloon League has not taken subscriptions in excess of $200,000.

"I challenge you to state specifically how much they collected in the campaigns of 1916 and 1918 and 1920.

"Now, Brother Shupp, let us have a clear-cut and unequivocal answer to these questions.

"A man who professes the word "reverend" to his name and poses before the public as a reformer and as a man of God, should deal in no equivocation. He should never take refuge behind ambiguities."

SEDALIA SHOWS ENTHUSIASM AT LONG MEETING

Supporters Say He Will Carry Pettis County, Which Has Been Counted Reed Stronghold.

'THOUGHT REED WAS DEAD POLITICALLY'

Woman Speaker Says 'Perhaps He Is and Doesn't Nnow It'; Speculation on Vote.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SEDALIA, Mo., July 11.—Sedalia, the county seat of Pettis County, where Breckinridge Long, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, spoke last night, has been counted as one of the Reed strongholds, and probably he will receive here as large a proportion of the vote as in any county. Sedalia gave Long an unusually enthusiastic reception. The arrangements for Long's reception indicated much more preparation than is usually found at Long meetings. There was a band and a Reception Committee of more than 100 at the railway station, and he was escorted in a parade to the Terry Hotel.

While the Long supporters say he will carry Pettis County, they do not expect his majority to be large. One supporter last night said that, if a full vote came out, Long should receive a majority of somewhat in excess of 1200, but other Long men said frankly they did not look for a majority nearly that large.

In the Last Election.

In the last general election Pettis County cast 6500 votes for Cox, but in the primary preceding that election there were only 1800 votes for Democratic candidates. The women voted in the general election, but did not vote in the primary.

What the Democratic vote in the primary Aug 1 will be is problematical, but it is expected to be large, as there is an unusual interest in the senatorial fight and each candidate has a good working local organization which should bring out a large vote. The vote, however, probably will be considerably less than 5000.

While the more active of the Long supporters say that they expect a majority of 1000 for Long, it is the general understanding here that they will be fairly well satisfied if Long carries the county by 500. On the other hand, the Reed supporters say they expect Reed to carry the county, and there is sufficient sentiment for Reed to justify the belief that they are entirely honest in their opinion.

The Long meeting, which was in the Municipal Auditorium, was opened by Harve Terry, member of the Democratic State Committee, and a Reed supporter. Terry admitted, however, that at home he had a divided house. He is for Reed, but his wife is for Long.

There were between 800 and 300 in Long's audience, nearly as many as heard Reed when he was here more than a month ago. There were few farmers in the audience, a heavy rain earlier in the day having made the roads muddy.

Long was introduced by Dr. Nancy Meek Hain, who in her speech said that Reed in the Senate had been a consistent opponent of everything in which women were interested. She mentioned his opposition to prohibition, suffrage, children's code measures and the maternity bill.

"He never has failed to accept or failed to make an opportunity to ridicule women employed by the Government to give instruction to women which would enable them properly to care for their children in sickness until they could get a doctor," she said.

"When I sat all night through the Joplin convention," she continued, and saw Senator Reed rejected by an overwhelming majority, I did not expect that I ever again would see him before the people of Missouri. I thought he was politically dead. Perhaps he is and doesn't know it."

Long's speech was about the same he has been delivering recently. He bore down particularly heavy on his charge that the Reed organization in St. Louis was systematically planning to induce Republicans to vote in the Democratic primary and to vote for Reed, saying again that Ed Glenn, Reed's manager, had written to Republicans asking them to vote in the Democratic primary.

"We know what they are doing," Long said, "and steps are being taken to prevent them from carrying out their plan.

"While Long did not go into detail, it is known that the Long organization is preparing to challenge the votes of all Republicans in the State who ask for Democratic ballots in the primary.

In nearly all the counties Democratic judges of election will be chosen by members of the county committees who are favorable to Long, and it is the understanding that attention is being given to the selection of judges who are favorable to Long with a view to preventing Republicans from voting for Reed contrary to the spirit and letter of the primary law.

In some counties there will be a Long challenger in every voting place and his duty will be to challenge Republicans who seek to enter the Democratic primary. Under the law the judges may require a voter to make an affidavit that he is a Democrat and intends to vote the Democratic ticket in the general election before he is given a Democratic ballot.

Long will speak tonight in Paris, Monroe County, where Reed spoke a week ago.

Facts Concerning Republicans Who Are Seeking Nomination for Circuit Judge

These Candidates Will Be Voted On at Primary Aug. 1, Each Republican Voter Casting Ballot for Nine of Them.

The Post-Dispatch here presents, for the information of voters in the primary Aug. 1, facts concerning the candidates for the Republican nominations for the office of Circuit Judge. Information as to the Democratic candidates will be printed later.

Nine Circuit Judges are to be elected in November, and nine are to be nominated by each party in the primary. In the primary, every voter will vote as a member of one party, and the voter's choice will be restricted to the candidates within that party. In the November election, the voter can make a selection from all party tickets, and can "split" his or her vote to any extent desired.

In the primary, as in the election to follow, every voter is supposed to select nine candidates for Circuit Judge, and to vote for them by scratching out all the others. If any voter votes for less than nine, the vote will count for the candidates named. But if any voter votes for more than nine, the vote will be thrown out, so far as nominations for judges are concerned.

The St. Louis Bar Association recently conducted two polls among the lawyers of the city, one on the Republican candidates, in which Republican lawyers, both members of the association and non-members, voted, and the other for Democratic lawyers, upon Democratic candidates. Three ballots were taken on the Republican candidates before the list of nine, with majority indorsements, was completed. This indicates that some of those not indorsed received nearly as many votes as those who were indorsed. The figures on the balloting have not been made public.

Thirty-five Republicans are seeking nominations for the Circuit bench. Seven of the present Circuit Judges are among the Republican aspirants. These incumbents are named first in the following list:

Wilson A. Taylor (incumbent), 1386 Arlington avenue. Educated in University of Missouri; elected Judge of Court of Criminal Correction in 1906, and to Circuit Court in 1910; re-elected in 1916. Chairman of St. Louis Legal Advisory Board in wartime. Has been active in furthering measures to expedite court procedure; he now presides over the assignment court, which was established for this purpose. Indorsed by Republican lawyers in poll conducted by Bar Association.

Charles B. Davis (incumbent), 6017 Columbia avenue. Graduate collegiate department and law school, University of Missouri. Admitted to bar in 1905. Assistant Circuit Attorney in 1909-12, and associate City Counselor 1915-16. Elected Circuit Judge in 1916. Indorsed by Republican lawyers in poll conducted by Bar Association.

John W. Calhoun (incumbent), 3523 Longfellow place. Graduate Washington University; admitted to bar in 1907. Head of Legal Aid Bureau, established by Bar Association, and later taken over by the city, for four years. Was elected to Circuit bench in 1916, when 31 years old.

In the 1920 campaign, Judge Calhoun took the lead in a factional political fight in his ward, the Fourteenth, supporting A. M. Brinkman for committeeman against E. S. Nicolai, who sought re-election to that position. He engaged in a newspaper controversy, at that time, with Police Judge Ittner, a partisan of Nicolai. Brinkman was elected.

The Fourteenth Ward fight has recently been echoed in the Methudy divorce case, which was tried before Judge Calhoun, a decree being granted to the husband. Mrs. Methudy, in a motion for a new trial, cited the fact that Brinkman was one of the husband's lawyers, and called attention to the political connection between the Judge and Brinkman. The Supreme Court recently refused to grant a review of the case, on the ground cited by the wife.

Benjamin J. Klene (incumbent), 5339A Vernon avenue. Educated in Washington University, admitted to St. Louis Bar in 1886. Former State Senator. Appointed by Gov. Hadley as Judge Court of Criminal Correction in 1909. Elected to circuit bench in 1916. Has alienated support of some members of Republican City Committee by unwillingness to grant their request, and by his objection to "Bobby" Moore, a "Courthouse Ring" committeeman, as clerk of Juvenile Court. Judge Klene, who was presiding in the Juvenile Court in 1920, objected to Moore's continuance in that court after the disclosure that Moore had taken $2500 of Lowden campaign money. Indorsed by Republican lawyers in poll conducted by Bar Association.

Henry A. Hamilton (incumbent), 1226 Clara avenue. Educated Washington University, admitted to bar 1898. Member of House of Delegates 1909-11, first associate City Counselor 1917-21. Appointed by Gov. Hyde to fill a newly created judgeship. Indorsed by Republican lawyers in poll conducted by Bar Association.

Charles W. Rutledge (incumbent), 3658A Flad avenue. Educated Washington University. Formerly active in Thirteenth Ward Republican politics; member of Board of Freeholders which drafted present charter of St. Louis. Member Legal Advisory Board in wartime. Appointed by Gov. Hyde last year to fill a newly created judgeship.

Victor H. Falkenhainer (incumbent), 3612 South Jefferson avenue. Educated in public schools and Washington University Law School. Assistant Prosecuting Attorney, 1907-11. Judge Court of Criminal Correction, Division 2, 1911-13. Elected to circuit bench in 1916.

George F. Haid, 6177 Washington avenue. Graduate Washington University Law School 1898. Appointed in 1901 Assistant Clerk of the United States Court of Appeals, serving until 1910. Has since practiced law, having been for several years in the office of Jones, Hocker, Sullivan & Angert, and was appointed First Associate City Counselor a year ago. Indorsed by Republican lawyers in poll conducted by Bar Association.

Claude O. Pearcy, 3850 Lafayette avenue. Graduate University of Missouri, served in lower house of Legislature in 1915. Was active in promotion of proposed reform of code of civil procedure. Lecturer in St. Louis University Law School and City College of Law. In 1920 primary was one of three candidates receiving highest vote in Bar Association's poll of Republican lawyers, but was defeated by "Courthouse Ring" candidates. Again indorsed this year by Republican lawyers in poll conducted by Bar Association.

Henry A. Rosskopf, 3721 Hartford street. Graduate Benton College of Law, 1901. Assistant Circuit Attorney from 1905 to 1913. Member and former president Board of Education; during a period of factional divisions in the board, he supported policies of (then) Supt. Withers. Represented the city Board of Estimate and Apportionment, in a legal capacity, at the last session of the Legislature, and appeared before committees on matters affecting St. Louis city finances. Indorsed by Republican lawyers in poll conducted by Bar Association.

Wilbur C. Schwartz, 3816A St. Louis avenue. Graduate Washington University Law School, 1911. For seven years member of the Board of Aldermen from the Twentieth Ward; vice president of board for past four years. Indorsed by Republican lawyers in poll conducted by Bar Association.

George H. Shields, 3665 Delmar boulevard. Is 80 years old, and served two terms as Circuit Judge, from 1907 to 1921, with a two-year interim between terms. Has lived in St. Louis since 1873, and was Assistant Attorney-General of the United States, and later counsel for the Interior Department, under President Harrison's administration. Was a member of the Missouri Constitutional Convention of 1875, and was president of the Board of Freeholders, which framed the St. Louis City Charter of 1876, under which the city was governed until 1914. Served in the Civil War, and is a member of Blair Post, G. A. R. In 1920 he was one of the three candidates receiving the highest vote in the Bar Association's poll of Republican lawyers, but was beaten in the primary by the "Courthouse Ring" candidates.

Erwin G. Ossing, 4566 Holly avenue. Assistant Circuit Attorney, in charge of grand jury; formerly an associate city counselor in police court work. Graduate St. Louis (Washington University) Law School. Has backing of Herman Bader, Twenty-first Ward committeeman. Was one of three candidates in 1920 primary, who were supported by the "Courthouse Ring" of city committeemen. He was defeated in the primary.

A. B. Frey, 5528 Waterman avenue. Graduate Washington University, collegiate and law departments. Lecturer on contracts, St. Louis University law school, 1911 to 1916. Served in wartime as four-minute speaker and member of Legal Advisory Board for Fourth Ward. Elected Circuit Judge in 1918, to fill an unexpired term. Author of a text-book on business law, used in law and commercial schools. Law partner of former Judge Moses N. Sale, one of the Democratic candidates.

Frank B. Grodzki, 1617 Union boulevard. Studied law in City College of Law and Finance while serving as a Deputy Circuit Clerk. Was deputy under Circuit Clerks Kreisman and Graves. Passed State bar examination in 1913, and has practiced law since. Has acted as provisional Judge of the Court of Criminal Correction, and of City (police) Court No. 1. Head of the Polish Citizens' Committee, a nonpolitical body which conducted Polish war relief work, recruiting for the Polish army in France, and Liberty Bond sales.

George E. Mix, 5946 Kingsbury avenue. Judge of City (police) Court No. 2; appointed by Mayor Kiel in 1919, reappointed last October. Candidate for nomination to Circuit bench, in 1920 primary, but was defeated. Has pursued a policy of enforcing traffic ordinances by graded fines for first, second and third offenses, and in speeding cases has made the fine as many dollars as the number of miles per hour shown in testimony. Was indorsed for reappointment by the heads of the Church Federation and the Board of Religious Organizations.

Last February, complaint was made that five shortweight cases were dismissed in Judge Mix's court, and that the docket stated that the dismissal was upon recommendation of the Assistant City Counselor, whereas the fact was that no such recommendation had been made. Judge Mix said he had been informed by another person that the Assistant City Counselor had made such a recommendation. The Mayor said to him that he hoped such errors would not occur in future.

William Zachritz, 2921 Lafayette avenue. Was Circuit Attorney from 1893 to 1897, and Circuit Judge from 1897 to 1902. Was defeated in 1901 for Republican nomination for Mayor, and was renominated for the bench in 1902, but was defeated in the election. In 1912, 1916 and 1920 he was a candidate for nomination for the Circuit bench, but was defeated each time. His best remembered official act, as Circuit Judge, was to instruct a grand jury, in 1898, to investigate a charge of boodling in the House of Delegates in connection with the passage of the Central Traction franchise made by the Post-Dispatch, and, if it could not find evidence to support the charge of bribery, to indict the editors of the Post-Dispatch for criminal libel. The grand jury found no indictment, but the facts charged by the Post-Dispatch were established four years later, in the Folk boodle inquiry. By that time the statute of limitations protected the principals in the boodle transactions exposed in 1898.

Edward E. Rudolph, 5249 Maple avenue. Member of the Board of Aldermen from the First Ward, 1915 to 1917, and Assistant Circuit Attorney from 1909 to 1913. Graduate Washington University Law School; has practiced law since 1899.

Louis E. Trieseler, 1624 Dolman street, was a member of the Forty-eighth, Forty-ninth and Fiftieth General Assemblies. Served as provisional Judge in the Court of Criminal Correction for six weeks in 1919. Is a member of the Constitutional Convention, serving on the Preamble Committee and the Committee on Legislation, Impeachment and Removals. During the Fiftieth General Assembly he was a member of the Judiciary and the Ways and Means and Corporations Committees.

Eugene Hale, 5067 Vernon avenue. Admitted to Illinois bar in 1894; was City Attorney of Jerseyville, 1897 to 1899, when he removed to St. Louis. Member House of Delegates, 1911-13, and a candidate for Circuit Attorney in 1912 and 1916. Member of Legal Advisory Board, Eighteenth Ward, in war time.

Anthony F. Ittner, 2353 South Compton avenue. Served one term as Police Judge; sought reappointment last fall, with support of the heads of the Church Federation and the Board of Religious Organizations, and of certain labor organizations. He was opposed by the Employers' Association, on the ground that he had discharged a number of strike pickets charged with peace disturbance. Mayor Kiel did not reappoint him, naming Judge W. B. Homer in his place.

While the question of Ittner's reappointment was pending, a case came before him in which a former soldier was charged with doing electric wiring without a city license, on the premises of a 5 and 10 cent store. Judge Ittner fined the man $10 and costs, and the manager of the store appealed to Mayor Kiel, who reimbursed the man from his contingent fund for the fine paid. Judge Ittner later filed suit against the store and its manager, asking $100,000 damages, because of statements made in the manager's letter. This suit is still pending.

Judge Ittner last summer assessed fines of $10 each against Circuit Clerk Nat Goldstein, F. M. Slater and other politicians arrested for playing poker in the Claridge Hotel. They appealed to the Court of Criminal Correction, where a jury acquitted them. After he failed of reappointment, Ittner said in a public talk he knew, from the moment when he imposed these fines, that he would not be reappointed. He said the incident of the fine imposed on the former soldier furnished the desired excuse for shelving him.

N. P. Zimmer, 4475 Evans avenue. Educated in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and in Northwestern University Law School; admitted to St. Louis bar in 1894. Now a delegate to the Constitutional Convention. Was for several years president of the Mullanphy Board, which manages the property devoted by the Bryan Mullanphy bequest to the care of immigrants and travelers. Property of the board was improved to create wholesome living conditions for tenants, a bureau was installed in Union Station for the aid of immigrants, and social service plans were inaugurated.

Walter Diehm, 5710 Bartmer avenue. Graduate Washington University, 1902; admitted to the bar in 1903, has since been practicing law in St. Louis. During the war he served on the Legal Advisory Board.

Blodgett Priest, 5561 Chamberlain avenue. Son of former Judge Henry S. Priest. Attended St. Louis Law School, now the Washington University Law School, and has practiced in St. Louis 13 years. Has served as provisional Judge of Court of Criminal Correction, Division 2. Served in wartime as associate counsel in the Bureau of Investigation, Department of Justice, as associate counsel for Emergency Fleet Corporation, and as manager of the Bureau of Deposits of the Alien Property Custodian in Washington.

O. J. Mudd, 5419 Cabanne avenue. Practicing law in St. Louis since 1891. Twice Prosecuting Attorney of St. Charles County, before coming to St. Louis.

J. L. London, Claridge Hotel. Member constitutional convention. Graduate School of Law of Washington University, 1910, and of the law school of the University of Paris. Served overseas as a First Lieutenant in the war.

Leland A. Wind, 4929 McPherson avenue. Graduate Princeton University, 1904, and Washington University Law School, 1906; engaged in practice here since, except for two years' army service, chiefly with the Eighty-ninth Division in France and Germany. Associated with firm of Bryan, Williams & Cave.

Charles A. Lich, 7028 Berthold avenue. Graduate Benton College of Law, 1910; law officer in the Bureau of Immigration, United States Department of Labor, with offices in St. Louis, for seven years.

M. D. Mugan, 322 North Grand boulevard. Has been an educator, more recently a teacher of law. Former member law faculty, University of Alabama.

Taylor B. Wyrick, 3620A Wyoming street, was a member of the Board of Aldermen from the Thirteenth Ward from 1915 until 1921, and previously of the House of Delegates. He was for six years chairman of the Legislative Committee of the board, and as such supervised the revising of the Code of Ordinances. Vice President Tower Grove Heights Improvement Association.

Otis Clonts, 4386 Chouteau avenue. Educated Benton College of Law; has practiced since 1905.

Irvine Mitchell, 5956 Kingsbury avenue. Graduate Washington University Law School, 1905; United States Commissioner for 16 years; resigned Jan. 31 last because of the "overzealous" methods of prohibition enforcement agents. He said at that time that he was a "sane dry."

Edward J. Monti, 1297 Oak court. Graduate St. Louis University Law School, 1913. Has announced his opposition to abuse of parole system, and favors granting parole only on clear showing of merit and without reference to political influence.

William L. Bohnenkamp, 2646A Adelaide avenue. Graduate Missouri University Law School, 1898; has practiced since.

George W. Wellman, 3018A Miami street. Graduate Benton College of Law, 1904; member Eleventh Ward Draft Board in war time. Served an unexpired term of nearly four years as Justice of the Peace for the First District, by appointment of the Circuit Judges.

CANDIDATES INDORSED BY REPUBLICAN LAWYERS IN THE BAR ASSOCIATION

REPUBLICAN lawyers, voting in the Bar Association poll, gave a majority indorsement to these nine candidates for the Republican nominations for Circuit Judge:

JUDGE W. A. TAYLOR.
JUDGE C. B. DAVIS.
JUDGE H. A. HAMILTON.
JUDGE J. W. CALHOUN.
JUDGE B. J. KLENE.
HENRY A. ROSSKOPF.
CLAUDE O. PEARCY.
GEORGE F. HAID.
WILBUR C. SCHWARTZ.

BARRETT OUTLINES HIS LIQUOR VIEW TO "DRY" LEAGUE

"Won't Knowingly Vote for Any Measure Contrary to Constitution," Writes Candidate for Senatorship.

POINTS TO RECORD AS ATTORNEY-GENERAL

"Never Have Found It Necessary to Infringe on Rights of Any Man in Enforcement of Law."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 11.—Attorney-General Barrett has made public a letter which he had written to the Anti-Saloon League declaring that he would not "knowingly vote for any measure contrary to the letter or spirit of the Constitution" if elected United States Senator, but reminding the league that it unsuccessfully had tried to defeat him for the office he now holds. Barrett declared that as Attorney-General he has enforced prohibition, but that in enforcing the liquor laws he had not found it necessary to violate other laws or to infringe upon the rights of any home.

Barrett's Letter.

The Attorney-General's letter follows:

"I have your questionnaire asking my attitude in regard to questions arising under the prohibition amendment. I am anxious to make clear and unmistakable reply.

"The Anti-Saloon League vigorously opposed my election as Attorney-General. You asked me to declare that I would be 'dry,' and I replied that a candidate for the law should cleave to the law itself with absolute fidelity. I said that I would have no more right than a Judge of the Supreme Court would have to promise to make dry decisions. You therefore, marked me as 'noncommital' and issued some 500,000 circulars asking my defeat. I was elected and took an oath to uphold the Constitution and to enforce the laws. No man will say that I have not kept that oath. I think the work of my office has had the approval of the entire State.

"If I am elected to the Senate of the United States, I shall once more take an oath to support the Constitution. I will keep that oath. No honest man will say that any Senator should do less. In my judgment, it is a sham and a fraud for a candidate to promise that which is forbidden by the eighteenth amendment. There is no way of legalizing that which the Constitution forbids.

"I have no sympathy with any argument that any part of the Constitution can be disregarded, evaded or nullified because of any circumstances connected with its adoption. If the American people believe that the eighteenth amendment was unwise, then the proper course is for it to be repealed. They have had and at all times ought to have the same right to repeal the amendment as they had to adopt it.

Points to His Record.

"Every part of the Constitution must be respected and enforced. As to methods of enforcement, I think my record as Attorney-General speaks more to the point than could my words. I have stood for a thorough enforcement, but for a sane and lawful enforcement and I have been equally regardful of every other part of the Constitution.

"In the enforcement of the liquor laws I have never found it necessary to infringe upon the constitutional rights of any man or of any home. I have not enforced one law by violating others and I have not tolerated such a course on the part of any officer acting under my direction. I shall not change that policy in the Senate.

"Doubtless the Volstead law is subject to wise and proper changes and improvements, but I will not knowingly vote for any measure contrary to the letter or spirit of the Constitution which I have sworn to uphold. Exactly the same principle governs the Constitution as governs the laws of the State. Until repealed or changed in a legal and proper manner the Constitution and laws must be enforced or obeyed. I think you will agree that this answers your every question.

"May I add also that the views I have here expressed are the identical statements I have made to the W. C. T. U., the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, the State Federation of Labor and the other organizations which have submitted questionnaires.

CITY AND COUNTY POLITICAL LEADERS TALK WITH BREWSTER

Indicated Essen and Ralph Republican Faction Will Support Senatorial Candidate.

R. R. Brewster, Republican candidate for the United States senatorship, accompanied by Walter S. Dickey, Kansas City publisher, who is supporting him in his race, passed yesterday conferring with city and county political leaders at the Planters Hotel. He held further conferences today. National Committeeman Jacob L. Babler, Circuit Clerk Nat Goldstein, Fred Essen, St. Louis County leader, and State Senator Richard Ralph of the county were among those who visited him. Ralph, in departing from Brewster's room after a conference of several hours, told Brewster they would look after him in St. Louis County, which probably means that the organization strength in St. Louis County controlled by Essen and Ralph will be thrown to Brewster.

William Sacks and the local supporters of David M. Proctor of Kansas City both have made statements to newspaper men recently, claiming the support of Essen.

Brewster met Mrs. Frank P. Hays, president of the Women's Republican Club of St. Louis, and several other members, and also conferred with Mrs. J. M. Hutchinson, president of the Harding-Coolidge Club, a women's organization that is supporting him. Brewster said Mrs. Sylvester Wells, president of the Women's "Brewster-for-Senator" Club of Kansas City, would come here to advocate his candidacy among the women voters.

Brewster said in his opinion the most important question before the nation is how to increase transportation facilities, by river, rail and air. He said the crying need of St. Louis was the development of waterway traffic. "If elected, I pledge myself to support legislation for the development of the Mississippi waterways to the limit of my ability," he said.

Brewster will return to St. Louis July 18 to make his first speech here.

PRELIMINARY AGREEMENT MADE ON RUSSIAN DEVELOPMENT

International Barnsdall Corporation Head Plans Operation of Firm's Properties.

By the Associated Press.

THE HAGUE, July 11.—Henry Mason Day of New York, president of the International Barnsdall Corporation, who arrived here last week for conferences with Lenid Krassin regarding the development of his company's properties in Russia, has concluded a preliminary agreement with Krassin and will go to Moscow July 24 to negotiate a final agreement for a development.

It is proposed that the operations shall be carried on jointly by the American corporation and the soviet government. Oil development in government fields in the Baku and Grosnie regions that have not been under private ownership previously is provided for in the agreement.

The party of which Day is the head consists of Edward Reiser of San Francisco; Eugene O'Connell, Philadelphia; Edward Griffin, New York, and Philip Chadbourne, Boston, engineers; Hunter Marston, New York, and Grant Forbes, Boston, financial experts, and George Ronald, Chicago, legal adviser.

JUVENILE COURT RESOLUTION

The Missouri Woman's Constitution Committee yesterday adopted a resolution, which was introduced by Mrs. Fred Reid, opposing "unalterably" transfer of jurisdiction over the Juvenile Court to any court lower than the Circuit Court, whose Judges now conduct the tribunal for children. The committee will send its secretary, Miss Carol Bates, to Jefferson City, to present this resolution to the Judiciary Committee of the Constitution Convention this evening.

Circuit Judge Garesche, presiding Judge of the Juvenile Court, addressed the committee yesterday, speaking in favor of a separate Juvenile Court. Circuit Judge Hartmann, who formerly presided in the children's court, said he thought it might be better to maintain it as a part of the Circuit Court.

BEY OF REGENCY OF TUNIS DIES

Sidi Mohamed En Naccur Had Occupied Throne Since 1906.

By the Associated Press.

TUNIS, Africa, July 11.—Sidi Mohamed En Naccur, 67 years old, the Bey of the Regency of Tunis, died yesterday.

He had occupied the throne since 1906, when he succeeded his cousin, Sidi Mohamed El Hadi.

Columbia Basin Bill Favored.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The Senate committee on irrigation and reclamation has ordered favorably reported a bill directing Secretary Fall to survey and report to Congress by Jan. 1, 1924, on all essential features of the proposed Columbia basin irrigation project in Washington state.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

Medieval Police Methods.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

"READER" seems to think that we ought to go back to the dark ages. Of course, it is known to the general public that, years ago, in the foreign countries, when one was accused of crime and brought before the Court and jury for trial, they were presumed to be guilty. And "Reader" seems to think that we should still hold to that system. But it seems that the Legislatures of the whole 48 states seem to think that every person should have a chance for life or liberty. Now, in all of the states, when one is accused of crime, he is presumed to be innocent until proved guilty. "Reader" said to let the policemen be rough and get the evidence. Getting the evidence is all right, of course; as a matter of fact, we would all like to stop crime, but the next question is how to do it. I believe, and it stands to reason, that as long as the police are allowed to give the accused the third degree, as "Reader" seems to think is all right, just so long crime will not only be in existence, but will increase, because the professional criminal knows that someone will be arrested and charged with the crime, and if the police are allowed to use the third degree on everyone that they arrest, and put their life in danger until they will say that they did anything, then the real crook will know that he will go free.

CHARLES MARION CLARKE.

"Hospital Dues."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

HAVING done temporary comptometer work for the different railroads, I was recently employed by the Missouri Pacific as a temporary operator at $3.75 per day. Upon finishing two full days' work, I received $6.80, and was informed 70 cents was for hospital dues. I have worked for many roads, and never up until this time have my wages ever been deducted for hospital dues until I was considered a permanent operator and signed a slip to that effect. I spoke to several of the bosses, and all they said was "it was the rule;" but it certainly is not fair. JUSTICE.

Pity the Poor Pullet.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I AM not surprised that members of the Harding family wished to have photographs of themselves killing and plucking a chicken, but I am sorry the Post-Dispatch thought it in good taste to reproduce those photographs. It occurs to me that your paper gives an unusual amount of space to accounts of how dumb creatures are put to death. I hope the time will come when the Post-Dispatch, of which we are all proud, will think it unworthy to give space to items showing how the lower orders of creation are put to death as a result of men's appetite, or passion, or idle curiosity.

The mind which can conceive something amusing in the killing of a barnyard fowl is akin to those other minds, too common throughout America, which delight in the running to earth of lost and perishing creatures—eagles and owls and hawks and rabbits and other quaint or courageous or beautiful creatures. It was Cervantes who put an end to mock chivalry. The world is yet waiting for the man who will popularize genuine chivalry, the chivalry which cannot view the sufferings of the meanest creatures without compassion. LOUIS DODGE.

No Trouble at Chaffee.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I AM requested to write you to inform you that the statements recently published in the St. Louis papers regarding strike disorders at Chaffee, Mo., or in this vicinity, were entirely erroneous and base fabrications. This city and vicinity are in the midst of a peaceful strike, free from any disorders.

I am authorized by prominent citizens to guarantee the railroad expenses for a reporter to come to this city and investigate the supposed disorders. Will you please publish a correction or this letter, in order to correct the wrong impression you have created? W. O. FINNEY,
Secretary School Board.

The "Lizard" Turns.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE "lounge lizards" that locate on the corner of St. Louis and Vandeventer avenues would like to inform "Post-Dispatch Booster," who in all probability is a female that passes that corner and is a good-looker, but never receives any attention from the so-called "lounge lizards," that it was not at all necessary to appeal to the Police Department against us. Our object in life is not to hang around pool halls or resorts, or to attach ourselves to some unimportant female, but to congregate in a legitimate manner and place, conversing about present-day topics, such, for example as the tariff, electrical experimentation and psycho-analysis, and not about women who pass, whom we certainly respect, when we notice them at all.

The Post-Dispatch Booster who wrote the article owes us an apology, as it cast upon us young men, who are perfectly rational, much uncalled-for comment and untold humiliation, which is not our due.

REED AND MILITARISM.

How can Senator Reed reconcile his plea that he kept the United States from militarism and the sending of American boys abroad to fight with his opposition to the disarmament treaty and the peace treaties of the Washington conference?

When the Senator speaks of his fight on the alleged administration proposal of an army of 550,000 men, implying that he defeated it, he is dealing in campaign guff. The 550,000 proposal was a plan of the army staff, which never came out of the Military Affairs Committee of the Senate. It was based upon the military view of our needs in view of our nonparticipation in the League of Nations. The tremendous naval program was based upon the same view of our needs as an isolated nation and was adopted by the Harding administration, which proceeded to carry it out. The army program from the beginning was in the hands of a Republican Congress, which finally fixed the program.

The inference of Senator Reed's statement is that he was for small armaments and for peace and it was his efforts which kept down our armaments and kept our soldiers out of wars.

To the contrary. The only possible condition under which we could abandon our costly and menacing program for the greatest navy on earth and could reduce our army to a minimum was either to participate in the covenant of peace or obtain a disarmament agreement with the naval nations and treaties of peace in the Pacific, at least, where was our greatest menace of war.

Senator Reed opposed both of these peace and disarmament plans. He bitterly opposed the League of Nations in any form. He fought the disarmament treaty and all the treaties of the Washington conference. Only two Senators opposed the treaty for the limitation of naval armaments—Senator Reed was one of the two. He fought the only practicable proposal for disarmament which would enable us to reduce both army and navy.

Under the Reed policy we would still be building the greatest navy on earth in a feverish competition to be prepared for war first; we would inevitably have been forced to maintain a large army and adopt universal training. Senator Reed was the implacable foe of every practical proposal to keep the peace of the world. His was the policy of militarism.

The McCormick girl certainly has earned the right to marry some nice boy and live happy ever after, and we hope she does.

EDUCATION FOR THE COLORED.

The Board of Education has recognized the need of increased high school facilities for colored pupils by declaring its intention to build an addition of 12 rooms to Sumner High School at a cost of $70,000. The present complaint of the negro population, as we understand it, is that this would be doing the right thing in the wrong place.

All the schools, both white and colored, are crowded. The negroes ask no preferment. They ask only that, so long as their facilities are being expanded, they be expanded where they are most useful and economical for the people to be served. Sumner School is so far from the center of the population served that it requires a cross-town car ride and a change of cars for nearly every pupil attending. It is the antithesis of a scientific arrangement and a burder on education, since it levies an extra tax of 14 cents a day in car fare on the bulk of the pupils served. It needlessly consumes the pupils' time and swells the stream of traffic on the city's busiest thoroughfares.

The colored spokesmen also ask for a separate normal school and teacher training on a parity with the whites. Certainly this request is reasonable, because the colored children are entitled to well-trained teachers.

There can be no right or satisfactory answer to the negroes' appeal for justice and equity but justice and equity. The negro is a taxpaying citizen. This holds true whether he owns a home, rents one or rents only a room. He pays his tax and is entitled to his share in education. This is the side merely of justice. The side of social and civic welfare is that education improves the quality of citizenship and reduces poverty, delinquency and crime.

It is the duty of the Board of Education to the white population of St. Louis as well as to the colored to deal justly and helpfully in providing educational facilities for the colored population.

ARMENIA AND AMERICA.

The mass meeting held Sunday in Christ Church Cathedral to deplore Turkish atrocities against Christians, mostly Armenians and Greeks, and to "urge the Government of the United States to take whatever step it may deem necessary to bring this condition to an end," might have had its anxieties allayed by an address from Senator Reed.

True, the Senator would have advanced no measures to spare the lives of Christians, but he would have delivered a stirring philippic on the blessings of saving our boys from bloodshed on foreign soil and of keeping our Government out of the entangling councils of Europe. The mass meeting's solicitude for perishing and ravished humanity might have been extinguished by a rededicated passion for our own safety and immunity from human tribulations which, when they are foreign, should have no interest for us.

Is it not one of the Senator's most clamorous boasts that he kept us out of Armenia? The mandate for that distressed nation may have been ill-advised, but Senator Reed says its purpose was to advance British oil interests at the cost of American lives. The Senator and the Turks won the argument. President Wilson, the Armenians and the British oil interests were defeated. Americans dissatisfied with the issue simply do not appreciate their blessings of selfish isolation.

ONE COMFORTING THOUGHT.

What with the coal strike and the railroad strike, and everything, it is comforting to know that the party of efficiency is in power. One shudders to think how appalling the present situation would be, in the editorial columns of all the good and faithful organs, if the poor, incompetent Democrats were responsible for this mess.

In the bright lexicon of our tariff barons there is no such word as deflation.

WOMEN IN TENNIS.

The Lenglen-Mallory match at Wimbledon Saturday evening was a duel rather than a tennis match. The ladies hate each other cordially. Their feud is of long standing. There have been displays of temper by both, and occasionally a braggadocia has discolored their observations that smacked more of the professional prize ring than the sport distinguished for its sportsmanship. The French woman has been the greater offender.

Both of those women, it is conceded, play first-class tennis, but, even so, they find in many other women opponents that extend them to the limit and now and then defeat them. There can be no doubt, then, that, as regards proficiency and capacity, woman has arrived in tennis. But her arrival, unfortunately, has not tended to elevate the sport. Indeed, the influence of the two celebrities under discussion has been the reverse.

In a day of feminism rampant it may not be amiss to assert that man also has his qualities. It may be permissible, perhaps, to suggest that the record of American tennis eminence, before Eve seized the racquet, is a story of great gallantry. "The Mirrors of Our Courts," if someone should do it, might be an important book. The Hobarts and Hoveys are now almost legendary, but they, like the more familiar post-Larned figures such as McLaughlin and Tilden, won or lost with equal grace.

That is something for women in tennis to learn. It is infinitely more important than the technique of the game, or the score.

The man who lived 81 years longer than his doctor predicted undoubtedly was sustained by that same indomitable vitality which enabled Charles W. Morse to carry on, and which no physician could possibly anticipate.

MR. ANTWINE'S OPINION.

"IT begins to look as if the Republicans might have to call in somebody who can run the country," Mr. Antwine said.

"The trouble with the Republicans is that they promised too much. They cannot make those promises good, and I doubt if we have ever seen another administration in such a mess as the Harding administration is in.

"Let us say the Fordney tariff, the soldiers' bonus and the ship subsidy are all put through by the Republican majority. If they are, the country is busted. It is carrying now as big a load as it can tote. The Republicans know this. Some of their own people are frank enough to warn them of consequences.

"But having won the election by making false pretenses, the Republicans have to think of the political consequences of not delivering on these counts.

"Then there are the coal and railroad strikes. It is conceivably the business of the administration to keep the country somehow running. The Republicans are not doing it. They have let things come to a state of paralysis.

"There is a reason for this. When reconstruction set in, the cost of living began to go down. Had it kept on going down, wages would have receded with it. The first business of the Republicans was to see that the cost of living continued to decline.

"What did they do? The first thing they did was to pass the emergency tariff. Then they contributed to the financial chaos of Europe by refusing to lend Europe a helping hand. We have not participated in any effort to save Europe from bankruptcy.

"We have our reward: The cost of living is going up again; labor is everywhere rebelling against lower wages, and the celebrated business management which we were to enjoy has tumbled us into what has been sometimes called pittomless bot.

"The Republicans can't run the country. They have too many masters. Their masters' voices have grown to a confusion of tongues," Mr. Antwine said.

NOT MENTIONING NAMES.
(Monroe County, Mo., Appeal.)

The funniest thing about the present campaign is that the candidate who agitates so raucously against one-man rule is the very man who is most opposed to majority rule in his party, in Congress or anywhere else. Everybody is wrong and he alone is right. It was the same way with the Kaiser—Me and God against the rest of the world at the start, but Me and Defeat when God took the other side.

One thing we learned from the effort to name the 12 leading American women is that Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt is easily first. All differences of opinion pertained to the other eleven.

THE ARKANSAS ACCENT.

A traveling salesman, accustomed to pronounce the name of Montana's capital, Helena, as Helee-na, was coming into Arkansas on an Iron Mountain train, planning to work out from a town in that state of the same name, and thinking to get some advance information about it, turned to his seat mate, who was evidently a native:

"Say," said he, "what kind of a town is Helee-na, Ark.?"

"Ain't no sich place," retorted the native.

The salesman was puzzled. He produced a time-table and pointing to Helena on the station list, asked him: "What do you call that?"

"Oh, that," exclaimed the native, enlightened, "that ain't Hlee-na, that's Hell-na. Here in Arkansaw we always put the accent on the 'Hell'!" FREDERICK LITTLE.

PRISON REFORM.

EUGENE DEBS in Century Magazine for July.

THERE never was a moment of mine in Atlanta prison that was not mortgaged in advance. Many of the prisoners could neither read nor write, and they would come to be to have me read and answer their letters, or to fill out their blanks for pardon, parole or commutation, although much of this had to be done by stealth, as it was in violation of the rules, and was several times arbitrarily forbidden by the guards, especially when prisoners were caught leaving my room. I heard their sad stories, listened in sympathy to their tragic appeals, placed my hand on their shoulders and counseled them as an elder brother, and while I was able to do but a mere trifle of what my heart would have done for them, I sensed the appreciation and gratitude that embraced the entire body of prisoners of all colors, creeds and conditions. The scene that occurred upon my release, when these 2300 prison victims, clothed as convicts, yet with human hearts throbbing beneath their tatters, spontaneously burst their bonds, as it were, rushed to the fore of the prison on all three of its floors, and crowded all the barred window spaces with their eager faces, cheering while the tears trickled down their cheeks. * * * There was a reason for this unheard-of demonstration, and it was not of a personal nature. I arrogate to myself no importance whatever on account of having won the friendship of these convicts. They did vastly more for me than I was able to do for them, and the only point I make in this connection is that if the prison were conducted in the spirit and with the understanding that we convicts had for one another, the whole penal system would at once be revolutionized; instead of being a bastile for debasing and destroying the unfortunate, it would become in the true sense a boon to society as a reclamatory and redemptive institution.

PUBLIC MEN IN AUSTRIA.

OSWALD GARRISON VILLARD in the Nation.

AUSTRIA has a long row to hoe and Germany, too, before its public men have been trained in self-government and parliamentary rule—if they can be when the Mother of Parliaments and our own Congress are in such deep decay. It is the day everywhere of small men in Parliament. It is a commonplace here that the leaders of the parties in the Austrian Parliament are much better than their parties. Under the Constitution of Austria today the President Dr. Hainisch, has very little power. But it makes an American envious to see so highly educated, cosmopolitan, trained and attractive a personality at the head of the state. It is not President Hainisch or Chancellor Schober that I criticise when I say that the Government is weak and should be more aggressive and vigorous in grappling with the situation; the responsibility rests far more with the utterly mediocre Parliament. But that is only another reason why those who lend money to Austria would be justified in coupling with the loan pledges that the Austrian Government devote itself to cleaning house and stop playing politics.

'SUE, DEAR,' PIQUANT LITTLE MELODY PLAY

NEW YORK, July 11.—"Sue, Dear," a musical comedy presented at the Times Square Theater, by Bide Dudley, writer of the book. Music is by Frank H. Grey; Joseph Herbert and Joseph Montayne, co-authors. In the cast of principals are Olga Streck, Bobby O'Neill, Maxine Brown, Bradford Kirkbride, Alice Cavanaugh, Maurice Holland, Madeline Gray, John Hendricks and Douglas Cosgrove.

It now becomes necessary to speak a good word for a journalistic playmate. Bide Dudley of the Evening World, who wrote and brought into the Times Square Theater last night this "Sue, Dear," is hereby assured that his is a piquant and refreshing and not too sophisticated little melody play—one that really ought to go romping through the summer.

There's something suggestive of "Irene" and "Sally" in this latest writer. Dudley has written a pretty Cinderella theme, with (Sue Olga Streck), a lonely shop girl, who happens in with parcels for the wedding party just in time to fall smack into the plot and come out in the end as the life and the pride of the party.

Charming as Sue almost immediately shows herself to be, there are others to consider. The attractive Alice Cavanaugh sings and dances. Bobby O'Neil, as a funny prize fighter, is a promising young comedian and a capable dancing partner; John Hendricks is a French count with a flow of bewildering dull talk; Maxine Brown is a delicious little blond comedienne, and Bradford Kirkbride is a handsome juvenile who sings the love songs to the spotlight.

While "Sue, Dear," makes no claim for revue honors, we find the opening second half a burlesque scene from "Chauve Souris," with Hendricks as Balieff. There also is some reference to "Back to Methuselah," with Dudley puns poking fun at Shaw.

There are two scenes, cool and pleasing to the summer patron—one of a living room on Riverside Drive and the other a garden view. The song we remember above all the others is "Smile and Forget," which is worthy of the phonographs as sung by Miss Steck. We do not exactly forget an opening number, bringing forth the chorus in thin pink, clinging silk lingeries.

STEVENS TO SUSPEND OPERA SINGING BECAUSE OF THROAT

Municipal Performer Says He Will Take "Silence Cure" in Ozarks.

Because of throat trouble which has afflicted him all season, James Stevens, baritone, is leaving the cast of the municipal opera, and his place at tonight's opening performance of "The Spring Maid"—weather permitting—will be taken by Arthur Burckly. Stevens said last night that he would go to the Ozarks for a "silence" cure, and that he hoped to be able to return to play in "Miss Springtime," with which the season will close.

Burckly is expected to arrive at 5 o'clock this evening. He is said to have played here in stock at the Park Theater, and to have sung in one of the touring companies of "The Spring Maid." In a souvenir program of the Park Opera Co., dated 1914, Burckly was listed as a tenor.

Public Welfare Workers' Picnic.

Arrangements are being made in the Department of Public Welfare of the city for a picnic Sept. 2 for the 2900 employes of the department. The outing will be held in four picnic grounds in the southwest corner of Forest Park and will include employes of the Parks and Recreation Department, hospitals, health division, jail, workhouse and Legal Aid Bureau. Director of Public Welfare Cunliff announces that more than $2000 in prizes will be offered. None of the cost of the picnic is to be paid by the city.

Pastor Woodley's Funeral Tomorrow

The funeral of the Rev. R. D. Woodley, 74 years old, who died Sunday at his home, 2347 Klemm street, of the infirmities of age, will be held at the Methodist Episcopal Church of Lebanon, Ill., tomorrow afternoon. The Rev. Mr. Woodley was a pastor in the Southern Illinois Conference for 31 years, and held pastorates in East St. Louis, Belleville and Vandalia. For six years he was presiding elder of the Lebanon district. He had lived in St. Louis since his retirement several years ago.

BOTH BOYS AND GIRLS WILL BE ADMITTED TO NEW SCHOOL

Country Day School, to Be Built on Price Road, Will Cost $135,000.

Both boys and girls will be admitted to the new country day school, construction of which will start this autumn, at the northwest corner of Price road and the Clayton car line, southwest of Clayton. Efforts will be made to maintain the school as a democratic institution.

The New School Association has applied for a pro forma decree of incorporation. A name for the school is yet to be selected. Louis E. Egan, president of the Union Electric Light & Power Co., is president of the association; Leslie Thompson is secretary and Fred Kniseman is treasurer.

There will be three buildings, to cost $135,000, and the school will accommodate 120 boys and girls, giving instruction preparatory to entrance for all colleges and universities. The faculty will eventually number 10, headed by Wilfred M. Aikin, now head of a school near New York.

PILGRIMAGE TO STE. GENEVIEVE

Use of Special Coach and Diner Obtained for Tomorrow.

Mrs. Edward Schaaf, 2606 South Grand boulevard, third vice president of the St. Louis Catholic Historical Society, is in charge of arrangements for the historical pilgrimage to Ste. Genevieve, which will be made tomorrow.

Mgr. J. J. Tanrath, pastor of the old Cathedral, and first vice president of the society, will lead a party of 50 members and guests. The pilgrims will have a special passenger coach and diner on the Iron Mountain train leaving St. Louis at 8:45 tomorrow morning and reaching Ste. Genevieve at 9:55. The return trip will begin at 4:50 p. m. The members of the party will be guests at luncheon of the women of the Catholic Church of Ste. Genevieve. Members of the faculties of St. Louis and Washington universities, representatives of the Missouri State Historical Society, and many of the St. Louis clergy will make the trip. Ste. Genevieve is the oldest town in Missouri. It was founded in 1759.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE WORKER DIES

Mrs. Helen R. Tindall Was Associate of Pioneers in Movement.

Mrs. Helen R. Tindall, wife of Dr. William Tindall of Washington, D. C., died last week at Boone, Md., after a long illness. Mrs. Tindall was an associate of Susan B. Anthony, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and other pioneers in the cause of suffrage. She was a member of the band of women which was influential in bringing about the enactment of the first law for the appointment of women on the boards of education in the District of Columbia.

Mrs. Tindall was born in Maine, but spent her girlhood in Alton, Ill. After a breakdown due to overwork, she returned to Alton some time ago but went back East in a short time. She is survived by her husband, one daughter, three sons and one sister, Mrs. H. M. Schweppe of Alton.

TEACHER WHO ATTENDED DANCE LOSES POSITION

Kansas Board Declines to Renew Certificate Because She Went to Event in School.

TOPEKA, Kan., July 11."Poor judgment" is given as the reason Mrs. Claar White ,Eminence school teacher, lost her teacher's certificate, the act of "poor judgment" being attendance upon a dance at a school house.

Mrs. White appeared yesterday before the State Board of Education, which refused to renew her certificate, notwithstanding her pleas and those of Thomas W. Butcher, president of Kansas State Normal.

"I didn't know it was against the law to attend a dance in a school house with my own husband for escort," she argued. "What is there against this woman's moral character?" Butcher asked. "I have not a thing to say against her character," replied Miss Emma Wilson, County Superintendent of Finney County, and a member of the State Board. "She used poo judgment—no civic responsibility."

Dr. Butcher moved that an investigating committee be appointed. The motion carried, but action was postponed. Then E. H. Lindley, chancellor of the University of Kansas, saw an opening. "Is ti the policy of the board to renew certificates against the recommendation of the County Superintendent?" he asked. The other members agreed it was not.

"Would you, Miss Wilson, recommend that the certifivate be not allowed?" the chancellor asked. Miss Wilson said she would and the board voted unanimously not to renew the certificate.

Suicide Verdict Is Returned.

A verdict of suicide by drowning was returned today by Deputy Coroner Fath in the case of Miss Clara Bornefeldt, 54 years old, of 4118 Delmar boulevard, whose body was found floating in the lake at O'Fallon Park early Sunday morning. Miss Bornefeldt was a demonstrator, and had not been employed for nearly a year.

Daniel Webster's Hat

"Why, Mr. Webster," said he, "our heads are just the same size."

"On the outside, perhaps," replied Webster.

If there had been 10,000,000 automobiles in Webster's day this might have hit off the feeling about tires as well.

* * *

To understand the tire situation today, go back to 1918, 1919 and 1920, when tire makers were jumping to catch up with the demand. In 1921 they more than caught up.

And in 1922, every car-owner knows where he can get plenty of tires with plenty of big discounts. Plenty of bargains with ingenious sales-arguments.

* * *

The quantity problem is history.

It is all this quantity of tires—and their wide variance in value that is making most car-owners determined to get quality.

The unobserving man might say that this was reaching the limit of the quality idea.

Yet, in January, February, March, April and May, 1922, the sales of U. S. Royal Cords through dealers more than doubled over the same period of 1921. A new high record for Royal Cords.

* * *

You have, perhaps, overheard some other tire being sold for "as good as a Royal."

At a time like this remember what Daniel Webster said.

Current prices on United States Passenger Car Tires and Tubes are not subject to Federal Excise Tax, the tax having been included.

IT was necessary to give the Napoleonic throne a new coat of glory paint. Within a few years the North German Confederation would be a serious rival of France. Napoleon decided that a war with Germany would be a good thing for his dynasty. He looked for an excuse and Spain, the poor victim of endless revolutions, gave him one.

Just then the Spanish throne happened to be vacant. It had been offered to the Catholic branch of the house of Hohenzollern. The French Government had objected and the Hohenzollerns had politely refused to accept the crown. But Napoleon who was showing signs of illness, was very much under the influence of his beautiful wife, Eugenie de Montijo, the daughter of a Spanish gentleman and the granddaughter of William Kirkpatrick, an American Consul at Malaga, where the grapes come from. Eugenie, although shrewd enough, was as bad ly educated as most Spanish women of that day. She was at the mercy of her spiritual advisers and these worthy gentlemen felt no love for the Protestant King of Prussia. "Be bold," was the advice of the Empress to her husband, but she omitted to add the second half of that famous Persian proverb which admonishes the hero to "be bold but not too bold." Napoleon, convinced of the strength of his army, addressed himself to the King of Prussia and insisted that the King give him assurances that "he would never permit another candidature of a Hohenzollern Prince to the Spanish crown." As the Hohenzollerns had just declined the honor, the demand was superfluous, and Bismarck so informed the French Government. But Napoleon was not satisfied.

It was the year 1870 and King William was taking the waters at Ems. There one day he was approached by the French Minister who tried to reopen the discussion. The King answered very pleasantly that it was a fine day and that the Spanish question was now closed and that nothing more remained to be said upon the subject. As a matter of routine, a report of this interview was telegraphed to Bismarck, who handled all foreign affairs. Bismarck edited the dispatch for the benefit of the Prussian and French press. Many people have called him names for doing this. Bismarck, however, could plead the excuse that the doctoring of official news, since time immemorial, had been one of the privileges of all civilized Governments. When the "edited" telegram was printed, the good people in Berlin felt that their old and venerable King with his nice white whiskers had been insulted by an arrogant little Frenchman and the equally good people of Paris flew into a rage because their perfectly courteous Minister had been shown the door by a royal Prussian flunkey.

And so they both went to war and in less than two months Napoleon and the greater part of his army were prisoners of the Germans. The Second Empire had come to an end and the Third Republic was making ready to defend Paris against the German invaders. Paris held out for five long months. Ten days before the surrender of the city, in the nearby palace of Versailles, built by that same King Louis XIV who had been such a dangerous enemy to the Germans, the King of Prussia was publicly proclaimed German Emperor and a loud booming of guns told the hungry Parisians that a new German Empire had taken the place of the old harmless Confederation of Teutonic states and statelets.

In this rough way, the German question was finally settled. By the end of the year 1871, 56 years after the memorable gathering at Vienna, the work of the Congress had been entirely undone. Metternich and Alexander and Talleyrand had tried to give the people of Europe a lasting peace. The methods they had employed had caused endless wars and revolutions and the feeling of a common brotherhood of the eighteenth century was followed by an era of exaggerated nationalism which has not yet come to an end.

THE AGE OF THE ENGINE.

But While the People of Europe Were Fighting for Their National Independence, the World in Which They Lived Had Been Entirely Changed by a Series of Inventions, Which Had Made the Clumsy Old Steam Engine of the Eighteenth Century the Most Faithful and Efficient Slave of Man.

The greatest benefactor of the human race died more than half a million years ago. He was a hairy creature with a low brow and sunken eyes, a heavy jaw and strong tiger-like teeth. He would not have looked well in a gathering of modern scientists, but they would have honored him as their master. For he had used a stone to break a nut and a stick to lift up a heavy boulder. He was the inventor of the hammer and the lever, our first tools, and he did more than any human being who came after him to give men his enormous advantage over the other animals with whom he shares this planet.

Ever since, man has tried to make his life easier by the use of a greater number of tools. The first wheel (a round disc made out of an old tree) created as much stir in the communities of 100,000 B. C. as the flying machine did only a few years ago.

In Washington, the story is told of a director of the Patent Office who in the earily thirties of the last century suggested that the Patent Office be abolished, because "everything that possibly could be invented had been invented." A similar feeling must have spread through the prehistoric world, when the first sail was hoisted on a raft and the people were able to move from place to place without rowing or punting or pulling from the shore.

Indeed, one of the most interesting chapters of history is the effort of man to let someone else or something else do his work for him, while he enjoyed his leisure, sitting in the sun or painting pictures on rocks, or training young wolves and little tigers to behave like peaceful domestic animals.

Of course, in the very olden days it was always possible to enslave a weaker neighbor and force him to do the unpleasant tasks of life. One of the reasons why the Greeks and Romans, who were quite as intelligent as we are, failed to devise more interesting machinery, was to be found in the widespread existence of slavery. Why should a great mathematician waste his time upon wires and pulleys and cogs and fill the air with noise and smoke when he could go to the market place and buy all the slaves he needed at a very small expense?

And during the Middle Ages, although slavery had been abolished and only a mild form of serfdom survived, the guilds discouraged the idea of using machinery because they thought this would throw a large number of their brethren out of work. Besides, the Middle Ages were not at all interested in producing large quantities of goods. Their tailors and butchers and carpenters worked for the immediate needs of the small community in which they lived and had no desire to compete with their neighbors, or to produce more than was strictly necessary.

During the Renaissance, when the prejudices of the church against scientific investigations could no longer be enforced as rigidly as before, a large number of men began to devote their lives to mathematics and astronomy and physics and chemistry. Two years before the beginning of the Thirty Years War, John Napier, a Scotchman, had published his little book which described the new invention of logarithms. During the war itself, Gottfried Leibnitz of Leipzig had perfected the system of infinitesimal calculus. Eight years before the peace of Westphalia, Newton, the great English natural philosopher, was born, and in that same year Galileo, the Italian astronomer, died. Meanwhile the Thirty Years War had destroyed the prosperity of Central Europe and there was a sudden but very general interest in "alchemy," the strange pseudo-science of the Middle Ages by which people hoped to turn base metals into gold. This proved to be impossible, but the alchemists in their laboratories stumbled upon many new ideas and greatly helped the work of the chemists who were their successors.

The work of all these men provided the world with a solid scientific foundation upon which it was possible to build even the most complicated of engines, and a number of practical men made good use of it. The Middle Ages had used wood for the few bits of necessary machinery. But wood wore out easily. Iron was a much better material but iron was scarce except in England. In England, therefore, most of the smelting was done. To smelt iron, huge fires were needed. In the beginning, these fires had been made of wood, but gradually the forests had been used up. Then "stone coal" (the petrified trees of prehistoric times) was used. But coal, as you know, has to be dug out of the ground and it has to be transported to the smelting ovens and the mines have to be kept dry from the ever-invading waters.

These were two problems which had to be solved at once. For the time being, horses could still be used to haul the coal wagons, but the pumping question demanded the application of special machinery. Several inventors were busy trying to solve the difficulty. They all knew that steam would have to be used in their new engine. The idea of the steam engine was very old. Hero of Alexandria, who lived in the first century before Christ, has described to us several bits of machinery which were driven by steam. The people of the Renaissance had played with the notion of steam-driven war chariots. The Marquis of Worcester, a contemporary of Newton, in his book of inventions, tells of a steam engine. A little later, in the year 1698, Thomas Savery of London applied for a patent for a pumping engine. At the same time a Hollander, Christian Huygens, was trying to perfect an engine in which gun powder was used to cause regular explosions in much the same way as we use gasoline in our motors.

All over Europe people were busy with the idea. Denis Papin, a Frenchman, friend and assistant of Huygens, was making experiments with steam engines in several countries. He invented a little wagon that was driven by steam, and a paddle-wheel boat. But when he tried to take a trip in his vessel it was confiscated by the authorities on a complaint of the Boatmen's Union, who feared that such a craft would deprive them of their livelihood. Papin finally died in London in great poverty, having wasted all his money on his inventions. But at the time of his death another mechanical enthusiast, Thomas Newcomen, was working on the problem of a new steam pump. Fifty years later his engine was improved upon by James Watt, a Glasgow instrument maker. In the year 1777 he gave the world the first steam engine that proved of real practical value.

But during the centuries of experiments with a "heat engine," the political world had greatly changed. The British people had succeeded the Dutch as the common carriers of the world's trade. They had opened up new colonies. They took the raw materials which the colonies produced to England, and there they turned them into finished products, and then they exported the finished goods to the four corners of the world. During the seventeenth century the people of Georgia and the Carolinas had begun to grow a new shrub which gave a strange sort of woolly substance, the so-called "cotton wool." After this had been plucked it was sent to England and there the people of Lancastershire wove it into cloth. This weaving was done by hand and in the homes of the workmen. Very soon a number of improvements were made in the process of weaving. In the year 1730 John Kay invented the "fly shuttle." In 1770 James Hargreaves got a patent on his "spinning jenny." Eli Whitney, an American, invented the cotton-gin, which separated the cotton from its seeds, a job which had previously been done by hand at the rate of only a pound a day. Finally Richard Arkwright and the Rev. Edmund Cartwright invented large weaving machines, which were driven by water power. And then, in the eighties of the eighteenth century, just when the Estates General of France had begun those famous meetings which were to revolutionize the political system of Europe, the engines of Watt were arranged in such a way that they could drive the weaving machines of Arkwright, and this created an economic and social revolution which has changed human relationship in almost every part of the world.

As soon as the stationary engine had proved a success the inventors turned their attention to the problem of propelling boats and carts with the help of a mechanical contrivance. Watt himself designed plans for a "steam locomotive," but ere he had perfected his ideas, in the year 1804, a locomotive made by Richard Trevithick carried a load of 20 tons at Pen-y-darran in the Wales mining district.

At the same time an American jeweler and portrait painter by the name of Robert Fulton was in Paris, trying to convince Napoleon that with the use of his submarine boat, the "Nautilus," and his "steamboat," the French might be able to destroy the naval supremacy of England.

Fulton's idea of a steamboat was not original. He had undoubtedly copied it from John Fitch, a mechanical genius of Connecticut, whose cleverly constructed steamer had first navigated the Delaware River as early as the year 1787. But Napoleon and his scientific advisers did not believe in the practical possibility of a self-propelled boat, and although the Scotch-built engine of the little craft puffed merrily on the Seine, the great Emperor neglected to avail himself of this formidable weapon which might have given him his revenge for Trafalgar.

As for Fulton, he returned to the United States and, being a practical man of business, he organized a successful steamboat company together with Robert R. Livingston, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, who was American Minister to France when Fulton was in Paris, trying to sell his invention. The first steamer of this new company, the "Clermont," which was given a monopoly of all the waters of New York State, equipped with an engine built by Boulton and Watt of Birmingham, in England, began a regular service between New York and Albany in the year 1807.

As for poor—John Fitch, the man who long before anyone else had used the "steamboat" for commercial purposes, he came to a sad death. Broken in health and empty of purse, he had come to the end of his resources when his fifth boat, which was propelled by means of a screw propeller, had been destroyed. His neighbors jeered at him as they were to laugh a hundred years later when Prof. Langley constructed his funny flying machines. Fitch had hoped to give his country an easy access to the broad rivers of the West and his countrymen preferred to travel in flatboats or go on foot. In the year 1798, in utter despair and misery, Fitch killed himself by taking poison.

But 20 years later the "Savannah," a steamer of 1850 tons and making six knots an hour (the Mauretania goes just four times as fast), crossed the ocean from Savannah to Liverpool in the record time of 25 days. Then there was an end to the derision of the multitude and in their enthusiasm the people gave the credit for the invention to the wrong man.

Six years later George Stephenson, a Scotchman, who had been building locomotives for the purpose of hauling coal from the mine pit to smelting ovens and cotton factories, built his famous "traveling engine," which reduced the price of coal by almost 70 per cent and which made it possible to establish the first regular passenger service between Manchester and Liverpool, when people were whisked from city to city at the unheard-of speed of 15 miles per hour. A dozen years later this speed had been increased to 20 miles per hour. At the present time, any well-behaved flivver (the direct descendant of the puny little motor-driven machines of Daimler and Levassor of the '80s of the last century) can do better than these early "Puffing Billies."

But while these practically minded engineers were improving upon their rattling "heat engines," a group of "pure" scientists (men who devote 14 hours of each day to the study of those "theoretical" scientific phenomena without which no mechanical progress would be possible) were following a new scent which promised to lead them into the most secret and hidden domains of nature.

Umpires—Chill and Connolly. Attendance—25,000.

A lucky home run by Ward tied the score in the second. Ward hit a liner which would have hit the left field fence. Williams leaped up for a catch, but when the ball hit his glove, it took greater height and went over the fence.

FIRST INNING.

NEW YORK—Witt flied to Jacobson. McNally flied to Tobin. Ruth struck out. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING.

BROWNS—Scott threw out McManus. Jacobson struck out. Severeid singled to left. Robertson flied to Ruth. NO RUNS.

NEW YORK—Meusel grounded out to Gerber. Pipp flied to Jacobson. Ward got an unusual home run. The ball went on the line to left and would have hit the fence, but Williams leaped into the air and the ball caromed off his glove into the bleachers. Gerber threw out Scott. ONE RUN.

THIRD INNING.

BROWNS—Shocker was called out on strikes. Tobin bunted and was put out by McNally. Gerber popped to Ward. NO RUNS.

FOURTH INNING.

BROWNS — Sisler sent a long fly to Witt. Williams beat out a roller to McNally. Williams out stealing, Schang to Scott. McManus singled to left. Jacobson was called out on strikes. NO RUNS.

NEW YORK—Shocker tossed out Ruth. Meusel lined to Robertson. Pipp singled to left. Sisler muffed a throw from Socker and Pipp went to second. Ward flied to Jacobson. NO RUNS.

FIFTH INNING.

BROWNS—Severeid singled to right. Robertson bunted, but Severeid got a late start and was forced, Bush to Scott. Shocker flied to Witt. Robertson stole second. Tobin was called out on strikes. NO RUNS.

CARDINALS TO PLAY ONLY ONE GAME TODAY

It was announced by officials of the Cardinals shortly before 2 o'clock that only one game with the Phillies would be played today, because of the field condition. The game will start at 3:15 o'clock. The postponed game with the Phillies will be played tomorrow.

YANKEE YOUNGSTERS ARE DOING GREAT WORK FOR NEW ORLEANS OUTFIT

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 11.—Oliver Dan Tucker, right fielder of the New Orleans team and property of the New York Yanks, is going to make Miller Huggins a valuable man next year if he gets over his green way of going after a fly ball. From the minute he gets his hands on it he can throw like a cannon and as straight as a bullet and woe to the man who tries to score on him from third.

Tucker has been looked upon by every scout who has been here and they have all been sweet on him, but end up with old expression of "What's the use, he belongs to the Yanks." Tucker had been at bat 271 times up to July 5 and had secured 98 hits for a percentage of .361. His total bases were 142 and he stole five bases.

Joey Martina, formerly with Beaumont in the Texas League and who was brought here by Manager Dobbs, is burning up the league in pitching. Martina has won 13 games and lost one. This includes games of July 5. He is also slated for a tryout with the Yanks. Martina is a curve-ball pitcher and ought to make good in the big show.

BOXING BOARDS ARE WARY OF NEW YORK

NEW YORK, July 11.—It looks as though the New York Boxing Commission's action in vacating the titles of Johnny Kilbane and Johnny Wilson will not be sustained by the other boxing boards. The others say that the local commission has been negligent of its duty in allowing a certain New York promoter to offer ridiculous amounts to boxers. This has made it difficult for the other boxing centers to obtain good matches. For that reason very little sympathy for the local commission's attempt to regulate the sport is expressed by the others. Nearly every attempt to put through boxing reform of any kind has been killed by the jealousy of those most interested. It seems that conditions in that respect have not changed.

THREE RUNNERS STRIVE MIGHTILY FOR SAME BASE

Jake Daubert says the funniest thing he ever saw in baseball was at Birmingham one day. The club had men on second and third and Henline was at bat. He whaled a high fly that the left fielder chased. The man on third figured he'd score on the sacrifice fly if he could, and the fellow on second decided to take third. But they waited for the man to catch the apple before starting.

Henline in the meantime was running with his head down. Just after the catch was made the chap on third, after going about a third way home, thought he couldn't make it, so slid back to third in a cloud of dust. The man who had been on second slid into third at almost the same moment, and half a second later in slid Henline.

The three of them rose to their feet and glared at one another. You can imagine the situation.

U. S. WILL SEND TEAM TO IRISH TRACK MEET

That a strong team of track and field athletics, swimmers, boxers, handball players and cyclists of Irish extraction will be gathered together and sent across the Atlantic next month to compete in the Irish race championships in Dublin during the week of Aug. 6—13, seems now to be a reality.

The Phils and Reds engaged in another free-for-all, but Gillespie outlasted Ring, Singleton and Pinto and the Reds won, 11 to 7.

HUGO BEZDEK TO GIVE A COURSE IN COACHING

Hugo Bezdek, who has developed nearly a score of college coaches from his athletic teams in the last few years, will give a course in coaching at the summer session of Penn State. The classes will be under the personal direction of State's football and baseball coach, and his two lieutenants, Bill Martin and "Dutch" Herman, will assist him. Four sports will be taken up—football, baseball, track and basketball—over a period of six weeks, dealing with the theory of coaching and a practical demonstration of methods on college athletic fields. Eleven members of the 1919 football team have found positions as coaches, and at least a half dozen other Nittany athletes are athletic directors in high schools.

FRANCE HONORS BOUIN, CROSS-COUNTRY RUNNER

France has erected a monument to Jean Bouin, winner of the international cross-country title in three successive years and holder of the world's hour record. The monument was unvieled in Marseilles recently and the inscription records that he was a "marvelous athlete and heroic fighter." Bouin was killed fighting for France on Sept. 29, 1914.

Hagen Has Score of 71 for First 18 Holes in National British Open Golf Champion Is One Stroke Over Par—Duncan, British Star, Turns in a 75—Sprogell, Memphis Golfer, Equals Par for Skokie Course With 70.

By the Associated Press.

SKOKIE COUNTRY CLUB, GLENCOE, Ill., July 11.—Walter Hagen of Detroit, British open golf champion, turned in a score of 71 for the first 18 holes, in the first half of today's 36-hole qualifying round in the National open tournament here. Hagen's score was one over par. He was paired with George Duncan, the British professional, who had a 75.

Eccentric weather cloudbursts, sunshine and then more cloudbursts—greeted the golfers for today's play. The uncertain weather handicapped the players.

Among those to finish early, only one man, Frank Sprogell, of Memphis, Tenn., was able to equal par for the first 18 holes. He turned in a 70. The average scores for this morning were around 77.

Hagen, who is one of the favorites to win the championship, negotiated the first nine holes in 36 and completed the in-coming journey in 35. Duncan had a 38 going out and 37 for the last nine. The Hagen-Duncan clash was the gallery match of the day.

Another gallery match was that between Bobby Jones, the Atlanta amateur, and Leo Diegel, the New Orleans professional. Diegel made a 66 in practice recently, but today his figures were 37-35-72. Jones played consistently all the way and finished with 36-36-72 for the first half.

Jones' game on the fairways was perhaps the most beautiful displayed thus far with the exception of Jock Hutchison's work yesterday.

Time after time, reasonable length putts rimmed the cups and hopped out when sinking would have brought birdies. He sank only one long putt, a 20-footer, on the thirteenth for a "birdie" two.

WESTERN VOTES AGAINST DIVIDING THE SEASON

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 11.—Western League magnates, meeting here yesterday, decided against splitting the season into two series as has been requested by the members. Ways and means of transporting the clubs in the event rail troubles cause a tieup were discussed, but without definite conclusion.

Young Jones pitched sensationally and the Cubs made a clean sweep of the series with the Braves by winning, 4 to 0.

Jimmy Manion With Two Eighties, Eight Strokes Over Qualifying Limit

ST. LOUIS is well represented at the United States open tourney by caddies. There are 15 Mound City boys here gettting fine points of the game for future use. Some of the future Hagens are: . R. Forwen, L. S. Corry, O. P. Sharkey, Walter Kropf.

Harry Wilker, St. Louis boy, who is pro at Muskegon, Mich., will play his qualifying round today. D. H. Binsbacher, former assistant pro at Midland Valley, is entered and is due to play his qualifying round Wednesday.

James S. Manion, St. Louis' only entry in yesterday's qualifying round, was way off form and shot two eighties, which was eight strokes too many. His shots to the green were perfect, but he could not hole a putt.

WOMAN FAN INJURED WHEN HIT BY FOUL BALL

Miss Helen McLaughlin, 24 years old, of 1214 Montclair avenue, suffered a severe laceration of her forehead when she was struck over the right eye by a foul ball in the fifth inning of the game between Brooklyn and the Cardinals at Sportsman's Park yesterday.

She was assisted from the stand and, after emergency treatment in the club offices, was taken to her home.

Another woman, who was seated near Miss McLaughlin, was so unnerved by the incident that she fainted.

A man had been hit just above the eye earlier in the game, but he was not seriously hurt and remained until the conclusion of play.

Brown Wins From Shepley in Two Sets at Triple A

By Davison Obear.

Play in the annual Central States tennis tournament at the Triple A Club has reached the second round, as a result of the matches completed yesterday afternoon. Sixteen contests were decided in the first round of the singles, while four matches in the doubles event were completed.

There are five feature matches on the singles program in the second round. In the upper half of the draw, Gordon Fennell will oppose Arthur Reppert, Charles Speice of Kingfisher, Ok., meets Harold Hess, and in the lower half Wray Brown, the Washington University captain, plays his teammate, Charlie Barnes. George Finger will oppose Ted Heuerman, and Ed Serrano meets Herbert Bryant.

The second round will be played Wednesday, because of the heavy rain of last night and early this morning.

The match between Wray Brown and Ethan Shepley produced the best tennis yesterday. Brown took the first set rather easily, 6—2, but was extended in the second, 6—4. Shepley used his cannon-ball service to advantage and surprised with a number of excellent returns. Brown won the second set by brilliant placement strokes, the balls hitting the corners of his opponent's court.

The Washington University player showed a finished style of play even better than when he defeated Ted Drewes in the district elimination event several weeks ago. He had his chop stroke working well, but the real feature of his play was steadiness, which is a big asset to a player using a smashing style of game. Shepley has good form in executing strokes, but evidently has not played much tournament tennis recently.

In the only upset of the day, F. H. Kronauge Jr. of Dayton, O., defeated Joe Werner, former Princeton captain, in a three-set match. The score was 4—6, 6—2, 6—2. Werner started well, but in the second and third sets was very erratic. Kronauge kept up his smashing lawford strokes throughout the play and with the aid of Werner's errors captured the match.

Charles Speice and Ben Parks, the Oklahoma stars, won their singles matches without much difficulty; John Barr of Dallas reached the city in the morning and met C. Drummond Jones in a second-round match. The Texas player won the first set 6—3 and was leading in the second by a 5—4 score when he defaulted in order to catch a train. He was unable to remain here for the balance of play.

PAIRINGS.

SECOND ROUND, UPPER HALF—Kronauge and Hopson vs. C. D. Jones and partner; Smithers and Barnes vs. Hixon and Scott; Epstein and Frohlichstein vs. Moser and Lips; Goodwin and Rice vs. Werner and Hoerr; Speice and Parks vs. Florida and Stern.

In spite of five double plays by the Senators, Erickson and Phillips failed to halt the Tigers.

Hornsby's 22d Home Run With Two On Gives Cards Clean Sweep Over Dodgers

Rickeymen, Playing Brilliant Defensive Game Behind Pfeffer, Win Fifth Successive Victory From Brooklyn—St. Louis Now Only Three Games Behind the Giants.

By Joseph F. Holland

Rogers Hornsby's twenty-second home run of the season could not have entered the National League records under any more favorable or timely circumstances than it did yesterday afternoon in the concluding game of the series with Brooklyn. The solid smash came in the seventh inning with two men on base and gave the Cardinals three runs which ultimately proved to be their margin of victory. The final score was 4 to 1.

The victory, the seventh straight achieved by the club, brought Branch Rickey within three games of the leading Giants, who open a four-game series here Saturday. Judging from the clean sweep of the five-game series with Brooklyn, the Cardinals are in a position to lessen the leader's advantage when the Giants arrive.

Wilbert Robinson, who has had no opportunity in the recent series to test the maxim "laugh and grow thin," said after the game that he would protest the Cardinal victory on the ground that Catcher Eddie Ainsmith had completely blocked the plate when Deberry attempted to score in the third inning. However, inasmuch as Bill Klem, the best umpire in the National League, saw fit to call Deberry out, it is doubtful if Robinson's protest will hold water.

Today the Cardinals entertained the seventh-place Phillies in a double-header which opens a series of five games. That is, the series will be inaugurated if weather permits after the deluge of last night.

Cards Back Up Pfeffer Well.

In achieving their fifth straight victory over Brooklyn yesterday, the Cardinals backed Jeff Pfeffer's fine pitching with a tight defense and a punch in the pinch. Young Harry Shriver, who pitched for Brooklyn, hurled a clever game, but made the fatal error of giving Hornsby a high, fast ball with two men on base in the seventh inning.

Shriver had allowed six hits until the seventh inning and the Cardinals had failed to score on him. He had a good fast ball, a nice curve and mixed them admirably with a change of pace and good control. But in the seventh the Cardinal attack "got" him and he failed to pitch with the same steadiness which had characterized his earlier work.

Lavan opened the seventh by hitting the first ball to center for a single. He took second on Pfeffer's sacrifice and scored on Flack's single to center. Jack Smith then executed one of the cleverest batting feats of the series. He fouled one and then caught the Dodger infield and Shriver flat-footed with a perfect bunt. That put two men on base for Hornsby.

Shriver had fooled the slugger three times previously with a change of pace, but he had always kept his fast ball where Hornsby couldn't reach it. Rogers had been forced to take pitches on the corners and slow curves. But this time Shriver's first pitch was a high, fast ball "across the letters." Hornsby lunged into the pitch and drove the ball out into Sullivan avenue for his twenty-second such wallop of the year. Three runs and the ball game.

Pfeffer Strong in Pinches.

The victory was Pfeffer's second of the series. Jeff defeated Ruether, 14 to 2, in the opening game and allowed the Dodgers a run in the ninth yesterday. Three runs in 18 innings against a hitting club like Brooklyn is real pitching.

Jeff gave 11 hits yesterday, but his effectiveness in the pinches brings his performance within the realm of well-pitched games. In six of the nine innings, Brooklyn got its first batter on base, but scored in only one of them. This gives an excellent idea of Pfeffer's effectiveness in the pinches.

He would have had a shutout but for the fact that Johnny Lavan fumbled Olson's grounder in the ninth inning. However, Jeff didn't mind that inasmuch as Lavan had made two excellent stops previously which had averted dangerous situations. Hornsby also made a good stop of High's apparent hit over second in the seventh.

Why Robinson Protested.

The play upon which Robinson says he will base his protest occurred in the third inning. Deberry opened it with a single through Stock and was sacrificed to second by Shriver. High walked and Janvrin beat out a hit to Lavan which filled the bases. Tom Griffith lined to Flack and Deberry attempted to score after the catch.

He reached the plate before Flack's throw. Ainsmith was kneeling on the right field side of it and covering part of the plate with his knees. However, there was plenty of space for Deberry to touch, but he simply made a stab at it and ran to the Brooklyn bench.

Ainsmith, who was waiting for Flack's throw, did not know that Deberry had missed the plate until Fournier yelled for him to tag the Brooklyn catcher. Eddie chased half way to the Dodger bench and tagged him, whereupon Klem waved him out.

Uncle Wilbert has another identical protest up with the league at this time involving a play at the Polo Grounds, where Earl Smith is alleged to have blocked the plate when he did not have the ball in his possession.

New Champion Took the Lead From the Very Beginning, Opened a Cut Over Opponent's Eye, Closed One Optic and Gradually Battered the Former Titleholder Into Submission.

By Bert Igoe,
The Post-Dispatch Eastern Boxing Authority.

NEW YORK, July 11.—It can be done. Joe Lynch entered the Hall of Ring Immortals, by regaining his lost bantamweight title from Johnny Buff at the New York Velodrome, last night.

After receiving an unmerciful beating the towel was tossed into the ring to save Buff, six seconds after the fourteenth round started, when Buff was knocked down with a left hook to the jaw.

The end of the little champion was as dramatic as it was pathetic. Buff had taken a sickening thumping. Bloody from a badly cut mouth and with his left eye almost closed, he arose weary and hopelessly beaten to answer the fourteenth bell.

Seconds Toss in Towel.

The punch sent Buff sprawling on the broad of his back. Game to the core, the brave little fellow arose without accepting a merciful count. As he spread his wobbling pins under him, Doc Bagley, acting as his chief second, because of an injury to his manager's arm, tossed a towel into the ring. It fell unnoticed by Patsy Haley, the referee, or the fighters.

Bagley scrambled pell-mell after it, and as Lynch set for the punch that would unquestionably have won back his title with a knockout, Bagley plucked the towel from the floor and flung it between the fallen king and the king to be.

The towel, strangely enough, fluttered down about Lynch's shoulders like some great white bird of victory. Bagley rushed between the men and taking the battered Buff in his arms, said to Haley: "It's all over, Patsy, we've had enough."

Haley turned to Lynch and started to lift his gloved hand as a taken of victory. The overjoyed new champion saved him the trouble. He threw both hands above his own head and let out an Indian war yelp that must have rattled every dish in the West Side pantries.

Then Joe, he of the immortals; he that had regained a kingdom once lost, was swept off his feet by the tide of near-maniacs that rushed to call him friend and champion.

Buff Beaten From Start.

Buff was always a whipped man. It was the old Lynch that faced him last night. Johnny was cuffed and jabbed incessantly until Lynch flew at him with a viciousness of a hawk for the finish.

In the first bout of the night Willie O'Connell outpointed Murray Bressler in four rounds; in the next of six rounds, Harry (Kid) Brown of Philadelphia earned the judges' decision over Johnny Drummie.

In the semifinal the judge gave the decision to Frankie Jerome over Kid Wolfe after a sensational 12-round bout, in which Wolfe was floored nine times, six in the first round.

According to the count 16,293 persons paid admission and the gross receipts were $43,728.

English Criticise Davis Cup Picks

Despite the victory of the English, or, as it is termed in the draw, the British Isles, team in its first round match of the Davis cup tennis contests against the Italians, there seems to be some discontent in England over the team. S. Powell Blackmore, one of Britain's leading critics of the court game, writing in the Westminster Gazette and London Daily News of recent dates, has had some rather bitter criticism of the British Davis Cup Committee.

Blackmore's main criticism has been of the doubles teaming. He points out the lack of effort or system on the part of the committee in forming a doubles combination and is strong in his criticism of the lack of team concentration. "There were no trials this year to ascertain the current form for the Davis cup team," he says; "none can urge that recent records were not ignored by the selectors; none can justify the omission of J. B. Gilbert. Indeed who can believe that an honest attempt has been made for many years to get the best men into the places on our international team."

"Simultaneously with all this slovenly indifference and stupidity, we have two striking lessons of modern methods within our gates, of the Australian and Spanish teams working hard and taking matters seriously in order to do justice to their respective nations whose tennis honor lies in the keeping of a handful of men."

Nor is Blackmore very well pleased with the showing of the doubles combination of Frank Risely and A. R. F. Kingscote, despite the defeat of the Italians. "After a retirement of 16 years," he says in discussing the match with Italy, "Risely came back to international tennis. He played well, did all that was needed of him—as a score of youngsters between 20 and 30 years of age could have done against the Italian opposition.

"H. R. Barrett, A. W. Gore and A. D. Prebble, I am informed, and the men responsible for the selections—all of them of the old school; all quite out of touch with the present day players and their form.

600 BOYS ARE ALREADY ENTERED FOR MARATHON TO BE HELD ON JULY 19

The Letter Carriers of St. Louis have announced their batting order for the contest with the local Firemen in the preliminary game to be played July 19 at Sportsman's Park in connection with the annual Carnival and Baseball Game of the Tuberculosis Society. It follows: Lesyna, left field; Oventrop, center field; Burke, short stop; Shelly, third base; Mathias, second base; Neagle, first base; W. Meyer, right field; Strothkamp, catcher; Hefty, pitcher.

Manager Killenkoetter of the Letter Carriers says that the team consists of 26 A1 players and any of them could easily fill gaps necessary if such should occur. The Letter Carriers are keenly enthusiastic over this game and are predicting a victory over the Firemen. Postmaster Louis Alt has promised to pitch the first ball in this contest.

Entries for the boys' Marathon continue to pour in. The list now has passed the 600 mark and Chairman Lacy confidently expects the final figure to run close to 1000. The boys are especially good physical specimens, Lacy says, and he does not expect many eliminations at the start of the run because of failure to pass the required physical examination.

Hildreth Agrees To Let Grey Lag Meet Whiskaway

Race to Test Which Is the Greatest Horse in Training Practically Arranged.

By George Daley.

NEW YORK, July 11.—H. P. Whitney paid his first visit in several years to the Empire City track yesterday, to see Cresta win the Demoiselle Stakes of $5000, and his elation over the victory led him to express the opinion that Whiskaway, conqueror of Morvich in two races, was the best horse in the country.

Sam Hildreth, trainer and part owner of the Rancocas stable, demurred, as he holds Grey Lag in high esteem and out of it came a proposition from Mr. Whitney for a special sweepstakes which would bring the two horses together at Empire City on Saturday, July 22.

Mr. Whitney then hunted up James Butler, president of the Empire City Racing Association, to see if he would offer a purse for such a race and Mr. Butler was quick to respond, saying he would add $10,000 to a sweepstakes at one mile and a furlong with the understanding that both Whiskaway and Grey Lag go to the post.

Grey Lag's Owner Accepts.

Sam Hildreth lost no time in accepting for Grey Lag what amounted to a challenge from Mr. Whitney, and the latter made only one condition—the approval of Jimmy Rowe, his trainer.

The conditions call for a race at weight for age, which means that Grey Lag would carry 126 pounds to 114 on Whiskaway.

Grey Lag showed on Saturday when he overcame much ill luck to win the Empire City Handicap under 132 pounds, that he was right at the top of his form, and a meeting between these two horses would arouse the widest kind of interest.

It may be two days before a final decision is reached, as Mr. Whitney insists on having the approval of his trainer.

HAGEN AND KIRKWOOD TO APPEAR AT NORTH HILLS CLUB SUNDAY

Walter Hagen, British open champion, and Joe Kirkwood, the Australian trick shot expert, will give an exhibition here Sunday at the new North Hills Country Club, which is now under construction. Joe McGowan, secretary of the club, secured the consent of the two professionals to play here as the first stop on their world tour.

The exhibition Sunday will be open to club members and their guests. A temporary stand will be erected at th efirst tee to accommodate the crowd.

The course is not yet in readiness and the exhibition will be limited to tee and approach shots by the two men and trick shots by Kirkwood.

An open driving contest, in which St. Louis professionals and amateurs will be entered, is an added feature.

Americans Determined to Make Better Showing in Marathons

A. A. U. Laying Plans for Development of Distance Running in This Country—Move Afoot to Bar Foreign Runners From Major Races.

There is a growing determination on the part of long distance American runners to win the next Marathon event in the Olympic Games at Paris in 1924. Americans are not prepared to admit that they have less stamina than Finns, Esthonians, Swedes, Italians, and others who have been doing so well at the long distance game.

It has been pointed out, however, that Marathon runing has not been encouraged in this country in recent years, as it was in the past. Not only are there not enough races at the full distance and at properly graduated distances, but these races are not properly placed on the year's program so as to insure giving every aspirant a chance under careful supervision.

Another matter that has troubled those who even now are ready to prepare for the Paris event is the fact that at present the American long distance races are not restricted to bona fide American citizens. It is of no help to the game in this country to have the important American Marathons won by foreigners, who will be unable to represent this country in the Olympic Games. There is a definite movement under way, therefore, to limit these races to American citizens.

Hurts the Morale.

'In the last Olympics American runners were compelled to compete against foreigners who had already defeated them in races on this side of the water. The effect of this on the morale of the runners was unmistakable. They might have had more confidence in their own ability had they been meeting strange runners only, no matter how good. As it was, the Americans made an enviable record and had the event been a team affair there would have been a great deal more credit coming to this country.

Marathon running in this country is almost exclusively a poor man's game. Men who work in industrial plants during the day get out and put in an amount of work at night. They like to run in important races, in a lot of them, and to win first-class prizes. They like to feel that those who are charged with building up an American Olympic team are watching them closely and are keenly interested in their work.

The A. A. U. is already in possession of a plan for building up American Marathon runners in the course of the next two years that embodies many excellent suggestions. It may be that the plan will not be found feasible in its entirety, but as it stands it is well worth serious consideration, for it has been put together largely by Mike Ryan, who had charge of the Marathon runners on the last trip, and who had under his command a little body of hard workers who did better work when the real test came than anybody had expected of them.

The Giants scored 19 runs and 28 hits off three Pirate pitchers in the first game, but failed to save enough for the second, the Pirates coming from behind against Ryan to tie the score in the eighth and win in the ninth, 5 to 4.

Australian Promoters Offer Dempsey $100,000 To Box Wills in Sydney

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 11. WORD comes from Australia that a syndicate of sportsmen of Sydney will offer Champion Jack Dempsey $100,000 flat or a liberal percentage to fight Harry Wills, colored challenger, 20 rounds at the Sydney stadium at a date to be agreed upon. In addition the syndicate will furnish a side bet of $25,000 or more for Dempsey to cover.

Jack Munroe, manager of the stadium, is due in America now and may take the matter up with Dempsey while here.

White Sox Get Pitcher.

Bonham's star pitcher, "Ted" Blankenship, has been ordered to report to Chicago to join the White Sox. Blankenship, besides being a great pitcher, is a strong pitcher and has made a bright showing with the local club of the Texas-Oklahoma League this season.

Swimming Meet July 15.

The annual outdoor aquatic championships of the Pacific Northwest will be held at Victoria on July 15 and promise interesting developments. Coast experts predict confidently that a number of the men's and womens' records for the district will go by the board.

Opening of New Route to Yellowstone Park

OUT in Wyoming a new scenic route to the Yellowstone will be opened July 1, and the cost for automobile transportation in luxurious motor cars, with the world's greatest scenery thrown in, is less than you have to pay for riding over St. Louis boulevards in a taxi.

World travelers who attended the dedication ceremonies last Fall were unstinted in their praise and enthusiasm for the new route and proclaimed the scenery the most magnificent they had seen.

70 miles of the 150 is through the Shoshone Indian Reservation, winding along the picturesque Wind River, which is crossed and recrossed many times; wonderful Brooks Lake, with the world's greatest trout fishing; the Teton Mountains, considered the most majestic of all ranges in the Rocky Mountain Region; and the Jackson Hole and Lake Region, greatest big game country in the World.

STOCK PRICES UP; FRENCH EXCHANGE AND BONDS RALLY

NEW YORK, July 11.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"The restricted volume of business done on the Stock Exchange today gave the impression that neither buyers nor sellers were willing to make important commitments pending some definite developments in the labor troubles here or the financial situation abroad. However, the limited number of transactions which took place were for the most part at a price level higher than that which has prevailed during the past few days. In some of the issues which are the favorite media of speculative operations and in some of the specialties which enjoy only a restricted market, there were decidedly sharp advances. But the rank and file of stocks, both rails and industrials, were fractionally higher, the strength in the rails being particularly significant since the day's developments were not of a character to encourage buying. In the bond market the most striking feature was the rally in those foreign Government issues quotations on which were forced down during yesterday's session under the influence of heavy offerings. The French Government and cities issues, the Netherlands and Dutch East Indies all recovered substantially from yesterday's lows. Call money opened at 4 per cent and the rate was lowered to 3½ per cent during the last hour of trading.

Rally in Francs.

"The exchange market showed further irregularity today, with a strong rally in French francs and a break in drachmas, while sterling and the Scandinavian currencies were virtually unchanged. French francs moved up to 8.06½ cents for a gain of 17 points, and Belgian francs advanced 11½ points to 7.74½ cents in sympathy. Lire likewise advanced 5 points to 4.49 cents, and German marks at .21 of a cent were a point higher than on yesterday. Sterling at $4.43¾ was down an eighth of a cent, while the drachma at 2.60 cents was off 45 points. The rally in francs was attributed to the effects of the French Premier's speech of yesterday, which was interpreted as an effort to find a way out of the reparations tangle.

"The cotton market showed a tendency to rally from yesterday's setback. The Liverpool market opened firm, but all its strength was not reflected on this side. The July future at 21.87 cents made a net gain of 4 points for the day. The wheat traders put a bullish construction on the Government's latest crop estimate, which showed a decline of 38,000,000 bushels from the yield forecast in June. July wheat was, therefore, 1⅜ cents up at the opening, and at $1.16 was 3½ cents above the final price of Monday.

Index Number Higher.

"The monthly index number of wholesale commodity prices, compiled by Bradstreet's shows an advance of 1.7 per cent between June 1 and July 1. The rate of advance is practically the same as that of the preceding month. The rise in the commodities covered by this index has been continuous, with the exception of the months ending Dec. 1 and April 1, since June, 1921. The total increase in this 13-month period amounts to 14 per cent. Of 13 commodity groups nine registered increases during the past month, while the metal groups remained unchanged, and bread stuffs, livestock and chemicals and drugs showed decreases. The advance of 1.7 per cent shown by this index compares with the 2.2 per cent increase shown for June last week by Dunn's index, which is constructed on a somewhat different principle."

Wall Street News and Comment
—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Sharp recovery in the continental exchanges and in foreign securities was the chief incident in the financial situation today.

The stock market, while displaying no particular increase in interest, was decidedly stronger all around. It had been clear from Monday's proceedings that the German crisis had brought about no real liquidation, that it had involved some hasty professional selling out of stocks and that it had resulted in an increase in the short interest. But in the market today these matters were better appreciated, and the active trading element, perceiving the scarcity of offerings, bid up prices all through the list. In most instances the advance was small, the individual buying movements quickly running their course, but some of the specialty advances were notable, besides being well sustained. American Ice advanced on several bond rumors.

Reported indications that second quarter earnings of the leather companies will show improvement over the results for the first three months, furnished the motive for the buying of the leather and related stocks. Studebaker made a new high in anticipation of an extra dividend at the meeting toward the end of the month, and the pool in General Asphalt put that stock beyond its previous high limit for 1922. The advance in newsprint prices were back of the rise in International Paper. National Lead sold at its highest for all time. Interest was revived in the talked-of possibility of a melon-cutting, involving profits of the U. S. Cartridge Co., owned by National Lead.

Railway stocks were inclined to do better in the early dealings, but later in the day were comparatively neglected.

The afternoon stock market was a tedious affair. What activity there was had been pretty well used up during the first three hours. The trading toward the close was dull and listless, but in the market leaders the early gains were, as a rule, well maintained. In such specialty favorites as Studebaker, Gulf States Steel, American Ice and National Lead the best prices of the day were made in the last hour.

• • •

The Bond Market.

Following Monday's break in the foreign group, particularly in the French and Belgian issues, interest again today turned chiefly to the price movements in this section of the bond list. The recovery of continental exchange rates was accompanied by a check to the selling pressure against the foreign loans. French Government 7½s and 8s rose less than a point above the final prices of the preceding day, while Belgian 7½s and 8s advanced a point to 2 points from Monday's close. French municipals and industrial and railway bonds regained part of their losses. Sweden 6s were strong, and so were the Republic of Chile issues. Mexican 4s were reactionary. The United Kingdom 5½s continued in their even course, unaffected by the fluctuations in the other foreign bonds. The demonstration in the French and Belgian securities for a day or so had drawn attention to some extent from the United States Government war loans. The latter were stronger today. The market as a whole, however, was dull and there was no attempt to bid up prices in the railway and industrial sections.

Trading at a quarter point premium began on the Curb Exchange in new 5 per cent issue of New York Central series C refunding and improvement mortgage gold bonds. The offering of $25,000,000 was successfully floated today at 94½ by a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co.

The bonds will yield about 5.30 per cent. The proceeds of this issue will be used to retire the $25,000,000 7 per cent collateral trust bonds, which will be called for redemption on Sept. 1. New York Central debenture 6s held around their high of 105.

Railway bonds generally did little. Strength appeared throughout the list, with advances in such issues as Delaware & Hudson convertible 5s up over a point, B. & O. 6s and Penna. 5s. Missouri, Kansas & Texas adjustments were among the few which were inclined to sell off. Industrials were irregular. Punta Allegre 7s were a feature at a half point gain. Fisk Tire sinking 8s got to 106. United States Steel sinking fund 5s were strong and Consolidated Gas 7s got up about a point. Wickwire Spencer 7s fell a point.

Studebaker responded to the report circulated here yesterday that the directors at the next meeting were likely to declare an extra dividend of $5 in cash. This advance carried the stock into new high ground for the year.

• • •

London Buying Stocks.

One of the wire houses with London connections was credited today with the statement that London was in the market for American securities.

• • •

Financial Notes.

The issue of $25,000,000 New York Central 5 per cent bonds, proceeds from which will be used to retire the $25,000,000 collateral trust 7s of the company which have been called for redemption Sept. 1, were offered today at 94½ to yield 5.30 per cent by a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. and other New York bankers.

Dry Goods Market Review.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Cotton markets were quiet yesterday. Knit goods openings were slow in getting under way, owing to uncertainty over prices. Dress goods held their gains. Burlaps were quiet. Raw silk was lower, silk goods buyers believing the market too high.

GENERAL MOTORS, USING UNION ELECTRIC POWER

Use of Union Electric energy by St. Louis district industries, for light, power and industrial heating, increases every year, because Union Electric supplies energy cheaper and more dependably than they can produce it. For example, Chevrolet Division, General Motors Co., in its huge plant at Union and Natural Bridge Aves., St. Louis, uses more Union Electric energy for light, power and heating than the average modern city of 30,000 inhabitants.

This is one of the factors that make the dividends of Union Electric 7% preferred shares as dependable as bank interest. The price of the shares is $100 each for cash, $101 on ten monthly payments. Every dollar invested, on either plan, earns 7%, paid by check every three months.

Come to Room 201, Union Electric Bldg., 12th and Locust Sts., or ring Main 3220 and let us send a salesman for your order.

Wheat futures closed strong on the Merchants' Exchange, with corn also higher. Talk of rain interfering with harvest and reported embargoes on wheat loading were factors in the rise.

In the local grain market there was active milling demand at 3c to 5c higher prices. There was good clearance. Cash corn was quiet and steady to ½c higher. Cash oats were in fair demand and steady to ½c higher.

Opening prices of all grains were higher. July wheat being quote $1.10, September wheat $1.10, December wheat $1.13¼@¾. July corn 61c, September corn 63¼c and December corn 62⅝c.

Strong Liverpool market, the latter closing 3¼d higher; steadier foreign exchange market, the Government crop report, wet weather and the rail strike were factors in the early session. Corn was affected by wheat despite the beneficial effect of rain.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Wheat exhibited much strength. While the crop report was construed both bullish and bearish, it received but little consideration as a market factor. Heavy rains in the Southwest are delaying harvesting and embargoes against grain loading in sections of the Southwest because of the strike were factors which caused nervousness among short sellers and induced much covering in the current month. The strength in the July led to covering by shorts in the deferred months. About midsession the closing Liverpool cable showed wheat futures 3d to 3¼d higher and there were reports of arrangements having been made by the German Government to make at least partial payment of reparations, and this caused further buying. Some reaction was noted toward the last on realizing sales. Spring wheat crop is making favorable progress. Country offerings of wheat to arrive were light. Shipping demand was slow. The higher cables would indicate that foreigners are becoming a little anxious over supplies.

Wheat market closed strong, 2⅞c to 3½c higher; July, $1.16; September, $1.14⅛ to $1.14¼; December, $1.16⅝ to $1.16½.

Corn showed strength because of the covering by shorts. At an advance of 1c from yesterday's close there was heavy selling by longs for profits. Cash houses bought against sales to go East. Weather was ideal for the growing crop, with further precipitation noted in sections where needed. Shipping demand for corn was good and it looked to some as if the rail strike is making Eastern distributers anxious.

Corn closed ⅞c to 1⅛c higher; July, 62⅛c; September, 64⅝c to 64¾c, and December, 64½c.

Oats followed the trend of other grains. The Government report was bullish and this caused short covering. Offerings were tight. Shipping demand was good. Exporters wanted offers of heavy oats.

Oats were ¾c to 1c higher; July, 35⅛c; September, 37¾c; December, 40⅞c.

Lard and ribs closed 27½c to 32½c higher.

INCREASED HOG DEMAND ON STRIKE SITUATION

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., July 11.—Today's estimated receipts: Cattle and calves, 6000; hogs 11,000; sheep, 6000; horses and mules, 100.

CATTLE—A moderate Tuesday offering against found active sale at generally steady to strong prices. Butcher yearlings, in some cases, showed a 15c to 25c advance. The bulk of consignments graded medium to fair in quality. The top, $10.25 per cwt., was paid for a load of yearlings steers averaging 1003 lbs. Veal calves—The market was on a 25c to 50c advanced basis. The top was $9.50 and $8.75 to that figure took most of the other better kinds.

Quotations: Native beef steers, high $10.25, low $6, bulk $7.75 to $9.25; butcher yearlings, high $10.25, low $4, bulk $7.50 to $9.25; butcher cows, range $4 to $7; butcher cows, bulk $4.50 to $5.75, canner and cutter cows, range $2.50 to $3.75; beef and bologna bulls, bulk $4.50 to $5.

HOGS—Receipts fairly generous in quantity and quality again good. The railroad strike has had the effect of stimulating the demand of Eastern killers, who seem anxious to acquire hog supplies. Market opened active and 5@10c higher. This soon developed to a 10@15c advance. Early top, $11, but just prior to noon $11.10 was paid. Bulk of the hogs cleared from $10.90 @11. Pigs again in light supply and sold fully steady, the best clearing from $10.25 @10.60. Packers were forced to follow the advance. Big, heavy hogs that were difficult to move yesterday were 10@15c higher, clearing at $10.65@10.75. Rough sows sold mainly at $8.75.

SHEEP—Another right good supply was received and the market was about 25c lower than the best time Monday morning, or close to steady with the late trade Monday on lambs. Sheep sold as well as any time Monday. Shippers paid $13 for several loads of lambs, but the packers did not go above $12.75. Buyers sorted the lambs pretty close. Sheep sold for slaughter at $6@6.50, if not too heavy, while the heavy ewes went at $3@3.50, choppers and bucks $2@2.50, canners 50c as a rule.

HORSES AND MULES—Fresh receipts today were estimated at 100 head, bringing the total for the two days to 342 head, a comparatively light supply. About 60 horses were cleared at auction Monday and a like number of mules sold out of commission alleys. Trade continues steady in both departments.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, July 11.—The raw sugar market was quiet early today, and while spot Cubas were unchanged at 5.05c for centrifugal, July shipment was 1-32c lower on sales of 14,000 bags to operators and 3 15-32c cost and freight, equal to 5.08c for centrifugal.

Raw sugar futures were generally easier owing to the continued liberal offerings in the spot market. At midday prices ruled about 1 to 2 points lower except July, which was 2 points higher on covering.

No changes were reported in refined sugar. Fine granulated was listed at 6.50c to 6.60c, with a good inquiry for prompt shipment.

Sugar futures closed easy; approximate sales, 21,800 tons. September, 3.41c; December, 3.44c; March, 3.23c; May, 3.30c.

Abandon Cotton Acreage Data in August.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Publication in the August cotton crop report of the Department of Agriculture of information on the abandonment of cotton acreage up to July 1, is required under a resolution by Senator Heflin, Democrat, Alabama, adopted today by the Senate. The resolution recited that the boll weevil and other causes had resulted in abandonment of much cotton acreage and the acreage statement is called for next month instead of next December as usual.

1922 Crop Forecast

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Crops in general promise better harvests this year than their average for the last five years, forecasts of the Department of Agriculture based on July 1 conditions indicate. Bumper crops of white and sweet potatoes and tobacco are forecast. The production of wheat, corn and oats acreages this year range from 1 to 22 per cent larger than those of 1921.

Corn acreages are increased this year in most of the corn belt states, but in the cotton states decreases are shown. In Iowa, largest corn producing state, there is a 2 per cent decrease, and in Missouri a 3 per cent decrease. The crop in general made good progress to July 1, except in the Southeast, where it has been neglected for cotton. Growth has been slow east of the Mississippi, but stands are good and fields fairly well cultivated. Farther west rapid growth has been made.

Severe damage has been reported from heat waves and hailstorms in Kansas; from drouth, high temperatures and winds in Nebraska; from shriveling in Oklahoma, and from black chaff and take-all in some sections. Wheat remaining on farms July 1 is 31,641,000 bu, or 25,000,00 bu less than stocks a year ago.

The 19 leading crops have a total area of 341,753,000 acres this year, compared with 345,140,000 acres last year, a reduction of about 1 per cent, due principally to winter wheat and oats.

Winter Wheat Production.

The condition July 1 and production forecast of winter wheat by principal producing states follow: Pennsylvania, condition 92 and production, 25,464,000 bushels. Ohio, 85 and 40,101,000. Indiana, 83 and 32,046,000. Illinois, 83 and 47,259,000. Missouri, 79 and 40,715,000. Nebraska, 71 and 50,661,000. Kansas, 72 and 109,447,000. Oklahoma, 63 and 30,163,000. Colorado, 80 and 20,053,000. Washington, 67 and 23,677,000.

Spring Wheat Production.

The July 1 condition and forecast of production of spring wheat by principal producing states follow: Minnesota, 84 and 30,119,000. North Dakota, 89 and 93.-

STEADIER TONE TO COTTON MARKET AT NEW YORK

NEW YORK, July 11.—Yesterday's sharp decline was followed by a steadier tone in the cotton market during today's early trading. Better Liverpool cables than expected and the steadier ruling of foreign exchange seemed to create rather a more favorable sentiment as to European affairs and there was also buying on prospects for unsettled showery weather in the Southwest. The market opened steady at an advance of 3 to 7 points and soon showed net gains of 10 to 12 points with October selling at 21.94 and Dec. 21.78. Liverpool, New Orleans and local traders were buyers on the advance which met scattered Southern selling and some further liquidation.

There was active or general buying, but recent sellers showed a disposition to cover, owing to the absence of any further heavy liquidation, and prices were generally steady. October contracts worked up to 22.17c and December to 22c, or about 30 to 35 points net higher. Reports that Southern spot markets were not fully following the recent decline in futures probably helped the tone.

There were reactions during the early afternoon on favorable detail weather reports with October selling off to 21.98 or about 19 points from the best. Offerings were not heavy, however, and the midafternoon market was steady with active months ruling from 20 to 25 points net higher.

St. Louis Spot Cotton.

New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, July 11.—Spot cotton quiet and unchanged. Sales on the spot, 138; to arrive, 200; low middling, 21.50c; middling, 22c; good middling, 23c. Receipts, 2249; stock, 121,323.

The New York Central Railroad Company

REFUNDING AND IMPROVEMENT MORTGAGE 5% GOLD BONDS, SERIES C

Dated October 1, 1921 — Due October 1, 2013

Interest payable April 1 and October 1 in the City of New York

Redeemable, as a whole but not in part, at the option of the Company, at 105% and accrued interest, on, but not before, October 1, 1951, or on any interest date thereafter, on three months' notice.

Coupon Bonds in denomination of $100 (not registerable) and in denominations of $1000 and $500, registerable as to principal. Fully registered Bonds in denominations of $1000 and authorized multiples thereof. Coupon and registered Bonds interchangeable.

The issuance of these Bonds has been authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission

Guaranty Trust Company of New York, Trustee

A. H. Smith, Esq., President of The New York Central Railroad Company, has summarized as follows his letter to us describing this issue:

The proceeds of these Bonds will be applied to the retirement of the $25,000,000 of 7% Collateral Trust Bonds of the Company, which Bonds will be called for redemption on September 1, 1922.

The Refunding and Improvement Mortgage Bonds are secured by a direct mortgage on all of the railroad owned by The New York Central Railroad Company, the main line of which, extending from New York City to Chicago, is one of the trunk lines of heaviest traffic in the United States.

For the last seven years (i. e., since consolidation with the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railway), the Company's net income, after deducting rentals and miscellaneous income charges, averaged $58,001,400 per annum, as contrasted with $24,057,985 average annual interest charges on mortgage and other secured debt. Net income in 1921, after deducting rentals and miscellaneous income charges, amounted to $63,090,362 as compared with $27,825,969 interest charges on mortgage and other secured debt. The Company's net railway operating income for the first five months of 1922 amounted to $20,190,353, as compared with $11,775,742 for the corresponding period last year, an increase of 60%. Inasmuch as the proceeds of this issue are to be used to retire existing debt carrying a higher rate of interest, the issue of these $25,000,000 Bonds will reduce the Company's annual interest charges. The average interest rate on the Company's mortgage debt, including the present issue and $480,161,000 underlying bonds, is approximately four per cent.

Since January 1, 1915, the Company has added to surplus approximately $80,000,000 from current income after payment of dividends on its stock. The Company has additional resources in the undistributed earnings of subsidiary properties, its proportion of the undistributed surplus earned by five principal steam railway subsidiaries during the last seven years amounting to more than $44,000,000.

The outstanding securities junior to the Refunding and Improvement Mortgage Bonds include $105,500,000 Debenture Bonds and $249,597,355 par value of capital stock. For every year since 1869, dividends have been paid at the rate of at least four per cent per annum; since 1900 the rate has been not less than five per cent per annum.

In the opinion of counsel, the Refunding and Improvement Mortgage Bonds are a legal investment for savings banks in the States of New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut and New Jersey.

THE ABOVE BONDS ARE OFFERED FOR SUBSCRIPTION, SUBJECT TO ISSUE AS PLANNED AND TO THE APPROVAL OF OUR COUNSEL, AT 94½% AND ACCRUED INTEREST, TO YIELD APPROXIMATELY 5.30%.

Subscription books will be opened at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., at 10 o'clock A. M., July 11, 1922. The right is reserved to reject any and all applications, and also, in any case, to award a smaller amount than applied for. The sum due on allotments will be payable at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., in New York funds, the date of payment to be specified in the notices of allotment, against delivery of temporary Bonds, exchangeable for definitive Bonds when prepared.

New York Central Railroad Company Ten-Year 7% Collateral Trust Bonds, due September 1, 1930, with all unmatured coupons attached, will be accepted in payment at 105% and accrued interest to date of payment on allotments.

Illinois Central Railroad Company

TO ALL ILLINOIS CENTRAL SYSTEM SHOPMEN:

On June 14th I addressed a communication to you in which I appealed to you to cast your vote against the proposed strike. Since that time the strike has been called by your leaders, and some of you have left your positions, while others have remained steadfast. I feel that the time has arrived when I should make clear to those of you who have left your positions, as well as those of you who have remained, the position of the Illinois Central System with reference to this entire matter.

In my letter to you of June 14th I enumerated the three things which your leaders proposed to have you strike against; namely, (1) contracting of shop plants to outsiders, (2) the order of the United States Railroad Labor Board relating to rules and working conditions, and (3) the order of the United States Railroad Labor Board establishing rates of pay effective July 1st.

The question of contracting shops to outsiders is not a part of the controversy so far as you and the management of the Illinois Central System are concerned, because this railroad system has not contracted any of its shops to outsiders. The question involved in the matter of rules and working conditions and the order establishing rates of pay effective July 1 are the only ones at issue. They are not questions between you and the Illinois Central System management. They were decided by the United States Railroad Labor Board and those of you who are out on strike are striking against lawful decisions of a branch of the United States Government.

It goes without saying that the public welfare cannot permit the revocation of a decision of a governmental agency under a threat of the use of force. No patriotic citizen would expect such a thing to be done, or would have it done. We believe that we have the best government in the world, but you will all agree with me that it would not long so remain if its institutions could be over-ridden and set aside in the manner sought by those who are contending against the lawful decisions of the United States Railroad Labor Board.

The management of the Illinois Central System believes that those of you who are out on strike have been misled. It bears no feeling of hostility toward those who left its service. To those who have remained loyal it acknowledges a debt of gratitude. It feels that it has a valuable asset in its old employes, and it is eager to hold them together. It believes, that if those of you who are out will calmly analyze the issues upon which you are striking, your better judgment will assert itself and you will return to your positions. I sincerely invite you to return. Moreover, I earnestly advise you to pursue that course.

Those who report for duty not later than 11:59 p. m., Monday, July 17, 1922, may do so with the resumption of full seniority and pension rights and will be treated as if their service had been continuous. Those returning after that time, if accepted, will rank as new employes.

I trust that those of you who are out will consider this matter seriously and that your action, whatever it may be, will turn out to be for your own best interests, as well as the best interests of your families and those dependent upon you for a living.

I ask those of you who are striking to bear in mind that you accepted the decisions of the United States Railroad Labor Board when they were favorable to you, and that the Illinois Central System accepted those decisions which were unfavorable to it. Let me also again remind you that since December, 1917, you have received three general increases in wages and that your hourly rates of wages in effect at present, as fixed by the United States Railroad Labor Board, are from 40 to 113 per cent higher than in 1917, as follows:

Machinists, boilermakers and blacksmiths	70c	50c	40%
Helpers, various classes	47c	29½ to 32½c	45 to 59%
Coach carpenters	70c	40c	75%
Freight-car carpenters	63c	35½c	77
Car repairmen	63c	29½c	113%

Upon reflection, I believe that you will be broadminded enough to accept the recent decisions of the United States Railroad Labor Board which you consider unfavorable. A long drawn out contest would mean losses and suffering not only for you and your families, but also for the public. We should all recognize that the public interest always rises above the interest of the railroad or of its employes.

None of us is fortunate enough to have issues affecting his life always decided in his favor. The principle of "rule or ruin" invariably has led to disaster. It can have no other ending. The wisdom of the principles of "give and take" and "live and let live" have been fully demonstrated. Those are the principals upon which we desire to conduct this railway system for the benefit of the public, the employes and the owners.

The management of the Illinois Central System is under obligations to serve the [illegible] with uninterrupted transportation and under any conditions which may arise it must faithfully discharge that obligation.

I ask that you accept this letter in that same friendly spirit in which I address you, free from any feeling of hostility or censure for anything that has been said or done in regard to this unhappy affair.

FROG COMPANION OF INVALID JOINS IN WITH PHONOGRAPH

LANCASTER, Pa., July 11.—The Lancaster Examiner-New Era, which recently told of four shoats as companions for a 2-year-old boy, discovered a musical frog, the pet of an invalid woman who hasn't been out the house for 30 years. The account follows:

"Mrs. Simon Rinear, of Quarryville, who has been an invalid for more than 30 years and during all that time has not been out of her house, has quite an interesting pet. It is a frog that is constantly by her side. She has had it for three years.

"Previous to getting it, she had goldfish, and his 'frogship' now occupies the former's quarters. He has a good voice and is quite a croaker, especially when the phonograph is in operation, during the running of which he croaks all the time, apparently having an ear for music."

BIRDS UNDAUNTED BY HOSE

Orchardist Hoped Robins Would Think They Saw Snakes.

MIDDLEPORT, O., July 11.—In vain a Rose Hill resident tried to keep robins and catbirds out of his well-filled cherry trees. Finally he cut up the lawn hose into sections and put them through the trees in such a way as to resemble snakes.

He admits that the birds come even more freely now, eat the fruit and then wipe their bills on the hose.

What Can You Do With Bromine?
Have you the will and the resources to take an almost unlimited source of supply and develop it to your profit?
The War Department will sell the foundation for a big and profitable chemical industry.
A Brine Plant Complete By Sealed Bid, July 31, 1922
Plant was operated for the Chemical Warfare Service when quantities of bromine, calcium, chlorine and magnesium were extracted from the brine produced.
Situated in Midland County, Michigan, seven miles from Midland and about 120 miles north of Detroit. The best locality in the United States for brine in which bromine exists. Portions of the property are adjacent to the Saginaw-Ludington branch of the Pere Marquette railroad.
This property comprises all the land, buildings, wells, machinery and fixtures appertaining to the Government-owned brine plant at Midland, Michigan. The land consists of 23 tracts, containing an aggregate of 42.74 acres. On this land there have been drilled 17 brine wells, 14 of which are producing above the average.
Payments, 10% with bid, 30% on award, balance in two years, deferred payments to bear interest at not less than 5% per annum.

Distribution Service and Agriculture
OVER 10 great agricultural states of the Middle West, the far-flung distribution system of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is rendering an essential service to 30 million people.
The immense value of this service may be visualized when it is known that more than one-half of the farms in the states served are equipped with automobiles. The Census Bureau report on this point is as follows:

Indiana	46.4%
Illinois	53.0%
Michigan	40.2%
Wisconsin	49.6%
Minnesota	57.1%
Iowa	73.1%
Missouri	31.0%
North Dakota	56.7%
South Dakota	69.4%
Kansas	62.0%
Average	53.8%
Average for U. S.	30.7%

In other words, the need for gasoline and lubricants, in percentage per farm, in the states served by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is nearly twice that of the United States as a whole.
On the farm, petroleum products are an absolute necessity. The farmer is preoccupied with his task—the mighty task of raising food for the world. He must have petroleum products when and where he needs them.
The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is prepared to give a dependable, always-on-the-job service which the exigencies of farming demand. 6600 tank wagons are in operation this summer of 1922. These tank wagons make deliveries to the farmer's door. When necessary they serve him in the field—at his work. They reach him at dependable intervals and serve him with dependable products. Only a vast, centrally administered organization could render this effective type of service.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls, or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity, when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

H. W. Y.—The 50c piece dated 1795 is worth 75c to $1.25.

T. F.—Oscar Vitt, formerly third baseman for the Bostons, is now with the Salt Lake City team.

N. V. S.—We have no information concerning stockholders' names in the company mentioned.

A. R.—"Also Ran" describes the animals that did not run first, second or third in the race and is not the name of a racer.

DISCHARGED SAILOR.—If you are not satisfied that the amount of your bonus sent you is correct, inquire of the Bonus Commission, asking them why you have not been given the full amount.

TRANSPLANTED.—Write the Agricultural Editor, College of Agriculture, Columbia, Mo., for copies of pamphlets on care of poultry, dairy products and methods of canning and preserving.

RUBY.—People born during the time of July 22 to Aug. 22 are supposed to be under the sway of Leo, the sign of the Lion and their nature, personality and desires are therefore governed by this sign. Some magazines have stories and articles on the signs of the zodiac. Books can be purchased at the shops treating of this subject.

L. R.—The following are some suggestions for the paper wedding or second anniversary: The house can be decorated with paper in many attractive ways—pretty colored paper shades can be made for all the lights, paper doilies used for service and paper napkins. For the center table decoration instead of real flowers use paper flowers, tablecloth of paper. For entertainment, large mottoes containing paper caps may be distributed. These should be worn and with their assumption a character impersonated by each wearer appropriate to the headgear. The guesses as to impersonations should be recorded in paper booklets and the person most successful would receive a prize of a book or any paper trifle.

X. Y. Z.—Your child's disposition will depend entirely on the proper training at this time. His age is the most difficult to manage for the reasoning powers are not yet developed. Great patience in explaining right and wrong and taking the time to teach him right, is your part, also the care of his health. Children of 2½ years of age need very regular hours, good wholesome food, daily baths, at least a two-hour nap a day and a regular early bed hour at night. All this will help to make him happy and when he is mischievous, it will be play, not naughtiness. If you maintain system in your household duties, your nerves will not be tired and you will have more time to devote to his training.

LEGAL INFORMATION.

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

FRANCES.—You do not need a license to fish within the city limits, but if you fish in the river outside of the city limits you will need a license.

F. V.—You can sue the man for whom you worked for the difference between 40c an hour and 45c an hour. Consult a lawyer or go to a Justice of the Peace in the county.

ANXIOUS.—The stepdaughters are not entitled to anything from your fathers' estate, unless he made a will leaving it to them. The estate should be settled in September. You should consult a lawyer regarding your share.

WORRIED.—The company can sue you on the contract, but as you have not accepted the books, they cannot recover the full $49.50, but only the profit which they would have made. We advise you to settle with them on that basis.

BIG BOY.—If you signed a contract you are liable for the balance of $50. You should notify them that you wish to stop the lessons, and, if they sue you, you will then only have to pay the profit which they would have made on your contract.

DAILY READER.—You can force the bank to sell the property and settle the estate. If their delay has been willful or negligent, without good cause, you could sue them for any depreciation in the market value of the property. You should consult a lawyer in whom you have confidence.

INNOCENT.—The prisoner will have to be pardoned by the Governor. He should have his friends, if he has any, and relatives, take up the matter with the Pardon Board again, giving the board proof of his innocence. If that fails, they should appeal to the Governor.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnoses or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

CHUBBY.—White spots on the finger nails are due to general nutritional disturbances, nervous affections or injuries. Discontinuance of manicuring the nails will often stop the production of the white spots frequently seen on the nails of young women, which in these cases is most likely due to the friction caused by excess polishing.

BILLIE.—Rub the scalp daily with a good bristle brush. Keep the hair and scalp clean, using sapo viridis as a shampoo. The following is an excellent stimulating lotion: Resorcin, 1 dram; beta naphtol, 1 scruple; tincture cinchona compound, 3 drams; spirits myrciae, enough added to make 6 ounces. Apply this to the scalp twice daily.

R. F.—The only use for oil of chenopodium, as far as we know, is for the lumbrocoid or round worm. For this form it is most efficient. It should be taken three times a day for two days, followed by a brisk cathartic. An excellent combination for the expulsion of the round worm is 10 drops of oil of chenopodium and a teaspoon of fluid extract of senna and spigelia. It may also be administered in castor oil. When using remedies of this character it is well to go on a very light diet for 24 hours preceding.

D. W. S.—There are two forms of diabetes, diabetes mellitis and diabetes insipidus. In the former there is sugar, in the latter there is not. The earliest and most notable symptoms of the mellitis form are thirst and excessive secretion of urine containing sugar. Dryness of the throat, dryness and harshness and itching of the skin, later a voracious appetite, with a loss of weight and strength. Languor and weakness are characteristic. Eczema and dyspeptic symptoms may also occur. The urine is tested chemically, copper being the usual reagent used.

Women Dies at Age of 102.
By the Associated Press.

PEORIA, Ill., July 11.—Mrs. Sophronia Pettit, 102 years old, one of the oldest women of the State, died at Kewanee, near here this morning. Mrs. Pettit was born in Houghton, Ontario, Canada, July 15, 1820, and had been a member of the Baptist Church for 88 years.

The Gladdest Spot

Up there in the Northern Rockies there are fifteen hundred square miles of breathing room—loafing space; forests, sparkling streams, waterfalls, mountain lakes, slow-moving glaciers, majestic mountain peaks and myriads of wild flowers.

Hotel, chalet, motor, launch and horseback service—one to seven-day trips.

Better plan to go this summer. Vacation costs are down, remember. Take the Burlington (Oriental Limited—a through train to the front gate). 'Twill do you a world of good. See us about including Colorado, without added rail cost.

SEVEN CHILDREN GIVE SHOW FOR MILK FUND

Proceeds, With Four Other Contributions, Raises Total to $1709.56.

CONTRIBUTIONS.

Previously acknowledged	$1649 36
Show, 4543 Athlone avenue	52 50
Lasater Buell, 3537 Lindell	70
Arthur Kendall Muchmore, 3416 Park avenue	3 00
Mrs. S.	2 00
In memory of Max Judd	2 00
Total	$1,709 56

Seven children who reside in the neighborhood gave a show at 4543 Athlone avenue last week and earned $52.50 for the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund. The affair ranks among the highest in point of returns of the amateur shows which have been given this season and the children who took part are to be commended for their enthusiastic efforts in behalf of the poor babies. The following were workers: Eloise and Dorothy Knapp, Marsaleen McMichael, Marguerite Sanders, Ruth Kraft, Marie Berger and Marcella Niggeman.

Lasater Buell of 3537 Lindell boulevard planned a benefit for the Milk and Ice Fund but a summer trip interfered and he returned the tickets he had not sold and turned 70 cents in cash into the fund.

Three cash donations were received yesterday. Arthur Kendall Muchmore of 3416 Park avenue sent $3, the occasion being his eighth birthday. Arthur has given to the fund every year since his first birthday and is listed among the most consistent of Milk Fund supporters. "Mrs. S." sent $2, and $2 came from Mrs. Max Judd of the Buckingham Annex, who sent that amount "In memory of Max Judd."

RABBITS FOR SOUVENIRS

Pet to Be Given Away by Tuberculosis Society at Ball Game.

One rabbit was presented to the Tuberculosis Society of St. Louis last week to be given away with the souvenir programs at the annual baseball game and carnival July 19 at Sportsman's Park. This was a thoroughbred American Blue. Now the society has four rabbits. The other three arrived yesterday.

A litter of guinea pigs also has arrived and two singing finches have come. Other presents just donated are 12 orders for cleaning teeth. These came from St. Louis dentists to be given to persons buying souvenir programs.

Skull Fractured in Fall From Car.

Walter W. Montgomery, 56 years old, of 5152 Garfield avenue, a watchman, suffered a fractured skull at 7 o'clock last night when he fell while alighting from a Wellston car at 5200 Easton avenue with a basket of groceries in each hand. He was taken to the city hospital. The car was at a standstill at the time, the police reported.

Clever Youth Draws Cartoon Strip to Depict Great Joy in Successful Outcome of Ranger Campaign Activity.

GEORGE PALMER, 4518 Newberry Terrace

Not every boy who has earned a Free Ranger can employ the talent that is George Palmer's in describing the happiness that results from announcement of the award of a free bicycle. But we do not know of any boy or girl to whom a Ranger award has been made who has not "registered" joy. There is recognition, always, that the Ranger is a worth-while prize, and that an EARNED RANGER is not only a master bicycle, but a trophy of success to be depended on for service now and remembered in later years for its beauty, its service and its association with boyhood and girlhood activities.

What to Wear for Your Week-End Hike

Your Costume Should Be Light in Weight—Dark in Color

The Wrong Clothes Make Walking a Pain — The Right Ones Make It a Real Joy.

By MARGERY WELLS.

THIS is a sport in which everyone can indulge. You need no course, you must not invest in expensive equipment. All you have to do is to just start out and hike.

They may be only city streets or parkway roads that you choose to honor with your tramping activities. You may prefer to strike right out into the open country, but you will find that, if the clothes you decide to wear are keyed to the requirements of the occasion, you will be far happier.

There are certain sorts of clothes which are destined to make walking a pain, and certain others which lend so much assistance to the task that it becomes a veritable joy.

The things you wear must be light in weight and, preferably, dark in color, so that they will show no signs of dirt and dust, and at the same time will be mere feathers in the matter of carrying them about.

Of course, if you are walking for a day or more, when it is apt to blow up cold, then you have to prepare for some warmth, but there again be sure to have that extra covering of the lightest weight wool so that you will not wish you were dead through the long day when it has to be carried along as extra baggage.

The whole point about hiking is to eliminate weight and to make yourself as purely comfortable as possible. It is possible to look beautiful, too, under these circumstances, but surely, in this instance, you cannot make good looks by any means the primary consideration.

Knickers are the thing! In this line of sport they really do their best work and find their heartiest welcome among the girls who wear them. They leave the legs free for taking any length steps and they show no propensity whatever for getting in the way and delaying matters by any bulkiness.

Khaki Knickers.

The girl in the picture is wearing a pair of khaki knickers and, in fact, a khaki blouse to match. She is prepared to go out for several days with no pack to speak of and only her joy in living to carry along. Her clothes have become a minor quantity, as they should, and having settled that part of her problem, she is ready for anything.

Some girls are making up parties for hiking over the entire week-end, and they are reporting that nothing is more fun, especially since fashion and custom are permitting them to dress in ways that are not only comfortable, but good looking as well. They need not be afraid to regard themselves in the mirror before they start out and take a pride in the appearance they present. Then they are privileged to forget that pleasant idea of themselves by pushing it into the background as being quite all right and starting out on the weekly hike to find comfort and joy alone because of their clothes' fitness to appreciate these things.

Sweater a Necessity.

The choice of sweaters on the market just now leaves no room for any girl who is walking to be overburdened by extra covering. They come in all colors and styles and ways of knitting. And, nowadays, there is no reason for a girl to wear a sweater which is in the slightest sense unbecoming. Everything is knitted for each individual type, and every one of the soft, woolly jackets is good on some one of the female sex.

The sweater in the picture, for instance, is destined for that type of young woman who will never, under any circumstances, allow herself to be informally gowned. She insists, at all times, even when tramping, in looking as though she has just emerged from the proverbial bandbox. This outfit is composed of a gray and green striped sweater—one of those that is opened down the front and tied with a knitted all-green belt. Then there is a skirt of soft gray tweed with lighter gray threads run through it in larger blocks, and there is a shirt of tailored silk with those very precise and well made little frills that are mere suggestions of femininity on the otherwise mannish blouse.

There are certain girls who would not wear knickers. They just don't like the style—that is all. And they would do well to choose for walking something of this general character, so arranged that the sweater can be removed when the sun is hot and donned again when chilly breezes or rain take possession of the field.

Hats for Walking.

Your hat must be light, too, in weight, so that it will not in any way oppress the head. The one worn by the sweater girl is a fine example of a dress-up hat which does for all sorts of outdoor wear. Then there are the leghorn hats turned up before and behind, and there are wide shade hats if your eyes need some extra sort of protection against glare and sunlight.

Trimming for hats of this sort is taboo. Only a band of ribbon is anywhere nearly appropriate, and the softer the hat, the more suitable it is to rough treatment, the more you will love it as the season wears away.

Sandals are very popular for walking this year. If you like to walk without heels, try them. Many girls like them better than anything else. Then there are the rubber-soled walking oxfords where you can have a low or a higher heel to suit your own fancy. But be sure that they fit you superlatively well or you will live to declare that walking as a sport is the worst of all outdoor stunts. Your measure of happiness really lies with your shoes.

Desserts for Warm Weather

HOMEMADE ice cream makes a delicious hot weather dessert. Recipes for making same come with the freezer. Variations are produced by the addition of fruits, nuts, cereals or macaroons.

Fruit Ice Cream—Whatever fruit is selected must be thoroughly crushed to avoid its freezing too hard. Sweeten the fruit to taste and allow from one to two cupfuls of fruit to one quart of ice cream. If fruit juice is substituted, use one cup of juice to one quart of ice cream. Blend the fruit well with the cream and let it stand at least one hour for "ripening."

Nut Ice Cream—Nuts must be finely ground and added to the frozen cream when it becomes light and smooth. Sometimes the finely chopped nuts are merely sprinkled over the ice cream when serving it. Use one cup of nuts to a quart of ice cream.

Pistachio—To color cream a pale green, use pistachio flavoring and the nuts may be either pistachio or almonds; in either case blanched and finely chopped.

Bisque—Macaroons, nabiscos, cookies, cake or any preferred sweet wafers may be used for this. Grind the macaroons or substitute and allow one pound to one gallon of vanilla ice cream, to be added when cream is half frozen. To accent the natural flavoring sherry is added by some cooks, and before we heard of Volstead brandy and maraschino was a favorite flavoring both for bisque and fruit ice creams.

Cereal—A bisque ice cream with cereal is delicious. Toast shredded wheat, crush it and add one cup of these crumbs to the cream while it is hot. Almonds, crushed and browned, make a favorable addition. Grapefruit can be used in the same manner, and brown bread used likewise makes an appetizing brown bread ice cream. The cream should be cold before putting into freezer.

To preserve the full strength of the flavoring extract this should not be added while the mixture is hot.

Ice cream will freeze more quickly if the ice is broken up finely. Use about three bowls or scoopfuls of crushed ice to one-half scoopful of salt. The larger the proportion of salt the more rapid the freezing.

After-Dinner Tricks

No. 171—The Knot That Is Not.

This trick is very deceptive, as the knot is tied in an apparently genuine manner. The exact movements are shown by the diagram. Hold one end of the handkerchief in the fingers of your left hand. The important secret lies in bringing over the back of the left hand. By this process the handkerchief is held in place while the free end is pushed through the loop from the front, and not from the back as normally executed. When the hands pull on the ends the left hand comes out through the loop and the cloth is untied.

The Lover Who Lied

CHAPTER XXII.

Rayner Keeps His Counsel.

And this was the end of her wedding day • • • Roy leaned back in the cab with closed eyes. Rayner was beside her now. Suddenly he slipped an arm round her and drew her close to him.

"Poor little girl • • •" She began to cry then, without knowing why. She turned her face against his shoulder and sobbed broken-heartedly for a moment. She was nervous and unstrung; the strangeness of the day had got on her nerves.

Rayner did not speak to her, though he kept his arm tightly round her. Presently she sat up, drying her eyes.

"It's your fault I cried—if you hadn't said that" • • •

"If I hadn't said what?" he asked.

He laughed. "I shall call my wife what I please," he said. He lifted her hand with its new ring and kissed it. "Roy—what have you done with • • • with your other ring—David Scott's ring?"

He felt her little body stiffen in the circle of his arm. "Oh, that!" she said, after a moment, airly. "Oh, I haven't worn it for a long time—it was • • • it was too big."

"I see." His voice sounded rather apathetic. "Well, you are not to take mine off—you are never to take it off," he said.

"I shan't want to • • •" She laughed brokenly. "It's a funny sort of wedding day," she said again on the top of a sob.

Rayner's arms tightened about her.

"When we have our honeymoon, we'll make up for it all," he said.

"When!" she echoed with a little grimace. She leaned forward and looked at herself anxiously in the little strip of mirror at the side of the cab. "What a sight I look," she said impatiently.

She rearranged her hat, and brushed back her curls; Rayner watched her fondly, though to a disinterested onlooker it would have been patent that there was a sort of constraint in his face, and that there was something unhappy about the expression of his eyes.

They drove to a restaurant for tea. Roy cheered up a little. She chatted and laughed a great deal, but the tears were not far away; she was dreading the moment when she would be alone again. When it was time to leave to catch their train she clung to his hand for a moment.

"I've got to—got to go back—without you?"

He held her fingers hard. "Darling—it's only for a little while. I want to keep you much more than you can want to stay" • • •

"A little while!" she echoed. "Yes, but how long?"

His expression changed a little. "That depends on you," he said quietly. She looked away; she asked no more questions, and they drove to the station. She was very quiet now; she hardly spoke at all; but in the train she slipped her hand into his and kept it there rather childishly.

"When shall I see you again?" she asked once tremulously.

He smiled down at her anxious face. "Tomorrow—I'm going to take you to see Mrs. Ewing."

"And — and • • • after that, when shall I see you?"

He kissed her quivering lips. "I shall never be far away," he said. "You have only to send for me if you want me."

With that she had to be satisfied, but as the train puffed into Little Balstead the tears welled again to her eyes.

"You won't • • • you won't leave me for long, will you? Promise!"

He put his arms round her and kissed her once, a long kiss. "I shall have you with me forever—soon."

Then the train stopped, and Roy followed him on to the platform. Two men got out of the next carriage; one of them looked at Roy casually, then his face changed. He raised his hat. It was Gregory.

"I didn't expect to see you here; you are coming up to Mrs. Scott's of course."

"No." Rayner looked very unconcerned and self-possessed. "I met Mrs. Scott up in town and we traveled down together. If you are going up to Little Balstead there is no need for me to escort her farther. I go the other way; I am staying with the Ewings for a few days."

Roy's face whitened; she took a little step towards him and then stopped. The lover of a few moments ago seemed to have vanished; this man was once more the implacable Rayner she had known on the boat.

He held out his hand to her; he smiled faintly.

"I will say good-by for the present; we shall meet again soon, I hope."

She tried to answer, but no words would come. Her eyes looked scared. She dreaded being left alone with Gregory. The impulse came to her to ask Rayner to stay—to beg him to stay. After all, he was her husband; his place was with her. She was his wife; it was for him to look after her. But she only stood there silently and watched him walk away. Something of her old fear of him had come back again.

When Gregory spoke to her she followed him out to the car which Elsie had sent down to meet the train. She roused herself with an effort as they drove away.

"Miss Hillyard told me you were bringing a friend down from London with you," she said.

Gregory answered calmly.

"Yes, I had hoped to; but now he cannot come till tomorrow." He looked at her with unpleasantly narrowed eyes. "It is David Scott," he said deliberately. "Or perhaps I should say the man who wrote that letter I told you about; the man who calls himself David Scott. He will be here tomorrow."

CHAPTER XXIII.

A Midnight Visit.

ROY did not answer at once; she sat staring straight ahead of her, her lips set in a hard line, her face very white.

Suddenly she laughed.

"I don't believe you," she said shrilly. "I know what you are too well. You'd say anything to try and frighten me." She was looking at him now. "I simply don't believe you," she said again.

He shrugged his shoulders.

"It's easy to take that attitude. Please yourself as to whether you believe me or not. You will see tomorrow that I have spoken the truth." He looked down at her. "Of course, it was a put-up job, this meeting with Rayner today?"

"Yes." Her cheeks flamed suddenly. "Yes, it was," she said.

He bit his lip, but he answered evenly enough. "I shall have to have a little conversation with Rayner myself; if he is staying at the Ewings, we will ask him up to meet David Scott, shall we?"

Gregory laughed. "That upsets you, does it? Very well; it's your own fault. I gave you your choice; if you like to marry me"——

"Marry you! When you are supposed to be engaged to Elsie Hillyard!"

It was his turn to color now. He laughed nervously. "I'm not engaged to her; we are all liable to change our minds, Roy"—he caught her hand—"I care for you a thousand times more than I ever did for her, and you haven't got a penny to your name. I'll take you, in spite of everything; I'll take you through I know you through and through. I like a woman with spirit; I've never been so mad about a woman as I am about you. If you think Rayner's going to marry you, you're mistaken. It's your money he wants. I know these impecunious Colonials; I" • • •

Roy wrenched her hand free. "Oh!" she said, with a little shudder. "If you knew how I loathe you!"

The car was swinging in at the drive now; there was no time for more, but Gregory's face was ugly as he followed Roy into the house.

But at dinner he appeared very much as usual. He talked away to both girls; he was most attentive to Elsie.

"Mrs. Scott and I came back from town together," he told her easily. "Didn't you know? At least, perhaps I should say we came by the same train and met here at the station. Mrs. Scott was with a friend we crossed with on the boat—a man named Rayner. He is staying with the Ewings. It would be decent to ask him up to dinner one night, Elsie; I don't expect he has many friends in England."

"He wouldn't come," Roy struck in quickly. "At least"—her eyes fell in confusion—"you can ask him if you care to, of course," she said again.

"It is for you to ask him to your own house," Miss Hillyard said frigidly.

Roy turned scarlet. Gregory laughed.

"Yes; we do not always remember that this is your house, Mrs. Scott," he said, smoothly. "You must forgive me."

"I don't suppose I shall live here," Roy answered, recklessly. "It's too dull—I hate it. I don't think I shall be staying long at all."

Nobody answered. Afterwards, in the drawing-room, things were no better. Elsie buried herself in a book; Gregory sat down to write letters; Roy roamed about restlessly.

She would have given anything to go on to bed. She kept fingering the wedding ring, which she had taken off and hung round her neck, for that she would not have to explain that she had really been married that afternoon; it all seemed so unreal, like.

She wondered what Rayner was doing. She thought he might have managed to see her this one night, all nights. She went to the window and drawing aside the blind looked out into the darkness.

After a moment she let it fall and came back again to where Gregory sat. "How far do the Ewings live from here?" she asked.

He looked up. "About half an hour by the other side of the moor," he said. "Isn't that so, Elsie?"

She did not raise her eyes. She was conscious of Roy. More than once she had seen the little quick flame in Gregory's face as he looked at her. "I believe so," she said, coldly. "I believe they are not great friends of theirs, as a matter of fact. I don't think they care for me particularly." Gregory glanced at her. "David Scott was a great favorite of theirs. I believe he was!" there was a little silence, which Roy broke. "I believe he very often spoke of them to me," she said, defiantly.

"Other of them made any com-

She opened the window and leaned out to cool her hot cheeks. The world was very still and cool. Little Balstead felt somehow as if it were miles and miles from anywhere, and yet through the trees she could see lights from the village—the village where Sturdy Rayner was.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Old Mr. Trouble Lies in Wait

By Thornton W. Burgess

For every person, soon or late,
Old Mr. Trouble lies in wait.

—Peter Rabbit.

PETER RABBIT had forgotten all his good intentions. Yes, sir, he had forgotten them completely. You know that he hadn't intended to more than look at Farmer Brown's garden. Then Old Mr. Temptation had proved too much for him and Peter had tasted a cabbage leaf. After that he had thought of nothing but filling that big stomach of his.

Now he was in the lettuce bed and that lettuce tasted just as good as the young cabbage plants. Peter just ate and ate and ate. By the time he had filled his big stomach he had done a lot of damage. As he sat resting he noticed for the first time what a lot of harm he had done.

"I don't care," said Peter to himself. "I don't care. There is plenty left in this garden for Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy. I don't see why I haven't just as much right to these things as they have. Anyway, they won't know who took them. I'll rest a bit and then go back to the dear Old Briar-patch. Nobody but Boomer the Nighthawk will know that I have been here, and Boomer won't tell."

So Peter rested for a while and then began to explore the rest of the garden to find out what other good green things were growing there. He hopped this way and that way, nibbling a leaf here and a leaf there. It was so quiet and peaceful in that garden that presently Peter grew careless. He did now and then sit up to look and listen, but that was all. He was heedless of his steps. He felt so safe that he went where he pleased without looking out for trouble. You know it was night and so Peter had no fear of being discovered by Farmer Brown or Farmer Brown's Boy.

Now Old Mr. Trouble, the twin brother of Old Mr. Temptation, was lying in wait. Wherever you find Old Mr. Temptation you are sure to find Old Mr. Trouble somewhere near. Peter should have known that. He would have had he stopped to think. The trouble was he didn't think. People who listen to Old Mr. Temptation seldom do think.

By and by Peter came to a strawberry bed. That bed had been covered with an old fishnet to keep birds from stealing the berries. Of course Peter knew nothing about this net. In the darkness he didn't see it. He wasn't interested in that strawberry bed, but he did want to get across it. He wasn't looking for Old Mr. Trouble there. In fact, he wasn't looking at all. He started to hop across that bed. At the first hop he felt something queer clinging about his feet. That frightened him and he made a long jump, which took him right into the middle of that strawberry bed.

Old Mr. Trouble had Peter now. Yes, sir, Old Mr. Trouble certainly did have Peter. You see, Peter's feet slipped through the holes in the net and became entangled. Of course Peter at once began to kick and struggle, and the more he kicked and struggled the more entangled he became, and the more entangled he became the more frightened he became and the more he kicked and struggled.

Now a net is the worst thing in the world to kick and struggle in. Presently Peter was all wound up in that net. It was wound around him so that after awhile he couldn't kick. He could do nothing but lie there. Peter thought he had had bad frights in his life before, but never had he been so frightened as now. You see, he couldn't understand what had him. He thought it was a new and very terrible enemy. The very strangeness of this thing which had caught him added to his fright.

Old Mr. Trouble certainly did have Peter Rabbit and it was all because Peter had listened to Old Mr. Temptation.

Fashion News Notes

PARIS.—Plaid combined with rose medallions was most strikingly used in a frock seen at a fashionable restaurant here. The gown was typically a summer creation, light and airy, and the last word in daintiness; it looked, indeed, with its simple, straight lines, a good deal like a long, cool drink. The modiste had used lemon and white voile, the background being lemon and the white crossing it in enormous plaid squares. Scarcely more than a straight, loose sheath with accordion-plaited panels flowing from the hips, the frock had as its sole trimming six yellow worsted medallions, shaped like roses. These were placed very high on the bodice and very low on the skirt.

LONDON.—Flowers made of the tiniest feathers are used on the big crinoline hats so fashionable this summer time. If not of feathers the flowers often are made of narrow ribbon, taking on, it must be admitted, both shapes and colors or combination of colors which never entered Dame Nature's head. As long, however, as they entered the milliner's head, these posies are bound to bloom gaily on the wide brims. Frequently the flowers are the same shade as the hat, be it pastel or primary in tint.

PARIS.—You can always trust Paris to give its own distinctive touch to any fashion. No sooner had lace mitts begun to find favor as adjuncts to the almost sleeveless gown than Paris began to think up a new twist to this old style. The twist has been achieved. Parisiennes are tossing their lace mitts aside and substituting mitts of black velvet. These come down to the knuckles and go up above the elbows. They are not comfortable in hot weather, of course. But they are the style.

CORN CAKES

CHEMISTRY helped solve the war, and now there is beginning to appear an almost sensational way in which it is to help solve the peace. The new ideals to change the chemistry of blood; and, by so doing, change the character of the individual. For example:

"Youth is saturated with poisons in the blood. The social center has been moved from the church, the schoolhouse and the old-fashioned home to the cabaret and the confectionery. Go into any assembly and examine with critical eye the first hundred youths you see.

"Ninety per cent of them will show skin eruptions, puffed and swollen eyes and other evidences of blood poisoning. The mind quality is tainted accordingly.

"Not only the clearness of mind, the logical discernment, the keenness of vision—not only are these directly affected by the chemistry of the blood, but the moral judgment, the spiritual interpretation, and the life ambition are directly affected. Clean the poison saturation out of the blood of youth and you will thus profoundly change his entire character."

So a chemist, who is also a physician and philosopher, states his view of the central problem of youth. According to his view, it matters little what one eats so long as digestion, assimilation and elimination continue in a balanced metabolism. But when these once become unbalanced; whenever undigested materials are poured into the blood stream and the sewer system of the body—the liver, kidneys and porous system—whenever these fall behind and become clogged with impurities, the poisons return to the blood, beclouding the mind, dulling the fine sensibilities, smothering the conscience.

It is not at all a matter of common knowledge, and the youths themselves have not even begun to suspect the trouble, but the chief stumbling block in the way of moral and spiritual integrity of the young generation is the midnight meal of sweets and the half dozen irregular daily trips to the refreshment shop. Vitamines, calories, balanced diet—the fudge and cake indulgence of the great mass of our youth of today makes a contemptuous joke of all this pretended chemistry of food.

Parents and teachers are beginning, in some instances, to catch the idea of the deep significance of clearing out the impure blood, the overflow which results from ill-balanced eating and wrong bodily care. They are getting ready to attack the school problem—the problem of mind, morals, religion, and a high life ambition—they are about ready to go into the chemistry of diet and the chemistry of the blood as a direct step toward the transformation of youth.

Every youth who has dropped out of school is likewise poisoned in blood and mind quality.

Every youth who has this poison blood condition thoroughly removed by abstinence will show a quick tendency to return to school, and to get behind a high moral ambition of his own.

This simple treatment brings it out

In every woman's hair there is extra charm, extra beauty, which can be brought out by a new, simple treatment — a hairdresser's discovery.

Now it is possible for even the plainest woman to have more than usual attractiveness, even though her hair is straight, dull, lifeless—and full of dandruff.

The hairdresser's treatment

This treatment is more than just shampooing. For while shampooing with the proper preparation does make hair clean and soft—it can never end dandruff—it can never bring out all the hidden charms which make women truly lovely.

You will be surprised to see how quickly you begin to get results—how light and silky and full of life your hair becomes.

Second: Apply Wildroot Liquid Shampoo and rub to a rich, creamy lather. Rinse with clear warm water.

Third: Apply more Wildroot Liquid Shampoo, massaging lightly, and rinse three or four times. Dry thoroughly.

Fourth: Apply Wildroot Hair Tonic to the roots of the hair, massaging thoroughly with the finger tips.

Sport Salad

"I PLAYED LIKE A FISH."

WHEN Molla Bjurstedt Mallory,
Who never dreamed of losin',
Before a noble gallery,
Was neatly trimmed by Susan,
"I played just like a fish," said she,
"And saw my hopes diminish."
Which makes us think her ancestry
Instead of Norse is Finnish.

Remarks preceding the event
Were full of acrimony,
And Molla said 'twas her intent
To prove that Sue was phoney;
But when she lost the final set,
She never knew what struck her,
And flopping into Susan's net,
She faintly gasped for succor.

We'll have a welcome for Suzanne
Upon her next invasion;
She proved to be the better man,
At least on this occasion.
Though Molla played just like a fish,
As per her own admission,
She proved that she was Susan's dish,
When Sue was in condition.

QUITE SO.

We have never seen a fish play tennis, but we take it that it would stay away from the net as far as possible.

The Norse-American champ may have played like a fish, but she didn't seem to get along swimmingly.

MY FAVORITE STORIES
By IRVIN S. COBB

(One of a series of short funny stories by the celebrated American humorist which appear daily in the Post-Dispatch on this page.)

IN THE SAFETY ZONE.

A MAINE farmer with a reputation for frugality which was more than local drove up to the general store. He halted his team, dismounted from his wagon, entered and passed the time of day with those present. This formality concluded, he drifted over to the cooler and drank copiously of the ice water. One of the resident loafers furnished him with tobacco for his pipe and another provided a match. Then he picked up a handy bucket and went out to water his horses. Returning, he begged a daub of axle grease with which to anoint one of his wheels. This seemed to remind him that a tire was slipping, so he asked the proprietor to lend him a hammer for a few minutes. While the obliging storekeeper was searching his stock for a hammer, the visitor made a light but satisfying luncheon of cheese, sliced from the cube on the counter, a couple of soda crackers plucked from a handy barrel, and a few segments of dried apple.

After this, apparently, he could think of nothing else. He had mounted to his seat and was driving away when the storekeeper hailed him.

"Say, Bill," he called out, "if you should find, later in the day, that you've lost your purse, remember you didn't have it out while you was here!"
